J. J. NICHOLSON
d. ca 1866

Jean

THE REV. J. J. NICHOLSON.

We were no less grieved than surprised, yesterday, to hear of the death of the Rev'd J. J. Nicholson, late of Mobile, which occurred at San Antonio, Texas, on the 11th of April. Mr. Nicholson's position in this community and the associations which he had formed here were such as to call for something more than a mere incidental mention of his decease.

Joseph John Nicholson was born in Maryland in January, 1819, and was, therefore, only forty-seven years of age at the time of his death. He was educated for mercantile life, and at an early age was one of the partners in a dry-goods house in Annapolis. He soon abandoned this pursuit, however, to devote himself to the ministry of the Protestant Episcopal Church, in which he continued to officiate to the end of his life.

Mr. Nicholson had charge of various parishes, which we are unable to specify by name—first in his native State and then in the Diocese of New York. From New York he removed to Houston, Texas, where he officiated until, on account of failing health, he came to Alabama in the year 1855 and opened a school at Camden, Wilcox county. A year or two afterwards he settled at Spring Hill, near this city, and established a school, which acquired a high reputation and was very successful in every respect, until it was closed, in the year 1862, on account of the war. Besides conducting his school, while at Spring Hill, he officiated regularly as a clergyman, and it was under his auspices that St. Paul's Church at that place was built, and a parish organized.

Towards the close of the same year he was appointed chaplain in the Confederate Army and assigned to duty at the post of Talladega, where he officiated until the end of the war.

In addition to his labors as a clergyman, and as an instructor of youth, Mr. Nicholson had devoted much time and attention to literature.—Some eight or ten years ago he published a religious novel, "The Blemmertons," which was favorably received by many critics. It is a work that evinces much knowledge of human nature, no little descriptive power, and some admirable touches of humor and satire. Its lack of constructive power, however, and the diffuseness and tendency to discursiveness, which were the principal faults of the author's style, both as a writer and a speaker, have hindered it from ever acquiring general popularity.

Besides this work, he was a frequent contributor to the "Knickerbocker" and other periodicals, and in the latter years of his life his pen was often employed in contributions to the Mobile press.

Mr. Nicholson was an ardent patriot, and few men sacrificed more freely for the Confederate cause. The vicissitudes of the war caused the loss of his business, of his patrimony, and of the fruits of his own industry. His two grown sons were freely given up to the service of their country. One of them has survived all the perils and hardships of four years' continuous service in the field and in a Northern prison. The eldest, who went out as lieutenant in a Mobile company, afterwards became Captain of it, passed through the hardest-fought battles of the Army of Virginia, was twice wounded—the last time (at the battle of the Wilderness) so severely as to compel his retirement—and finally died of a sad accident, resulting from his wounds, within a few weeks after the close of the war. Two other children died of disease during the same period.

Soon after the final capitulation, Mr. Nicholson removed, with his family, to Texas, took charge of a parish at San Antonio, and spent his last remaining means in building up an institution of learning at that place, the fruits of which, in consequence of his untimely death, will be reaped by others.

He was twice married—the first time at a very early age,—and leaves a large family, among strangers, and in straitened and dependent circumstances.

He had some faults, but they were the faults of a generous and noble nature. He was a man of positive character. There was nothing negative or neutral about him. He was by nature impulsive, combative and sensitive; liable sometimes to misunderstand others, but ever prompt and ready to forgive or to make amends. He was utterly devoid of ill-will to any human being, although prone to do injustice to himself by talking in a strain that might leave a different impression upon his hearers. He was the truest and most sympathizing of friends. His performance was always far in advance of his professions. He was the very incarnation of truth and honor. His word could be trusted, and more than trusted, to the uttermost. There was not a particle of sham in his character. Those who knew him best loved and valued him most. His faith and piety were unostentatious, but deep and sincere. In his family—but we pause and refrain from the attempt to portray him in those holy domestic relations, in which his nature shone with the purest lustre.

We write with a deep sense of incompetency to express what is due to the rare character of a true and genuine friend—one who was more a friend in adversity than in prosperity. He is gone, but not to be forgotten. To him, more fitly than in almost any other case, can we apply the passionate lament of the old minstrel:

"O Douglas, Douglas—tender and true!"

Tribute of Re[illegible]

At a regular meeting of Pascagoula Lodge No. 202, of Free and Accepted Masons, began and held at their hall at Moss Point, on the 7th day of May A. L. 5870, A. D. 1870, the following preamble and resolutions were unanimously adopted:

WHEREAS, it has pleased the Great Master above, to remove from his labor on earth, our worthy and beloved brother J. ALFRED GRIFFIN, therefore, be it

Resolved, That we bow with entire submission to the behest of Heaven, and consign his body to the grave in good hope, through grace of a blissful immortality at the resurrection of the just. That in his decease this Lodge has lost one of its most worthy and honored members; his family, in all the relations of husband, father, son and brother, a most exemplary and affectionate counsellor and guide, and the community in which he lived a member whose place cannot be easily supplied.

Resolved, That our deceased brother and friend possessed in a remarkable degree those high and noble qualities which make man useful and dear to his fellow man; striot and energetic in his attention to business; just and impartial in his dealings with men, and exhibiting an integrity that secured the confidence and admiration of all who knew him. Our brother has passed away, leaving so far as we know or believe not an enemy, but m[illegible]y who deeply mourn his loss, and who will long remember his virtues.

Resolved, That our profoundest sympathies flow out to the family of our deceased friend, that we mingle our tears with theirs and our prayers are raised to the Great Father above, that he would sustain and comfort them under their great bereavement.

Resolved, That in cherished memory of our deceased friend and brother, we wear the usual badge of mourning for thirty days.

Resolved, That the Secretary present a copy of this preamble and resolutions to the family of the deceased, and also forward a copy to the Handsboro DEMOCRAT for publication.

It is our high calling to stand as wat[illegible]men on the battlements, to discern and announce coming dangers, but it is no part of our duty to become common scolds or accusers—no part of our duty to villify or injure each other, or to slander and traduce others. In this particular the Press of to-day occupies a higher and more honorable position than in the years of long ago.

Gentlemen, it is quite true that we are in the midst of great business prostration, of a fearful shrinkage of values, of an extraordinary financial pressure. We of Mississippi, however, are not alone the objects of this ill fortune. The country throughout all its ample extent has been thus visited, and feels the same weight of woe. But the indications are unmistakable. There is a streak of daylight in the distant horizon—there are indications that the night of adversity is passing away, and that an era of great prosperity is about to dawn.

Ours is a great, a noble State, and our people stand forth wherever known as nature's noblemen. Mississippi has been equal to every emergency in the past, and at home and abroad her sons have never failed to receive the respect and admiration of all true men.

But, gentlemen, while loving Mississippi and Mississippians, we should not dwarf that feeling which we all have—that feeling which comes down to us from our sires of 1776, which causes us to love our whole country, and to reverence that flag, the creation of our fathers, and which now waves in triumph throughout all lands known to civilization.

We should glory in the American people, in the Government of the United States, and in that flag consigned to our keeping by the heroes who wrested this continent from the iron grasp of foreign kings and despots.

Gentlemen, we have a country whose career stands out far in advance in the world's history. Within 100 years it has increased its proportions from 800,000 to 4,600,000 square miles; its population from 4,000,000 to 48,000,000; States from 13 to 48. A hundred years ago population and civilization was exclusively betwcen the Atlantic and the Ohio and Mississippi rivers. Now the Ohio and Mississippi are far east of the centre of our organized territory. What have not the American people accomplished within 100 years? What may they not aspire to accomplish within a hundred years to come?

We have a great, a grand coun[illegible] Let us love it with all devotion, and consecrate our best efforts to its honor and glory; and may our devout prayer ever be—

"God bless our native land!"

NICHOLSON - NICOLSON

Tradition reinforced by Gaelic genealogy of 1450, gives one branch of the Nicolsons or MacNicols as extremely ancient origin in the lands between Assynt and Durness on the north coast. Their ownership, however passed to the MacLeods of Lewis with a MacNicol heiress. Another tradition gives a different branch an equally ancient past in the Hebrides where MacNicol of Portree was said to have been one of the sixteen members of the Council of the Lordship of the Isles before it was abolished in 1493. Here the earliest historical references to the name begins in Skye in 1507, and the Nicolsons of Scorrbreck became established from that time as a line of chiefs. One of the most notable of these was Donald of Scorrybeck, who became Episcopalian parson of Kilmuir after the Restoration of 1660 and continued in his office until well after the Revolution of 1688. It was not until 1696 in fact that he retired rather than conform to the new Calvinist order. His career was paralled by that of Thomas Nicolson, who was converted to the Catholic Church in 1682 and was already working in the Scottish Mission in 1688. He was imprisoned but then allowed to leave the country. In In 1695 he was appointed Scotlands' firdt Vicar Apostolic and although he was arrested on landing in the country, he was again released. So he was able to make the tour of 1700 which enabled him to write such a valuable account of life in the Hebrides at that time.

It was the turn of a Presbyterian when Donald MacNicol from Argyll made his precious Collection of Osseanic Ballods before his appoimtment in 1766 as Minister of Lismore. A few years later Samuel Johnson made his Hebridean tour and although he was correct in his judgement of MacPherson's bogus Ossian, he also made approbious comments on Gaelic literature which incensed MacNicol. The result was his Remarks on Dr. Samuel Johnson's Journey to the Hecrides. This tradition has been kept alive since by Alexander Nicolson who was born in Skye in 1827 and compiled a collection of Gaelic proverbs which is a treasury of ancient wisdom and manners. A hundred years later another Alexander Nicolson published a History of Skye which integrates the traditional poetry of the island with exceptiona l skill.

NICHOLSON

Nicholson, the name of a family which possesses a baronety of Nova Scotia, conferred, 2 July 1629 on John Nicholson of Nicholson and Lasswade with remainder to his heirs generally. Sir James Nicholson, the sixth baronet, dying without issue, Arthur Nicholson, Esq. of Lochend, was served heir-male to the family in 1826, and as such inherites the title as seventh baronet. Sir Arthur Nicholson married Miss Jack, daughter of the very Rev. William Jack, D.D., principal of Kings College, Aberdeen. The family seats are Brough Lodge, Fettar, and Gremista, near Lerwick Shetland.

Peter Nicholson, an eminent architect, son of a stone mason, was born in the parish of Prestonkirk, East Lethian on July 20 1765. He was twice married, had two sons and a daughter, eldest son was named Michael Angelo. Peter died in Carlisle June 18, 1844 in the 79th year of his Life.

MACNicol or Nicholson

In the old Statistical Account, the Rev. William Mackenzie in his description of the parish of Assynt, writes: Tradition and even documents declare that it was a forest of the ancient Thanes of Sutherland. One of these Prince Thanes gave it in vassalage to one Mackaycal, who in ancient times held the Coast of Coygacal, that part of it at the place presently called Ullapool. Mackryul has been identified as the Gregall mentioned in the geneaology of the MacNicols in the MS. of 1450, and on the marriage of Torquil MacLeod to the daughter of the last of the MacNicol chiefs, the lands of Assynt passed to the MacLeods.

When Assynt passed to MacLeod, the Clan MacNichol appear to have emigrated to Skye, where the MacLeods had extensive possessions, and the lands of Scorrybreck near Portree were in possession of the MacNicols or Nicholsons for several centuries. The Clan played an important part in the history of Skye and from time to time their names appear in local records.

The Rev. Donald Nicolson, who was chief of the Scorrybreck family at the end of the 17th Century, was minister of Trotternish for over thirty years. He was a strong Episcopalian, and resigned his charge in 1696 only because of his opposition to Presbyterianism which had become the established Church. Norman, the last chief of Scorrybreck, emigrated to New Zealand.

There was also a strong braech of the MacNicols resident in Argyllshire.

PART I

INTRODUCTORY

THE origins of the Clan Nicolson are even more nebulous and its records more largely traditional than those of most other clans. What is given as a statement of facts by one historian is contradicted by others, and all that can be done to-day is to weigh the evidence impartially and put forward undogmatically what seems to approximate most closely to historical truth. It has therefore been thought advisable to mention opposing theories where certainty appears incapable of being arrived at until we can get some further and as yet undiscovered information.

A difference of opinion has existed on the question whether the Nicolsons can be called a clan or whether they are only a family, the sept of a clan. It has to be remembered that in Scotland the word "sept" simply means part of a clan, and

Pascagoula Public Library
Local History & Genealogical Dept.
Nicholson Family File #2

in many cases the sept was of itself a distinct clan. The fact that it held its lands in vassalage to a superior did not deprive it of its clanship, and though it might form a portion of its overlord's following, it could still retain an actual if not a theoretical independence.

The title to clanship lay not so much in the possession of landed property as in the presence of a chieftain, generally a man of rank and substance and frequently a kinsman of the superior, on whom the responsibility for the conduct of his followers lay.

An old Act of 1587, dealing with landlords, speaks of certain "tenants and inhabitants of their lands being of clans or dependars on chieftains, or the captain of the clans, whom the landlords are noways able to command but only get their mails (i.e. rents) of them and no other service or obedience."

This describes the position of the Nicolsons in Skye so closely that one seems to be fully justified in using throughout these pages the designation of clan, although they had the MacDonalds of Sleat as their superiors.

The name Nicolson has been preferred to Nicol or MacNicol when dealing with the Clan as a whole, as it appears to be its original cognomen.

THE MACNICOLS

UNTIL recently the MacNicols were considered to be of definite Pictish or Gaelic origin. Skene identifies them with the Kairinoi of Ptolemy's Geographia who lived in the Mormaorship of Ness, i.e. the districts of Durness, Eddrachylis and Assynt, which were forest lands belonging to the ancient Thanes of Sutherland. The first individual of the tribe to be mentioned in tradition or document is Gregall or Krycul, who held the coast of Coygach near Ullapool, and who was regarded as the founder of the clan.

An Irish manuscript of 1450 traced the clan descent in a direct line through Gregall, who was of the 113th generation from the original Coffey of Munster and 22nd from Niocholl, the first of the line to settle in Scotland and brother of Terge, 91st chief.

It is safe to assert that just as much, or as little, reliance can be put on this pedigree as on that of the MacDonalds of Sleat which shows their descent from Breogan, 28rd in descent from Japhet, son of Noah, or on that of the Clanranalds from Adam, given in The Red Book of Clanranald.

One of the first writers, apparently, to doubt the Pictish or Gaelic origin of the tribe was the erudite Dr. Alexander MacBain, who added notes to Skene's book, The Highlanders of Scotland, and he is most emphatic in his opinion. Referring to the MacNicols, he says: "This was a Norse clan. MacNicol is sometimes pronounced Macreacail. The ancestor Krycul is absurdly impossible as a name."

The facts can most probably be arrived at by sifting both these conceptions. The balance of evidence seems to favour the belief that, bearing the name Nicolson, the MacNicols came originally from Norway and settled in Coygach about the tenth and eleventh centuries, when other groups of the same name took up their abode in the Hebrides and in districts further south.

Pascagoula Public Library
Local History & Genealogical Dept.
Nicholson Family File #2

As the north-west of Scotland was under Norse domination at the time of these settlements, there was every reason for parties of Nicolsons to select the mainland, as well as the islands, for a place of residence. By environment and intermarriage those on the mainland became more closely connected with the Celtic inhabitants of the district, and their name would be much more apt to be altered to the Gaelic form MacNicol than it would be on the islands where Norsemen were more numerous and powerful enough to remain more separate.

After the MacNicols joined forces with the Nicolsons in Skye, both forms of the name seem to have been retained and applied even to the same person, although the original form was the usual one employed.

The only individual mentioned during their stay on the mainland is MacKrycul, and his name as Skene points out is the same as MacNicol. On one occasion he intercepted a gang of marauders driving a large herd of cattle which had been raided from the north of Sutherland. In grateful recognition of the recovery of his animals, the Thane made over to MacKrycul the district of Assynt in vassalage. This occurred about the middle of the twelfth century, and established the MacNicols as a powerful clan.

It is possible that Gregall may have existed and that the MacNicol chiefs were descended from him through marriage with a female of his line. For tables of descent used sometimes to omit essential points especially if they involved females in the succession.

Although the later chiefs of the Nicolsons came to be numbered by their place in descent from Gregall, it merely shows that historians of more recent times believed him to be the founder of the clan, basing their theory on the supposition of the reliability of the Irish pedigree. But it is not credible that the vigorous family in Skye should adopt the chiefs of a broken clan as the ancestral chiefs of their own.

About the year 1340 the Chief of the MacNicols died, leaving no sons. His

Pascagoula Public Library
Local History & Genealogical Dept.
Nicholson Family File #2

daughter Margaret married Torquil MacLeod, a younger son of the MacLeod of Lewis, who thereupon took over the territory of the MacNicols, this action being ratified by Royal Charter. From them are descended the MacLeods of Assynt, Catboll and Geanies through Norman their son. Neil, the 14th and last Chief, bears the sinister reputation of being the betrayer of the Marquis of Montrose in 1650.

The fate of the MacNicol chieftainship is not certain. The Norse and Celtic laws of succession were different. In the former the eldest son inherited, and if there were no direct heirs-male, a daughter might succeed although she did not assume her rights until she had been accepted by the clan. When, for example, the 9th Chief of the MacLeods died in 1553, the clan refused to acknowledge the claims of his daughter, who later married a Campbell. She finally had to resign the claim, her uncle becoming Chief and getting possession of the estates.

Among the Celts a brother was usually preferred to a son and females were always excluded.

It has been assumed that MacNicol's daughter succeeded to the headship of the Clan, but subsequent events apparently deny this assumption. For the MacNicols decided to leave the district and settle in a place where they could have security. Another such "great flitting" occurred further south when the Campbells acquired the Lordship of Lorne.

If the clansmen had made her their chieftain, why should they have forsaken her, loyalty being the outstanding characteristic of the Highlander? But if she were not accepted by them, the difficulties and dangers of their position would be manifest whether they elected the nearest male heir or not. The more powerful forces of the MacLeods might well be summoned to uphold their kinswoman's honour.

Part of a chief's land was held by free tenants, and another part was the common property of the clansmen: and when the MacNicols set themselves in opposition to him who had become possessor of their district by Royal Charter, they would be bound to feel that their position was uncertain if not actually precarious.

The main portion of the clan crossed to Skye and joined itself to the Nicolsons there. It is difficult to see why they should have chosen Skye unless it be that there were ties of race and name uniting them to the Norsemen on the island.

Those of them who did not settle in Skye migrated south and came under the sway of the Campbells. These southern MacNicols never reverted to the name Nicolson. They took up their abode chiefly in Islay, Lochfyneside and round Loch Awe. In documents of a later date the names occur of MacNicol of Socath, in Glenorchy, head of the Loch Awe branch, Ferchard of Glenlochy who died in 1505, and John of Auldyr who died in 1522 and was buried beside the high altar in Inchaider Church, Loch Tay. We hear of a McNicol of Argyle in 1672, but by that time they had become so scattered that no longer were there groups of them in any single place. One portion, however, has persisted, and not a few of its members left a distinguished record in Church or State. This branch migrated to Aberdeenshire and changed its name to Nicol.

Whether they settled in Skye, Argyle or Aberdeen, the MacNicols ceased to have any connection with the MacLeods of Assynt after their dispersion.

III

THE NICOLSONS

THE ancestry of the Nicolsons is unquestionably Norwegian. The original name may have been Olsen, the family descending through a daughter, as "Nic" in Gaelic signifies "daughter of." In the Commissariot Register of Shetland in the seventeenth century, one finds many names ending in "-dochter." But it is most unlikely that, at the early date when the name might have been changed, a Gaelic prefix would have been added, and it is almost certain that the name was originally Nicolas'son.

The fact that the clan was called Nicolson from the time of their arrival shows that the name is not an anglicised form of MacNicol.

Their geographical distribution demonstrates how they arrived. The Lochlanns, i.e. Norsemen, crossed mainly from Norway, passed the Shetland and Orkney Islands, rounded Cape Wrath, sailed through the Hebrides and went as far south as Galloway, Cumberland, Ulster, the Isle of Man and Dublin. In each of these places they subsequently formed settlements, and to-day in most of them one finds a larger or smaller group of Nicolsons, where the name MacNicol is almost unknown.

As Dr. Jakobsen has shown, there are definite traces of Scandinavian trade and settlement in Shetland and down the west coast, dating from before the end of the seventh century. At the end of the eighth century this intercourse became suddenly intensified and changed in character, owing to political and other troubles in Scandinavia and Denmark. Viking raids, which had previously occurred only now and then, began to be almost constant and continued so for many years, marked usually with the ferocity which was almost universal in that age.

At this early period the Danish raiders, or Dubhgalls, were even more numerous than the Norsemen, or Fingalls. Skye and Lambay Island, off Dublin, were invaded by them in 795; the Isle of Man was attacked three years later. Iona was plundered in 802 and again in 806. By 834 they had encircled Ireland with their fleets, made incursions in all directions and ravaged the whole coast of the British Isles. A large number of them took possession of portions of Ireland. It was not until close on two centuries had passed that they were finally driven out. They seem to have left no permanent settlements in Britain except on the east coast of England, and to a much less extent on the south-east coast of Scotland.

To-day we find considerable numbers of the name of Nicholson in Tyneside, Yorkshire, Cambridge, Hertford and Surrey. These families are the descendants of the east and south coast Danes who took so prominent a place in English history at and after the time of King Alfred.

In the north and west of Scotland there were few, if any, occasions after the end of the tenth century when Danes appeared on a plundering expedition. For a considerable time before this they had been more attracted by the spoils which were to be found nearer home in France and Germany and on the English coast.

During the early years the Norse vikings had fought sometimes with the Danes, sometimes against them, but usually they did not come into contact with each other. The Scandinavian invasions culminated in the eleventh century in a complete occupation of the north and west of Scotland by the Lochlanns. By this time most of their savage slaughtering and devastations had given place to peaceful settlements, the building of strongholds and intermarriage with the native Picts.

In process of time the greater number of old place-names disappeared. In Orkney and Shetland we find 90 per cent. of the names at the present day are of Norse origin, in Lewis 75 per cent. and further south in Islay 80 per cent.

The Vikings had made Westrafiord in Skye their headquarters for long periods, while they planned and launched their attacks on the Hebrides and the mainland. Westrafiord has been identified with Loch Dunvegan, Loch Bracadale and Portree Bay. It is impossible to be sure which of them it was. However, when they ceased to return to Norway they retained the district round Westrafiord as their principal settlement.

The Nicolsons domiciled themselves at Scorrybreck, on the high ground to the northward of Portree Bay, and there the home of the head of the clan remained until well on into the nineteenth century, a period of at least eight hundred years.

The fact has always been recognised that the Nicolsons were one of the three earliest known families in the Island of Lewis. They owned Stornoway at the beginning of the tenth century. It is therefore likely that they were amongst the first, if not actually the first, of the name to take up residence in the Hebrides. They are said to have held Castle Sween for over three hundred years before they were dispossessed by the MacNeils. The only daughter of one of their chiefs married Claudius, son of Olave, King of Norway.

The MacLeods arrived in Lewis from Norway or the Isle of Man at a later date. In an account of Lewis, written in 1680, Rev. J. Morrison of Bragar states that Margaret, the daughter and heiress of one of the Nicolson chiefs, was forcibly espoused by a MacLeod after he had massacred as many of the men of her following as he could lay hands on. But for this the Clan would have held the lands of the MacLeods in Lewis and Harris, and the MacLeods might never have been able to acquire their Dunvegan estates from MacRaild, which it is said they got possession of by treachery about the year 1220.

Be that as it may, the Nicolsons, left with only a fraction of their numbers and power, departed from Lewis, crossed to Assynt or Skye and joined themselves to their kinsfolk there.

We find that in North Uist another branch of the Clan had been established. Their leader was slain by Olay the Red, who was assisting Somerled to quell an insurrection in Skye in 1140.

Pascagoula Public Library

Forbes, in his book Place Names in Skye, states that the Nicolsons were "said to be of Russian descent through Neacal Mor of Mugstot." But Mawer has shown in his book on the Vikings that the word Rus, from which Russia gets its name, meant at that time Scandinavian or, more particularly, Swedish. Although it might be that now and again a Swede or a Swedish group joined a Norwegian contingent bound for the Western Isles, the evidence in favour of a Norwegian descent of the Nicolsons is infinitely stronger than for a Swedish one, and there is no ground for supposing that anyone of Slavonic origin ever settled in Skye in early times.

Norse rule in the Hebrides and in the north and west of Scotland came to an end in 1266 when Magnus Hakonssen, King of Norway, renounced all claims of possession. Three years previously his father, Hako the Old, had arrived in Scotland with a fleet and army to revenge the cruel treatment his vassals had received from the Scottish island governors. He was then master of Iceland, Greenland, Norway, Orkney and Shetland, the Faroes, the Hebrides and the Isle of Man.

One of his lieutenants was Andrew Nicolassen, a baron, and his foster-brother. He was commander of one of four ships, sent in advance of the fleet, which rejoined the main force at Kyle of Lochalsh, and his ship was then dispatched to plunder Bute. He was also one of five commissioners sent ashore to treat with the King of Scotland. During the battle of Largs he distinguished himself by defeating in single combat Sir Piers de Curry, a Scottish knight. On the return north after the battle he was accompanied by a MacDonald, thought to be Angus, great-grandson of Somerled, or his brother Alexander.

Although it was in one sense a severe defeat, the battle was in another sense a Norwegian victory. The Scots had attempted to destroy the Norwegian army and had failed to do so. Their losses had been much heavier than those of the landing force and most of the Norsemen had succeeded in returning to their ships. Although some of the vessels had been wrecked by storm, when the separate plundering squadron returned from Loch Long a few days afterwards, Hako found he had still over a hundred ships. The failure of the whole expedition was not realised till later, and as Hako sailed homewards he portioned out some of the isles among his leaders and vassal chiefs.

There is a persistent tradition that Sir Andrew Nicolassen was granted the promontory of Trotternish in Skye, from Braigh to Rudha Hunish which was already partly occupied by Nicolsons, and he would thus become head of the Clan. Even O'Hart, the Irish genealogist, admits this, and adds that he and Gregall would probably be contemporaries, which would make it possible for the later chiefs to have identical numerical designations, from whichever line they traced their descent.

The treaty of cession was concluded at Perth through the agency of the two Norwegian envoys, Sir Askelin, the chancellor, and Sir Andrew Nicolassen. By it the island rulers became vassals of the Scottish crown. New overlords were appointed and the Islands of Skye and Lewis were given to the Earl of Ross. Except in isolated cases, the former landowners were not interfered with. They were merely under the new lord's authority, and their independence within their own bounds was not curtailed.

EARLY YEARS IN TROTTERNISH

THOUGH ceded to the kings of Scotland, the Isles could hardly be said to be ruled by them, for the Hebrides were swayed by the MacDonalds as Lords of the Isles for centuries. This clan may have been of Irish extraction, but several of their chiefs had married Norse wives. Both the mother and the wife of the great Somerled were Norwegian. We have seen that a MacDonald accompanied Sir Andrew Nicolassen back to Skye after the battle of Largs. The two clans remained on friendly terms throughout the ensuing centuries, and seldom if ever was there a Council of the Lord of the Isles which did not include a Nicolson.

The Council consisted of sixteen members, of which four were Thanes, four Armins or sub-Thanes, four Bastards, i.e. squires, men of competent estate or freeholders, and four men who held their lands in factory. To be a member was a testimony to the importance of the family represented.

The following occurrence shows that the Nicolsons possessed an independence recognised by the other clans. On one occasion when the Chief was engaged in a lively discussion with MacLeod of Raasay, one of MacLeod's servants entered the room and, imagining them to be quarrelling, drew his sword and mortally wounded MacNicol. To prevent a clan vendetta, a council was held to decide how the injured clan was to be appeased. It agreed that in accordance with an ancient precedent the meanest member of MacNicol's following should behead the Laird of Raasay. The man with this unfortunate reputation was Lomach, a basket-maker, who duly cut off MacLeod's head at Snizort.

Trotternish, in which Scorrybreck is situated, underwent an almost continual change of overlordship during the fourteenth, fifteenth and sixteenth centuries. Ian, Chief of the MacLeods, obtained a charter for it from King Robert II in 1360. Donald MacDonald of the Isles having married Mary Leslie, afterwards Countess of Ross, claimed it as part of her marriage portion in 1380. He was recognised as Earl of Ross in 1412 after the battle of Harlaw, and a period of intensified clan feud thereupon commenced.

Most of Skye was MacLeod's country when the MacDonalds took possession of Sleat and Uist, but for the greater part of the fifteenth century the MacLeods were under the rule of the Lords of the Isles. Alexander of the Isles, Earl of Ross, seems to have shown great partiality towards the MacLeods, as Neil MacLeod was his steward and Catriona his favourite mistress. The MacLeod chiefs, both of Harris and Lewis, were members of his Council and he granted the Dunvegan chief Trotternish as well as other districts.

After John, 4th and last Lord of the Isles, had had his lands and title forfeited in 1493, a Crown charter gave MacLeod two unciates [1] in Trotternish along with the office of bailie, in return for his holding in residence one ship of 26 oars and two of 16 oars for the King's service when required. In 1505 the Chief of Clanranald became Crown tenant of Trotternish. After his death the property reverted to the MacLeods, but in five years its rights were surrendered to Donald Gorm of Sleat.

[1] An unciate was land the yearly rent of which was equivalent to one ounce of silver. At the time of the old valuation

In 1508 Donald Gorm Mor obtained a Crown charter for Sleat and Uist, and became Crown tenant for at least a part of Trotternish, which rekindled the old family feud. Rory Mor MacLeod's claims were finally adjusted judicially between him and Sir Donald MacDonald, 1st Baronet of Sleat, who was eventually awarded a charter for Trotternish.

All these changes would not make much practical difference to those who held land in Trotternish by frechold or by tack, unless they were included in the Saoi, i.e. those who were the fighters and defenders of the clans.

of the MacLeod estates in Skye it corresponded to £2, 13s. 4d. The size depended on the character and fertility of the soil. In Islay the unciate had an area of 1660 acres; in Skye it was in places over 8000 acres.

The pennyland was the twentieth part of an unciate.

It is impossible to discover the actual status of the Nicolsons in the earlier centuries. They most likely had no overlord except those appointed directly by the Crown. But they may have come under the rule of the clan chief in whose possessions Trotternish lay, in which case they would be among the followers of a MacDonald or a MacLeod alternately.

Tenants in the islands did not have written leases or tacks until the seventeenth century when the MacDonalds had finally dispossessed the MacLeods of the lands of Trotternish. There are no documents in the charter chest at Dunvegan Castle dealing with Scorrybreck, and it is most unlikely the Nicolsons ever held their lands from the MacLeods. But we do know that from the seventeenth century they were tacksmen of the MacDonalds of Sleat.

Many tacks were granted after the Regulations for Chiefs came into force in 1616, which specified that land which they could not themselves cultivate was to be let. They were also to set up home farms and make plantings about their houses.

The practice of wadsetting came later in which land was let on mortgage. The tenants paid the crown and church duties and they could subdivide or sublet the land, but they and their subtenants were liable to be displaced whenever the landlord wished to redeem the mortgage. This practice became commoner when the chiefs resorted to the cities and felt an increasing need of money.

LATER YEARS IN TROTTERNISH

Compared with the MacDonalds and the MacLeods the Nicolsons were not a large or powerful clan in Skye. They cultivated the arts of peace rather than those of war. Two facts are worthy of notice. The family produced an unusually large number of ministers, and one of their chiefs actually held the living of Kilmuir. It is therefore to be expected that the occasions when they appear in history would not be frequent.

There is a reference to them during the reign of James IV when the royal protection was extended to Mulcoill Macnicholl, with others of Trouternes, against a fratricide and usurper, Gillespie Dubh, son of the 1st Chief of Sleat, who had become bailie and was evidently causing trouble.

James IV visited the islands on three expeditions, though we are not told he came as far north as Skye. But James V led a formidable expedition in 1540 to overawe the rebellious chiefs and to bring to permanent order and good government the outlying parts of his kingdom, which had repeatedly refused to acknowledge their dependence on the Scottish crown.

A fleet of twelve ships was assembled and strongly armed. Cardinal Beaton, who brought with him five hundred men from Fife and Angus, and the Earls of Huntly and Arran with a thousand were among the commanders. Having come round the north by Orkney, they landed on Lewis and the Uists, and then crossed to Skye. After visiting Dunvegan and Duntulm they anchored in Loch Columcille, now called Portree Bay. Contrary to what is usually believed, Portree does not mean the king's harbour. Before this visit it was known as Port-righeadh—the harbour on the slope.

The main body of the expeditionary force landed just below Scorrybreck at a place afterwards named Creag-nam-mor-

Shluagh, the rock of the great multitude. We are told "the rude natives flocked to the shore to gaze on the unusual apparition; and the mountain and island lords crowded round the royal pavilion to proffer their allegiance." We can imagine the wonder and awe of the islanders when they beheld the great ships, so much higher than their own birlinns, the cannon, the armour and apparel of the officers and all the royal pageantry. Fearing a repetition of their disregard of vows and allegiance, James insisted on many of the chieftains returning with him to Edinburgh as hostages for the good behaviour of the clans. Some he treated with such kindness as won not only their true loyalty but even their affection. A few of the more refractory were imprisoned until they were liberated at his death, two years later. From Trotternish John Moydertach, captain of Clanranald, Alexander of Glengarrie, and others of the following and kin of Donald Grumach of Sleat were seized. It was fortunate for the Nicolsons that they had been peaceful tillers of the soil and had taken no part in the murderous clan warfare or the resistance to sovereign authority.

Besides its primary object, the expedition had other aims. It sought to knit the people into a new friendship with the throne and government. Hunting parties were organised when the Scorrybreck folk would mix more or less freely with the sailors and soldiers and courtiers. The expedition carried a hydrographer who made the first accurate survey of the northern coasts and isles.

It is worthy of note that from this time, in spite of James's strong measures, the island chiefs were with few exceptions loyal to the House of Stuart, though their constancy brought trouble or death to so many.

In 1581 James VI granted to John, Bishop of the Isles, the escheat of all goods belonging to several landholders, including Maconeill Maknicoll, "officiar" of Trotternish, and his brother Nicoll, who were thereupon dispossessed, declared rebels and denounced at the horn for remissness in paying the firmas and dues belonging to the Bishop and the Abbey of Icolmkill.

Their parsimony was not a family failing. The Clan had a reputation for liberality and hospitality. Its motto was "Generositate." A cadet branch of the Scorrybreck family lived at Lonfearn from earliest times until the male line came to an end in 1905. They used to have a pot of porridge kept hot on the firestone, and barley bread on the table for any stranger who might be travelling between the north end of the island and Portree by the footpath which went past the house.

The Chiefs showed their piety and open-handedness by benefactions to the church whose ruins can yet be seen at the head of Loch Snizort. A small chapel on the south side of the building is still known as Nicolson's or MacNicol's aisle, and in it is the stone effigy of a warrior in conical helmet and long quilted coat who must have been a man of some consequence in his day.

This church lies alongside the ruins of an older building, the mother-church of Skye, founded by Columba. Until 1726 the parish of Snizort included Portree and the islands of Raasay and Rona.

Along with other tacksmen, the Nicolson Chiefs were delegated powers to hold inferior courts, dealing with small debts and matters of minor importance.

Rev. Donald Nicolson, 12th Chief, was one of the most outstanding men of his time and, indeed, in the whole history of the Clan. He was thrice married and had a family of twenty-three children. After the Restoration efforts were made to restore Episcopacy in the islands, and he was appointed minister of Kilmuir in 1663. Three years later he reported to the Privy Council that there were only six Non-conformists in the Isle of Skye. At the Revolution in 1689 almost all the clergy took the oath of allegiance. Rev. Donald Nicolson and Rev. Angus MacQueen of Sleat were the only two non-jurors, but they were allowed to remain in their livings for some years. We read that about this time "the proprietors and all the inhabitants of Skye were protestants except twelve who were Roman Catholics." Shortly before his death in 1698 Rev. Donald Nicolson retired, rather than conform to Presbyterianism.

Under the command first of Montrose and later of Graham of Claverhouse, the islesmen formed a considerable part of the forces which fought to uphold the rule of the Stuart kings. Somerled MacNicol of Dresnyl was conspicuous among the friends and followers of Sir James MacDonald of Sleat throughout Montrose's campaign.

In the first Jacobite rising both the MacDonald and the MacLeod chiefs were implicated, the former being in command of a following belonging to several clans including MacKinnons, Nicolsons and MacQueens. In the second rising these chiefs, although in actual sympathy with the Young Chevalier, having learned discretion from their unfortunate and unhappy experience in the '15, now held themselves aloof from active participation but could not restrain their clansmen.

We know that some of the Nicolsons fought at Culloden with the MacDonalds who, dispossessed of the ancient place of honour on the right flank which had belonged to them since Bannockburn, were among the first to leave the field not on account of want of courage but from pique. Most of them managed to escape the subsequent massacres. It is held by some, however, that the reason they took so small a share in the fighting was that after they had fired their first round they found themselves unable to advance owing to the ground in front of them being so boggy. There may be truth in this, for although they had not been given their position of honour at Killiecrankie, they did not hesitate on that occasion to throw themselves into the thickest of the fray.

Scorrybreck figures in the adventures of Prince Charlie, although it was not the house of the Chief but only a byre in which he took shelter. During his wanderings after Culloden as a fugitive, tracked everywhere by enemies thirsting for the reward offered for his capture, he crossed from Raasay to Skye and landed under the cliffs at Nicolson's Rock. From there the wet and weary party struggled up the craggy slopes until they reached what Boswell calls "a cow-house belonging to Mr. Niccolson of Scorbreck." Prince Charlie's Cave, situated to the northwards of where he landed, was for long thought to have been his hiding-place, but it was never tenanted by him.

During all these months of eluding his pursuers his presence was not intimated even to friends, except when necessary, partly to prevent additional risks, and partly to avoid their imprisonment or death if they were afterwards found to have aided or sheltered him. But an exception was made on this occasion, for the Chief, a trusted adherent of the Jacobite party, either visited him in the byre or provided means of comfort during his concealment there. The lock of his hair which the Prince cut off for the Scorrybreck ladies, and the glass which he drank from, are two of the few things which were preserved when the family left their old home, and they are still amongst the most treasured relics belonging to the present Chief.

The following evening the Prince set out for Strath, accompanied by one faithful follower, and two months later he managed to arrive safely on board the French frigate awaiting him off Arisaig.

On the way home from her imprisonment in London or, more probably, immediately after her marriage in 1750, Flora Macdonald, the renowned heroine of the '45, was met in Portree by Nicolson of Scorrybreck and his lady. During her stay with them a large party of the neighbouring ladies and gentlemen was invited to the hospitable house to meet the distinguished visitor. Among the rest was Major Allan Macdonald, who had by a cunning device arrested Flora's friend, Donald MacLeod of Galtrigal, and was the cause of his imprisonment. When the Major entered the drawing-room and received the usual salutations of the company he held out his hand to Flora, whereupon she tartly expressed herself—"Yes, sir, I give you my hand, but not entirely with my heart. I wish to show all courtesy to the profession which you have disgraced by a low and base stratagem, utterly unworthy of the conduct of a soldier, a Highlander, and a gentleman!" For a moment or two the whole company was almost petrified.

At and after this time Prince Charlie had a confidential agent in the Highlands whom the English secret service officers were never able to locate. He was known as the P. of D. and is frequently mentioned in the instructions of the Prince to his agent Beeson. Writing in 1877 to the late Patrick Nicolson then in Cardiff, Charles Edward Stuart, well known as the Count d'Albanie and claimant to the throne of Britain, declared that the mystery as to the identity of the P. of D. which had long baffled him and his brother, John Sobieski Stuart, was now at last entirely cleared up. The cypher designation P. of D. evidently stood for Portree of Dartmouth, Portree where Scorrybreck is situate being the territorial title of John Nicolson, and Dartmouth being the place where he married and temporarily resided. This John Nicolson was one of the younger sons of Rev. Donald, 12th Chief. He is said to have fought in the first Jacobite rising. He settled in Devonshire and married Joanna Coke.

About the year 1870 a search was made in the ruins of Scorrybreck House for existing memorials of the times of the Stuarts. John had been in close touch with the Chief at the time, and probably may have entrusted secret and incriminating documents to his custody. A box was discovered hidden in the masonry of one of the walls. In the absence of the persons superintending the search, the ignorant labourers employed on the job broke open the box but found no coins nor anything they considered of value. It was full of papers and documents, which they used to light a fire for cooking their food. It is therefore impossible to say what historical records were lost, but they would undoubtedly have been of the greatest interest and value to all chroniclers.

In 1776 Sir Alexander MacDonald of Sleat, the Nicolsons' landlord, was raised to the peerage as Lord MacDonald of Slate, Co. Antrim. He was visited by Johnson and Boswell at Armadale Castle when they were on their famous tour of the Highlands. By an irregular marriage

Local History & Genealogical Dept.
Nicholson Family File #2

his son Godfrey split the clan into two branches, the elder son afterwards retaining the property of Thorpe in Yorkshire, the second son taking the Scottish estates and the Irish peerage.

The distress and emigration which left such a cloud of sadness in Skye took much of the gaiety from the spirit of the people. Dancing and music had come to be anathematised by almost all the clergy. "It is rare to hear a song sung now," said the minister of Duirinish, "and still rarer to hear the pipe or the violin." At a Highland banquet about 1790 a call was made for the bard to be brought to the upper end of the room, whereupon Nicolson of Scorrybreck exclaimed: "The bards are extinct." "No," quickly replied Alastair Buy M'Ivor, "but those who delighted to patronise them are gone."

One of the proverbs dealing with the Clan says: "Where there is a fiddle or a piper there you will find a Nicolson."

Malcolm, the 15th Chief, was one of the already diminishing number of those who showed their loyalty to the customs and manners of an older age. He was always eager to foster the traditions of his race. For this and for his wide liberality he was greatly honoured, and his name has been handed down as an example of all a Chief ought to be.

The lands of Scorrybreck are associated with one of the legends of Skye folk-lore. The crodh sith, or fairy cattle, used to swim across from Raasay to enjoy the grazing of the succulent pastures on the slopes of Scorrybreck. If anyone chanced to observe them he hastened to lift some of the soil from a churchyard and throw it between them and the sea. This formed a sacred barrier which prevented the recall of the fairy owners from being heard. The cattle were unable to return until they had heard the signal, and so had to remain and were joined to the herds on the island, being regarded as a valuable addition to the farmers' stock. Unfortunately history does not relate how many were added to the Skye herds.

Not far from the house of the Chiefs stand the ruins of a church, surrounded by an ancient graveyard. Here, doubtless, would be got the consecrated earth which prevented the cattle from returning. We can say, however, with much greater confidence that, in that quiet spot now so desolate amid surroundings whose beauty remains ever fresh, many a Nicolson has found his last resting-place.

There is another tale about Scorrybreck, recorded as historical by Martin. An infant called Neil was left in one of the fields while his mother was working not far off. An eagle swooped down and carried him in his talons across to the other side of Portree Bay, where his cries attracted some folk herding sheep. They found him uninjured and carried him back to his mother. Ever afterwards the boy was nicknamed "Eagle."

VI

AFTER THE '45

ONE of the most important results of the Jacobite rising in 1745 was the complete breaking up of the clan system. The attitude of the Chief became in most cases totally altered. He no longer regarded himself as the father of his people, holding the land in trust for them. He now looked upon the clan territory as his personal property—as indeed it was in the eyes of the law—and he was ready to replace tenants by others who could pay a higher rent. He ceased to be a Chief: he became a landlord, and in not a few cases an absentee landlord.

The tacksman was, in Dr. Johnson's words, "a large taker or leaseholder of land, of which he keeps part as a domain in his own hand and lets part to the under-tenants." He was usually of high birth, being often a kinsman of the Chief,

Pascagoula Public Library
Local History & Genealogical Dept.
Nicholson Family File #2

and his holding was hereditary. He also, like the Chief, underwent a change and became a mere farmer or factor, and was liable to be ousted by a richer man.

The legislation was incomplete and one-sided. It succeeded in forcing peace on the people, but did nothing to remove poverty or stimulate industry. It was said there was not enough work for more than half the population of the Highlands at wages of 8s. a week. This poverty was due partly to the indolence and stupidity of the people. Innovations of any kind were hated and feared. Drainage, the proper use of manures, the rotation of crops and even fencing were looked on with disfavour. But nature itself was not helpful. An excessive rainfall, swampy or stony fields and the height of much of the land were all against successful agriculture. Parts of the land, however, were well known for their fertility. Trotternish was the richest ground in the islands, the plain of Kilmuir being known as "the granary of Skye: and Martin states that near the village of Scorrybreck there was a small tract of ground which yielded barley a hundredfold.

Neither turnips nor potatoes were grown. The potato was not introduced until 1743, and although for some time the crofters would have nothing to do with it, it was not long before it became one of their principal articles of diet. Before 1811 there were no roads laid in Skye. All traffic had had to use mere beaten tracks. Sheep and black cattle, almost the only source of trade with the mainland, brought little, for even the best animals which were sold came to be poor and undersized, and no breeding improvement could be expected.

The causes of emigration were not far to seek. Much of the land was over-populated, rents were raised, ambitious landlords preferred sheep to Highland tenantry. Many of the men joined the army. It is said that between the '45 and the battle of Waterloo fifty thousand men enlisted in the Highland regiments. Others departed to the Lowlands to look for work in Glasgow or on the east coast. These included Nicolsons, some of whom, the writer's grandfather among them, adopted the Lowland form of the name by inserting an "h," lest they should be stigmatised as "lazy Highlanders" and refused employment.

Local History & Genealogical Dept.
Nicholson Family File #2

For many the only course which gave any prospect of relief was emigration. Between 1760 and 1783 thirty thousand are said to have left the Highlands and Islands for America, and the stream continued throughout the first half of the nineteenth century. But as a transfusion of blood will often bring new life to a disordered man, so by giving abundantly of its best blood to our colonies, Scotland has rendered priceless service to the British Empire.

While those emigrants of the name of MacDonald and MacLeod went for the most part to Canada or the United States, the Nicolsons seem to have been attracted mainly to Australia in the early nineteenth century, although a number of them had previously settled in Nova Scotia and its neighbouring islands.

In 1721 the tenants and wadsetters of Trotternish petitioned MacDonald to lower their rents on account of extreme poverty, after a murrain had ruined their stock. In the years 1716 and 1720, 485 horses, 1027 cows and 4556 sheep died; and North Uist had suffered almost as severely. The request which was duly granted was signed by sixteen Macdonalds, four Nicolsons, one Martin, one MacLeod, four McQueens, one Maclean and one Beaton.

The island had a succession of bad seasons after the year 1770 and the problem of how to live had only one solution. The populous district of Scorrybreck was almost cleared of inhabitants, so it was not surprising that the Chief was left in a sad state.

Donald Nicolson was the last of the clan chiefs to hold a tack of Scorrybreck. After his death in 1825, John, his son, having seen so many of the tenants depart, bowed his head to the inevitable and decided to leave the island and the home of his fathers and seek his fortunes in lands across the sea. He went with some Skye cousins to North America on a fur venture. Then he joined the army and served in Nova Scotia, and later went to Tasmania as an officer in the Colonial Commissariat Department about 1841, where he became Assistant Commissary General. He married Marion Davidson, daughter of the first British settler in the district. After his marriage he left the army and took over the management of his wife's property at Camelford. He returned to Scotland on a long visit and spent some time in Skye. On hearing that his agent in Tasmania had mismanaged the estate and involved him in difficulties, he returned to find himself reduced from comparative wealth to a very serious financial position. In his struggle to right things his health failed and he died in 1867.

John Norman, his son and heir, succeeded to the burdened estate at the early age of thirteen, and by ability and hard work managed to achieve some measure of prosperity, although Camelford had to be sold in order to provide for his brothers and sisters. On his death in 1923 Norman Alexander, his eldest son, became 19th Chief. He served in the Great War as Captain and O/C. of the 114th Howitzer Battery and, during a leave, visited Scorrybreck, taking back with him a stone from the ancestral home. He has a lively interest in all matters pertaining to the Clan.

After the departure of the family the house at Scorrybreck remained uninhabited. The tenants who followed the Nicolsons lived in the farm-house which had been built nearer to Portree about the end of the eighteenth century.

Close on twenty years ago the whole district was converted into small holdings. The house of the Chiefs was then in ruins, and until a few years ago one of the gables was all that was left of it; but even this has been pulled down by the crofter, whose holding includes the site and who needed the stones to build a shed. So now there is nothing to mark the spot but an insignificant heap of small stones and the grass-covered base of the garden wall.

A comparatively recent episode, with which only a small portion of the Clan was connected, shows under what conditions the crofters were living at the time. Several Nicolsons were implicated, two at least being imprisoned and fined for attacking the officers of the law, but their behaviour was not altogether discreditable. One of them, by no means a ringleader, was over eighty years old and died soon afterwards. Nothing was done to the many women who were amongst the fiercest of the combatants.

Throughout the nineteenth century evictions continued without ceasing. More and more land was reserved for landlords' sheep and deer. The people were deprived of their grazing grounds, while the deer destroyed their crops. The younger men, returning from the Clyde and Irish fishings or from jobs ashore, found their experiences in these other districts had put an end to their patience with the injustices the islanders had for so long endured. In 1882, in the district of Braes peopled mainly by Nicolsons, the dispossessed tenants offered to pay a higher rent than was being given if they could get back the grazing, but their appeal was refused. Thereupon they allowed their sheep to stray everywhere and some even refused to pay rent for what they leased. Officials were sent to evict the leaders, but the summonses were burned and they had to retire beaten. Fifty policemen were drafted from Glasgow to cope with the situation. A pitched battle was fought with sticks and stones, used by both sides. For a long time the situation seemed likely to be perilous for everyone, but eventually the police gained open ground and the crofters dispersed. The prisoners were sentenced to pay heavy fines, for which friends and many others soon found the money.

By this time the whole island was roused to intense and defiant wrath. A Royal Commission was appointed to inquire into the crofters' grievances. When its report was published, a Member of Parliament declared that "it disclosed a state of misery, of wrongdoing and of patient longsuffering without parallel in the history of our country." It was only the age-long spirit of loyalty to the clan chiefs and the deep attachment to the land of their fathers which had prevented the people from rising in rebellion until life had become unbearable.

The Act which followed the Commissioners' report has brought peace and tranquillity to the island, giving, as it did, security of tenure and equitable rents and bringing in addition many other improvements which, as a rule, the people welcomed.

Changes in the conditions of life and a completely altered and widened outlook have brought about the expansion and the dispersion of every clan. No longer is it possible for a Chief to gather all his clansfolk round him. But the ancient spirit and loyalty of the men of old still survive: and the further from home a Highlander is, the more do his patriotic sentiments and his attachment to the name and haunts of his forefathers seem to increase in warmth.

The Clan Nicolson is now spread far and wide. The head resides in the antipodes:

the body, if one can so designate the largest unit, is still to be found inhabiting Skye, where there are districts almost entirely peopled by folk of the name; and the members are to be met with in most parts of the Empire and, it might almost be said, in most communities of Scots folk wherever they are to be found.

PART II

THE TARTAN, THE BADGE AND THE CHIEFS' ARMS

The Tartan.

Martin, the oldest and most reliable early authority on tartans, states that each island or each district had its own distinctive tartan. The possessions of some mainland clans and of all the great island ones were widely scattered, and in such cases different tartans would be worn by men of the same name, to form the distinguishing mark not of a clan but of a district.

He writes: "Every isle differs from each other in their fancy of making plaids as to the stripes in breadth and colours. This humour is as different through the mainland of the Highlands in so far that they who have seen these places are able at the first view of a man's plaid to guess the place of his residence."

Clan tartans, in the sense we know them now, came into use after 1782 on the repeal of the Act of Parliament which had prohibited the wearing of the Highland dress. The clan system had by that time become disintegrated, the relationship between Chief and vassal greatly altered, and whilst there sprang up a great keenness to wear the ancient garb, there was sometimes confusion among the clansmen as to the accurate choice of the tartan which would show the clan they lineally belonged to, and many of the old patterns had been lost. Occasionally one of these ancient tartans is brought to light, as occurred lately during a slum demolition in Edinburgh when a sett, which had been known only in Sobieski Stuart's book and believed not to be authentic, was discovered in the lumber of a room.

There is nothing to show what tartan was worn in Trotternish or by the Nicolsons before the '45. We may presume that when many new patterns were being woven all over the country, it was decided to manufacture a dress and a hunting sett for the whole family of Nicolson, to be worn by bearers of the name or their descendants, independently of their place of abode, provided they came of the original stock.

At first the pattern does not seem to have been standardised and weavers introduced slight variations of their own. An old fragment in the possession of Miss Martin of Husabost shows the dark stripes in the large red squares broader than usual and without the pale blue stripe.

Logan states, in McIan's Costumes of the Clans, that he had never seen the Nicolson tartan, although he did not deny its existence, and he has thus led many to believe that it did not exist until quite modern days.

The two setts were known almost a century ago to Mr. Mackay of Portree, a leading authority at that time, and Mr. Peter McArthur of Glasgow told the writer that patterns of both had been in the books of his firm from an even earlier date: so neither sett can be said to be modern.

The setts as worn to-day are as follows:—

Hunting.—Black 88, red 10, blue 88, black 4, green 4, black 4, green 4, black 4, blue 88, black 4, green 4, black 4, green 4, black 4, red 10, blue 88, red 10, green 88, black 4, yellow 4, black 4, white 4, black 4, green 88.

Dress.—Green 20, red 2, black 8, light blue 2, black 10, red 12, green 2, red 12, black 2, red 12, green 2, red 12.

The Badge.

One of the strangest uncertainties in connection with the Clan is that of the badge. As it was as much a distinguishing mark as the tartan, and probably a considerably older one, it is curious that statements differ as to its identity. Some assert that it is the trailing azalea which grows freely in Skye. So far as we know, the Macnaughtons are the only other clan which has this badge: but although there is said to be an ancient connection between them and the Nicolsons, it is too dubious to base any argument on in favour of a badge common to both. Of course we find it not unusual all over the country for unconnected clans to have the same badge.

Others state that it is the juniper: and if this were true it might point to a clan or territorial

Pascagoula Public Library
Local History & Genealogical Dept.
Nicholson Family File #2

connection with the MacLeods of Harris who also have it for their badge. Possibly it points to an older connection with the Earls of Ross, the first Scottish superiors of Skye, who wore the juniper, the MacLeods and the Nicolsons acquiring it from this mutual source. Apparently the Nicolsons never wore the fraoch, or heather, the badge of the whole Clan Donald.

THE CHIEFS' ARMS.

The achievement of Arms of Norman Alexander Nicolson, Chief of the Clan, as granted by the Lord Lyon King of Arms is as follows:—

On a field or, a chevron between three hawk's heads erased, gules.
Crest.—A hawk's head erased, gules.
Motto above.—Sgorr-a-bhreac.
Motto below.—Generositate non ferocitate.
Badge.—A hawk's leg gules, belled and jessed or.

The coat of arms is the personal property of the individual to whom it has been granted and cannot be legally used by anyone else. The crest and the motto of a chief may be said to belong to the clan only by long and universal use.

A peaceful clan such as the Nicolsons would never have felt the need of a slogan, but if ever the day were to come when clans are again massed for warfare, an unthinkable possibility, the slogan would evidently be "Sgorr-a-bhreac."

SHERIFF NICOLSON

No account of the Skye families would be adequate without more than a passing reference to one member who, in his day and generation, stood for all that was typical of a Highlander and who was recognised as a poet of distinction, a notable scholar and a perfervid lover of the Isle of his birth.

Sheriff Alexander Nicolson was the son of Malcolm Nicolson, proprietor of Husabost, a member of the Strath branch of the Clan. Here the future Sheriff was born in 1827. He gained high honours at Edinburgh University, where he acted for a time as deputy to Sir William Hamilton the philosopher, and as assistant to another professor. He intended to enter the Church but gave up the idea, as he said "the officers' uniform in that excellent body is painfully tight."

After working for some time at journalism he entered on the study of Law and was called to the Bar in 1860. But the great expectations of a brilliant career there which he had raised in his friends were not fulfilled. His best work was done as a member of the Commissions appointed to inquire into the state of the Highlands and the troubles of the crofters. While a member of the Scottish Education Commission he visited all the Western Islands and gained a first-hand knowledge of the conditions of life there.

In 1872 he was made Sheriff-Substitute of Kirkcudbrightshire and held a similar post at Greenock in 1885. His legal duties became less congenial to him than literary work and he retired in 1889.

He published a scholarly and comprehensive collection of Gaelic proverbs, wrote many poems chiefly in praise of Skye, translated some of the old Gaelic epics, and was sub-editor of the Encyclopædia Britannica.

By his brilliance, his wit, and his friendliness he won a notable place in the society of the Capital, and indeed wherever he went. During his later years and for long after his death, the thought of Skye and the thought of the Sheriff were always coupled in the minds even of those who had no direct acquaintance with either the island or the man.

FAMILIES ON THE MAINLAND

ALTHOUGH their connection with the Nicolsons of Skye cannot be definitely established, it is believed that a group of lawyers who lived in Edinburgh at the beginning of the seventeenth century were descendants of a family or families who had come from the north-west of Scotland.

The Nicolsons of Lasswade, of Carnock, of Tillicoultry and of Cockburnspath have this Edinburgh ancestry: and the Nicolsons of Kemnay and of Glenbervie, belonging to Aberdeen, can also be said to have a probable Skye origin.

A short record of these families may therefore suitably find a place in any account of the Clan as a whole.

Those of the name who are to be found in Galloway are descended from the original Vikings, or from the Skye family at a later date. Robert Nicolson who died at Blackshaw, Dumfries, in 1678, left a son Matthew, who migrated to Liverpool where he was in business as a merchant. He seems to have been the first in his family to add the "h" to the surname. A large number of his descendants are living in Liverpool and Manchester.

Nicolsons of that Ilk and Lasswade.

The Nicolsons of that Ilk and Lasswade trace their descent from James Nicolson, a lawyer in Edinburgh who married Janet Swinton, member of an ancient Border family. He died in 1580 and left, according to "Burke," two sons, (1) John, an advocate who acquired the lands of Lasswade in 1592, and (2) James, Bishop of Dunkeld.

John's eldest son was created a Baronet of Nova Scotia in 1629. Another son was Thomas of Cockburnspath.

(The "Fasti of the Church of Scotland" states that the Bishop of Dunkeld was the son of Thomas Nicolson of Cupar and Margaret Philip.) He was Moderator of the General Assembly in 1595 and 1606, minister of Meigle, Bishop in 1607, married Jane Ramsay of Banff, and had three children: (1) James, an advocate whose descendant became 8th Baronet; (2) Margaret; (3) Bessie. James's son, Rev. James, was minister of Tingwall in Shetland, in 1662, and his descendants have held properties in the islands for close on three centuries.

The present holder of the title is Sir Arthur J. F. W. Nicolson, 10th Baronet, who succeeded his father in 1917 and owns Brough Lodge, Fetlar, and Grimister House, Lerwick.

Nicolsons of Carnock and Tillicoultry.

The descent of this family is from John Nicolson, lawyer in Edinburgh, whose son John was created Baronet of Carnock in 1687. His eldest son Thomas married a daughter of the Earl of Linlithgow. Their daughter Margaret married Sir Thomas Nicolson, 1st Baronet of Glenbervie. Sir John's younger son was Sir John of Tillicoultry. The 3rd Glenbervie baronet married a daughter of Lord Napier and their son inherited both titles, but died at the age of eighteen. The Napier title went to his maternal aunt. Carnock was left to his sisters, and the baronetcy passed to his kinsman Thomas of Tillicoultry, who afterwards sold Tillicoultry and went to Holland. Sir David, his grandson, died in 1808, and the title passed to his cousin, General Sir Wm. Nicolson, whose only child became Rear-Admiral F. Erskine Nicolson and 10th Baronet. His son Arthur, born in 1849, was a distinguished diplomatist, ambassador at Petrograd during the war, and was made Baron Carnock in 1916.

The present holder of the title is his son Frederick Archibald, born 1888, whose younger brother is Hon. Harold Nicolson, C.M.G., of Sissinghurst Castle, Kent, diplomatist and M.P.

NICOLSONS OF KEMNAY AND GLENBERVIE.

The Nicolsons of Kemnay are descended from George Nicolson, merchant in Aberdeen. He was M.P. in 1617 and Provost in 1628. His son Thomas of Pitmedden, Lord Advocate in 1649, acquired the estate of Cluny and had three sons: (1) Sir George of Cluny; (2) Thomas, who became 1st Vicar Apostolic in Scotland in 1692; (3) James, laird of Trabroun, whose grandson James succeeded his kinsman Sir James Nicolson as 4th Baronet.

Sir George of Cluny, an advocate, was raised to the Bench as Lord Kemnay in 1711. He held Kemnay from 1682 to 1688, Balcaskie in Fife from 1689 to 1698, when it was sold to Sir Robert Anstruther, and ten years later he bought Upsetlington in the Merse.

Thomas, his eldest son, was created 1st Baronet of Glenbervie in 1700 and married Margaret, daughter and co-heir of Sir Thomas Nicolson, 2nd Baronet of Carnock. Their second daughter was the wife of William, Marquis of Lothian. Sir William, brother of Thomas, became 2nd Baronet. He died in 1766, and though he left twenty-two children the baronetcy soon lapsed.

Joan, 4th of Glenbervie, married Rev. P. Wilson, but resumed her name Nicolson on succession.

Anne Wilson, her daughter, married Dr. R. Badenach and adopted the name Badenach-

Nicolson. The present representative of the family is Arthur Badenach-Nicolson, 8th of Glenbervie, who owns Glenbervie House, Fordoun.

THE NICHOLSONS OF CUMBERLAND

The Nicholsons of Cumberland may also be said to be a branch of the Clan, as sons of the group of Vikings who settled in that district about the same time as their kinsfolk commenced to reside in the Hebrides. Like their northern relatives they do not figure in history to any great extent, but many of them have held distinguished positions in the civil service and in the army.

Three prominent men in England to-day hail from Cumberland. Sir Charles Archibald Nicholson, Bt., of Luddenham, is descended from a Cockermouth family; Sir John Norris Nicholson, Bt., of Kensington, comes from Kirkoswald, and Col. the Rt. Hon. William Graham Nicholson, P.C., traces his descent from John Nicholson of Great Corby.

Special mention should be made of two of the most illustrious descendants of the Cumberland Norsemen—Hon. William Nicholson of Australia, and Brigadier-General John Nicholson.

William Nicholson.

William, son of Miles Nicholson, a Cumberland farmer, was born at Lamplugh in 1816. He emigrated to Australia and set up business as a wholesale grocer in Melbourne in 1841. By sheer force of intellect, energy and character he rapidly rose to fame. In 1848 he was made a member of the city council and two years later became Mayor. In 1852 he was elected to the Legislative Council of Victoria. He has been called "the Father of the Ballot," since he fought successfully for the Bill which declared that "any electoral Act should be based on the principle of voting by ballot."

During a visit to England in 1856, where the Ballot had not yet been adopted, he was acclaimed as a great legislator and an address, signed by Cobden, John Bright and many others, was presented to him.

He became Premier of Victoria in 1859 and did much to settle the land question by proposing blocks of land for free selection. His views were embodied in the Land Act which was passed after great controversy. His activities were many. He founded the Bank of Victoria, and was widely known as promoter of the Benefit Building Society system. Shortly before his death he was Chairman of the Melbourne Chamber of Commerce.

BRIGADIER-GENERAL JOHN NICHOLSON.

John Nicholson was the son of a Dublin doctor whose ancestors had migrated from Cumberland to Ulster in 1589, and whose father lived in Co. Down. He was descended also from the Scorrybreck Nicolsons through a grandson of the 12th Chief.

John went to India in 1838 as a cadet in the Bengal infantry. After the Sikh war he was appointed assistant to the Resident at Lahore, and distinguished himself in the Sikh rebellion a year or two later. Lord Gough attached him to his staff and he was made a deputy commissioner of the Punjab, where he established law and order among the savage tribes in a truly wonderful way.

During the Mutiny he did more than any other man to keep Britain's hold of the Punjab intact, combining boldness with forethought, and energy with sound judgment. After leading the attack at Delhi, and gaining entrance into the city, he was shot in the back. As he was being carried to hospital in a dying condition an officer, known later as Lord Roberts, came to offer help and many years afterwards wrote: "Friends and comrades had been killed beside me; but I never felt as I felt then—to lose Nicholson seemed to me at that moment to lose everything." Lord Canning expressed the universal grief at his loss when he said that "a tower of strength had fallen."

Such was his influence on the natives that even during his lifetime "Nikkal Seyn" was worshipped as a god in Hazara, where the cult still persists.

John the 3rd of Merchiston was killed at Sauchieburn in 1488 in the entourage of James III: his grandson was killed at Flodden in 1513, his great-grandson at Pinkie in 1547. After that, the family returned to the financial sphere in which it had gained such eminence. Sir Archibald the 7th of Merchiston (1534–1608) was made Master of the Mint at a time when it fell to him to treat with the English concerning the currency at the union of the crowns. He travelled to London for this purpose in 1604, where his financial knowledge caused astonishment. All his life he was active in the affairs of mining for the metals from which the currency was minted.

Such was the father of John Napier of Merchiston (1550–1617), the inventor of logarithms. He was also an advanced agriculturalist. He experimented with manures, and invented a hydraulic screw and revolving axle to clear coal-pits of water. He designed military weapons. He composed anti-Catholic treatises. In 1614 his treatise on logarithms, which opened a new epoch in the history of science, was published.

He had trained his son in the study of agricultural improvement. But he was the brother-in-law of Montrose and he supported him until his death in 1645, the great year of his victories. So did his son John, who became the 2nd Lord Napier and died in exile in 1658. Thereafter the family achieved phenomenal distinction as soldiers. During the Napoleonic wars there were no less than five Napiers who became generals, besides a Field Marshal and an Admiral. One of these, General Sir William Napier, was the historian of the Peninsular war, while his younger contemporary, Mark Napier, will always be remembered as the biographer of Montrose.

Nicolson

Tradition, reinforced by the Gaelic genealogy of 1450, gives one branch the Nicolsons or MacNicols an extremely ancient origin in the lands between Assynt and Durness on the north coast. Their ownership, however, passed to the MacLeods of Lewis with a MacNicol heiress. Another tradition gives a different branch an equally ancient past in the Hebrides, where MacNicol of Portree was said to have been one of the sixteen members of the Council of the Lordship of the Isles before it was abolished in 1493. Here the earliest historical references to the name begin in Skye in 1507, and the Nicolsons of Scorrybreck become established from that time as a line of chiefs.

One of the most notable of these was Donald of Scorrybreck, who became Episcopalian parson of Kilmuir after the Restoration of 1660 and continued in his office until well after the Revolution of 1688. It was not until 1696, in fact, that he retired rather than conform to the new Calvinist order. His career was paralleled by that of Thomas Nicolson, who was converted to the Catholic Church in 1682 and was already working in the Scottish mission in 1688. He was imprisoned, but then allowed to leave the country. In 1695 he was appointed Scotland's first Vicar Apostolic, and although he was arrested on landing in the country, he was again released. So he was able to make the tour of 1700 which enabled him to write such a valuable account of life in the Hebrides at that time.

It was the turn of a Presbyterian when Donald MacNicol from Argyll made his precious collection of Ossianic ballads, before his appointment in 1766 as Minister of Lismore. A few years later Samuel Johnson made his Hebridean tour, and although he was correct in his judgment of MacPherson's bogus Ossian, he also made approbrious comments on Gaelic literature which incensed MacNicol. The result was his Remarks on Dr Samuel Johnson's Journey to the Hebrides. This tradition has been kept alive since by Alexander Nicolson, who was born in Skye in 1827 and compiled a collection of Gaelic proverbs which is a treasury of ancient wisdom and manners. A hundred years later another Alexander Nicolson published a History of Skye which integrates the traditional poetry of the island with exceptional skill.

The last chief of Scorrybreck emigrated to Australia, where the genuine line continues, although a bogus line from the Lowlands has since been established.

MACNICOL or NICHOLSON

CREST BADGE : A hawk's head erased, gules.
MOTTO : Sgorra Bhreac
GAELIC NAME : MacNeacail.

IN the old Statistical Account, the Rev. William MacKenzie, in his description of the parish of Assynt, writes : " Tradition and even documents declare that it was a forest of the ancient Thanes of Sutherland. One of these Prince Thanes gave it in vassalage to one Mackrycul, who in ancient times held the coast of Coygach, that part of it at the place presently called Ullapool." Mackrycul has been identified as the Gregall mentioned in the genealogy of the MacNicols in the MS. of 1450, and on the marriage of Torquil MacLeod to the daughter of the last of the MacNicol chiefs, the lands of Assynt passed to the MacLeods.

When Assynt passed to MacLeod, the Clan MacNicol appear to have emigrated to Skye, where the MacLeods had extensive possessions, and the lands of Scorrybreck near Portree were in possession of MacNicols or Nicolsons for several centuries. The clan played an important part in the history of Skye and from time to time their names appear in local records. The Rev. Donald Nicolson, who was chief of the Scorrybreck family at the end of the 17th century, was minister of Troternish for over thirty years. He was a strong Episcopalian, and resigned his charge in 1696 only because of his opposition to Presbyterianism which had become the established church. Norman, the last chief of Scorrybreck, emigrated to New Zealand.

There was also a strong branch of the MacNicols resident in Argyllshire.

EXTRACT FROM THE SPEECH OF THE PRESIDENT OF THE ST. ANDREW SOCIETY OF PHILADELPHIA ON 31st MAY 1973

We were organized 226 years ago and it is an established historical fact that the St. Andrew's Society of Philadelphia is the oldest charitable organization in continuous existence in North America. There is in the United States an older St. Andrew's Society than we are, the St. Andrew's Society of Charleston, South Carolina. They were organized in 1729 but they were not organized for strictly charitable purposes and also their membership requirements do not say that you be of Scottish birth or Scottish ancestry, and also in their original plan of organizaton there were certain social aspects included.

We are the original St. Andrew's Society in the entire world organized for charitable purposes only. In fact the matter is there is only one older Scottish organization in the entire world and that is the Royal Scottish Corporation which was organized in the 17th century during the reign of Charles I and the organization is still functioning and doing a very good job. We correspond back and forth. The reigning Monarch is always the Honorary President of that organization.

Sept Enligtenment - Clan Mac Nichol

by CAPTAIN ROBERT B. NICHOL

All Rights Reserved by the Author

I read somewhere a long time ago that the name NICHOL, with all its various prefixes, suffixes and alternate spellings, was the twenty-first most common name in the United States. That would make the MACNIC(H)OL sept a very numerous one within Clan Campbell, were it not for two unfortunate facts: a great many people - especially Americans - bearing one of the many forms of the surname have no Scottish heritage whatever, and those who ARE of Scottish descent (and have traced their genealogies) are as likely to attach themselves to Clan MacLeod as to Clan Campbell. As a matter of fact, since (let's admit it) the Campbells have enjoyed quite an unsavory, Machiavellian reputation among the other Scots for so long, I would bet money that Clan MacLeod has attracted many more than its fair share of MACNICOLs (more about this later). Personally, I have felt no regrets over assuming my rightful position beside my Argyll kinsmen; this article, inspired by the Clan Campbell Society's call for 'sept enligtenment,' is dedicated to those many Patrick MACNICOLs who persist in thinking they're MacLeods.

A Genealogical Nightmare

For American genealogists, NICOL presents a special research problem because of the many sources of the name, and the ease with which the spelling can be changed, either by error or through ignorance. Since NICOL is by far the most common form of the name, those surnames lack the "s" have been doomed to a lifetime of correcting the inevitable misspellings and mispronunciations. Imagine, then, the effect the same error can have in written records. More than once, I have checked the index references under NICHOLS only to find that one of them was NICHOL, and after all - and this even occurs in books by genealogists, who certainly should have known better. I have also seen an early passenger list of Scottish emigrants in which the father was MAC NICHOL while the children were MCNICOL, unfortunately due to a lack of attention to detail on the part of the immigration official. It pays to check for NICKLE, NUCCOL, NICKOL, etc., if the name is not found under the conventional spellings NICOL or NICHOL.

Deliberate changes to the name have also been fairly common in the U.S. "Mac" and "Mc-" prefixes have been dropped in the name of conformity, as have suffixes such as "aides", "ayev", "etti", etc.; NICKLAUS, NICKOLE and other forms have been Anglicized. I have found one instance of a NICHOLL who spelled his children's surname NICHOL, and I suspect that at least a few with the NICHOL surname have added the "s" just to relieve themselves of the burden of correcting others.

Clan history and all that set aside for the moment, how can it be determined whether an American NICOL surname is Scottish in the first place? The obvious solution is genealogical research, which could take years. If one lacks the time, money or patience needed to find his roots, a certain amount of logic, applied to known facts and tempered by a few rational assumptions, might be a satisfactory substitute for a full-blown family tree. First, it is important to be reasonably certain that the name has not been altered from obviously non-Scottish form such as NICKLAUS. This should not be difficult, since the other ethnic groups commonly found with names derived from the NICOLAS root (Scandinavian, Greek, French, Italian, etc.) usually promote their own cultural pride as readily as any true Scot would.

Second, if your name is "Mac" or MCNICOL in one of its many forms, assume it's Scottish and use your energies in more worthwhile pursuits; any non-Scot named MacNicol must have quite a story to tell! NICHOL, on the other hand, is more difficult to classify in any of its variations. In his SURNAMES OF SCOTLAND, George Black warns us that modern spellings of the name originated with the Norman French, and that one NICOL line is actually nothing more than a common Norman misspelling of "Lincoln". Nevertheless, most of the early references to the various NICOL surnames cited by Black are Scottish in origin, so if your grandfather told you that your NICOL branch is Scottish, it most likely is.

The Gaelic form, NEACAIL, is an important clue to the origins of derivative Scottish surnames. Though it may be of the same Indo-European origin as NICHOLAS, it predates the Norman invasion and doubtless took on the Latin/Norman spellings in early Medieval times. NEACAIL and NICHOLAS are at best only distant cousins, linguistically speaking, being related in much the same way that the national names "Erin" and "Iran" are, from an extremely ancient Indo-European root. For this reason, it is my opinion that the NICOL surnames bearing the final "s" are much less likely to be Scottish. Except in the rare instances in which NICHOLS may be a contraction of NICHOLSON, or in which the "s" was added deliberately as discussed earlier, NICHOLS is almost certainly an alternate form of the non-Gaelic NICHOLAS.

History and Tradition

What little can be said about the history of Clan MACNICOL comes from a handful of traditions and a very little smattering of facts. It is apparent from the variety and dispersal of sources on the subject either that there has been more than one Clan MACNICOL in Scottish history, or that the clan was "broken" (lost its hereditary chief and lands) and scattered a very long time ago. I subscribe to the latter theory.

The most frequently repeated story explaining the origin of the clan is based upon an early northern Scottish tradition, supported by the important MANUSCRIPT OF 1450, also known as the GAELIC GENEALOGY: an individual named MACKRYCUL (or RICUL, or GRECALL) who lived with kinsmen in the forest of Coigach, north of what is now Ullapool in western Ross, subdued a party of cattle-thieves returning from a Sutherland raid. The ruler of Sutherland was so pleased with MACKRYCUL and his men that he bestowed upon them the lands in the district in which they already lived (and which they must have pretty much controlled already; but this "good deed" version makes a nice story!). This MACKRYCUL was the first chief of what was to become Clan MACNICOL, through a linguistic transmutation that is beyond me. As the story goes, the male line of chiefs died out around 1300, and the surviving female married Torquil MacLeod on the powerful MacLeods of Lewis, who remained preeminent in the former MACNICOL territory from that time on.

It is unlikely that this union with the MacLeods is the reason that we find NICOLSONs on the Isle of Skye, even if the MACKRYCUL story is essentially true. Many accounts attempt this linkage, although evidence shows that the Skye branch is probably as ancient as that of Ross-shire, predating Torquil MacLeod's wedding by at least two centuries. The chief of the Skye NICOLSONs, "the" MACNICOL of Scorrybreck, was established on lands near Portree as early as 1050, and his line is well-documented from that time to the present (the current chief emigrated to Australia a while back, though). Furthermore, Torquil MacLeod didn't meet MACNICOL's daughter by accident; it is probably safe to assume that the marriage was just one instance of a long series of cordial relations between the island chiefs and the coastal tribes. The Scorrybreck clan might have originated in Ross, and could easily have spread to Skye, but it would have to have been at a much earlier time. The idea that there is some connection between the two is supported by the fact that, except in reference to the Skye chiefship, the surname is given as NIC(H)OLSON in both districts to this day.

How, then, do the authorities account for the MACNIC(H)OLs of Argyll? Most don't even try, although they generally make some statement to the effect that there is a strong branch of the clan in that shire. There are two traditions that suggest that this NICOL line is completely unrelated to the Ross-Skye ones, but neither has any adherents, judging from available sources. The first in the Argyll MACNICOL line came from the House of Argyll, originating with one of the early Colin Campbells whose given name, a recognixed derivative of NICOLAS, was often converted to NICOL. The other (cited by Black in SURNAMES OF SCOTLAND - I could find it nowhere else) asserts that the Glenorchy MACNICOLs are descended from a Nicol M'Phee (Mac Fie) who lived in the 16th century. I would give this tale no more notice than the other were it not for my friend, fellow North Carolinian, Campbell Society member and dedicated genealogist, William A. Mitchell, Jr., who has used the M'Phee version to explain the Argyll MACNICHOLs in a collection of "sept enlightenment" sketches of his own that have been forwarded for publication in the JOURNAL.

While these two "spontaneous generation" stories offer simple solutions to a difficult question, corrobration of either is completely lacking. It is possible that both are fabrications spawned by the 19th-century romantics in the same spirit as that famous pseudo-Scottish hoax, the VESTIARIUM SCOTICUM. At any rate, although such tantalizing oral traditions certainly need to be taken into account in an essay of this sort, there does not appear to be a single good reason to believe in them. (Can anyone out there offer one?)

Far more believable, I think, would be a scenario taking place over a long period, say between 800 and 1200 A.D., in which a "broken" Clan MACNICOL reestablished itself in smaller branches scattered throughout the Isles and along the western coast of the Highlands, as far north as Lewis and Caithness and as far south as Arran and the Lorne-Lochawe-Glenorchy districts of Argyllshire. This would explain why there were already MACNICOL kinsmen on Skye when the MacLeod-MACNICOL union took place. The prima facie case for such a dispersal is strong (after all, MACNOCOLs were widely dispersed by about 1250), and is supported by evidence that at least some members of the clan were seafarers. If the MACNICOLs really were in good stead with the island chiefs from early times - and there is no reason to doubt it, considering their long coexistence - the ancient connection between the rulers of Argyll and the South Isles would certainly admit the settlement of MACNICOLs along the firth of Lorne. In my opinion, this line of reasoning accounts for the known facts in a very satisfactory manner, and without resorting to the great leaps of faith required by the other hypotheses.

Clan Allegiances and Tartans

If one believes or has established that his NICOL line is Scottish, and he desires to join a clan organization, the next step is to determine to which clan his forebears most likely lent their support. Again, genealogy is the most reliable means; but while the search is in progress (as is my own), an informed guess is certainly good enough, especially since a MACNICOL can't lose money by buying the "wrong" tartan (more on this in a moment).

A NIC(H)OLSON should consider his line a sept of Clan MacLeod of MacLeod (Harris and Dunvegan), for although there may be other Nicholsons, those of Skye carry the Chief's authority. Sir Ian Moncreiffe, as well as several other experts, include NIC(H)OLL and NICOL in this sept, as well, although I suspect that some of these may belong to MacLeod of Lewis, descendants of the Ross-shire clan that followed Torquil MacLeod.

A person named (MAC)NICHOL of MACNICOL should certainly ally himself with Clan Campbell unless proof leads him elsewhere. This is especially true of southern Americans, as a perusal of Scottish immigrant lists from southeastern coastal states show quite clearly that a majority of those with these surnames who came to America from Argyll, especially Glenorchy.

As for tartans, two setts are pretty universally recognized as pertaining to Clan MACNICOL. the predominantly green or muted one, usually referred to as "hunting MACNICOL", is pictured in example #101 of the pamphlet THE GUIDE TO SCOTTISH TARTANS. This illustration gives a good idea of the pattern, but in the examples I have actually seen the greens and blues were much darker. The red or "dress MACNICOL" tartan is quite different from the hunting set', and is the one most frequently shown in the tartan books. The exact arrangement of colors in this set has never been fully established, so several patterns exist; my research has led me to suspect that McIan's totally imaginary 1846 illustration of a MACNICOL maiden (kindly reproduced for us in that marvelous Knopf reprint this year!) may be one source of the confusion. At any rate, it seems to me that a MACNICOL tartan being actually worn in Argyll, such as that in the photograph on page 406 of the March, 1968 issue of NATIONAL GEOGRAPHIC magazine, makes as good an example as any. For a closer look at that set (though the color reproduction is poorer), see page 250 of Robert Bain's THE CLANS AND TARTANS OF SCOTLAND. Both setts are worn by Scottish MACNICOLs of whatever sept, but I cannot make any sort of informed statement about the age of either pattern. I have been told that one of the red NICOL tartans "from an early collection' in the museum at Fort William is given as "MacLeod and MACNICOL"; if anyone is headed that way, I would love to know which pattern it is, and how old.

In conclusion, I must emphasize that I am strictly a beginner when it comes to the subjects of Scottish history and Scottish genealogy, and that I have limited in this particular effort not only by inexperience, but also by a lack of primary – i.e. Scottish – sources. There may be errors or inconsistencies in some of the statements I have made; if so, I would appreciate any further light that anyone can shed on the subject of Clan MACNICOL. The fact that I was able to write this article at all is due largely to the assistance rendered by the Genealogy Committee of the Clan Campbell Society (U.S.A.). I especially made use of the authoritative information on tartans provided by J. Charles Thompson, and the personal interest and resources of William A. Mitchell, Jr. (I hope I am forgiven for not believing the M'Phee legend!)

MacNICHOL

There are numerous variations of the surname MacNICHOL, including Mac NICOLL, MacNICKLE, NICOLSON, and NICOLSON, among others. The surname derives from the Middle Gaelic "M'NIC-AIL" (son of Nicol), from the Latin NICOLAS.

A small sept of the MacNicholas in Western Scotland are now [illegible] name of [illegible].

The [illegible] Grenorchy, according to tradition, originated from Nicol M'PHEE, who left Lochaber in the 16th Century. They are thus properly considered M'PHEEs.

MacNicoll of Portree, Isle of Skye, was a member of the council of Mac-Donald, Lord of the Isles, at Finlaggan Island, Isley.

The book, SCOTTISH FAMILY HISTORIES, lists numerous entries for families of this and related surnames. The reader should see entries under NICOLL, Arran; NICOL (of BALLOGIE, of BORLUM, of NETHERWOOD); NICOLSON (of BALCASKIE, of CARNOCK, of COCKBURNESPATH, of GLENBERUIE, of HOULL, of KILTARLITY, of that Ilk & LASSWADE, of LOCHEND, of NETHER INVERVEDDIE, of EHEBSTER, and of TILLICOULTRY); NICOLSON (of ARISAIG), with "The Account Book of Magdalen NICHOLSON, Widow of Sir Gilbert Elliot of Stobs, 1671-1693", by A.O. One Tombstone

By Mildred S. Watkins
Journal Staff Writer

"We have a tombstone in our front yard. What can we do with it?"

THIS WAS the question of Mr. and [illegible] Dr., [illegible] Steve, 12, [illegible] Mrs. [illegible] Circle found the tombstone [illegible] you on 70th Street near [illegible]

Mark and Steve lugged the 115 year-old [illegible] master, in good condition except [illegible] upper corner, to Steve's house, [illegible] it against a tree and began a [illegible] for its proper resting place. After [illegible] successful attempts, they contacted the Journal for help.

AT FIRST it was hoped the heavy [illegible] during the Spring had washed the [illegible] from the banks of the [illegible] that possibly a long-lost cemetery was to be discovered. Bayou Pierre, many years ago, meandered uncontrolled in the southeastern section of [illegible] Parish, [illegible] with Sand Beach and Pascagoula Bayous. Tom Parker Wallace, 106 and Ben [illegible] of the area [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] by planters with labor-rich and [illegible] [illegible] in the 1830's and 1840's but very few cemeteries for these families have been found.

Regretfully, such was not the case. Vandals had apparently been at work and the original resting place of the tombstone was finally located on the Meriwether Road, just west of the Mansfield Road.

THE INSCRIPTION reads: "To the memory of Angus B., son of A. and M. Nicholson, born Dec. 31, 1851, died Oct. 23, 1852; Thou hast our angel; Lord, Almighty and just, To whom could we better, our treasure trust."

Angus B was one of several children of [illegible] Nicholson and his wife, Mary (Youngblood) Bosworth, who died between 1852 and [illegible] who were all buried in the family cemetery on the old [illegible] Nicholson plantation, now the property of Jack R. Dunn and Eugene F. Dunn on the Meriwether Road.

THE TOMBSTONE is being replaced in the small graveyard by Jack Dunn who said the area on the back of his property is now badly grown up with weeds and fallen trees.

Angus Nicholson, born July 1, 1806, died Jan. 7, 1876, is buried in the cemetery, as is his wife, Mary (Youngblood) Bosworth, who he married in 1842. Her tombstone shows she was born July 18, 1821 and died April 9, 1902.

OTHERS BURIED here include: Alexander, son of A. and M. Nicholson.

* Everything seems to indicate there were only one Peter Nicholson, nine children in all

The Nicholson family came to Caddo Parish in the late 1830's, about the time it was formed from Natchitoches Parish. Peter Nicholson, a widower with two sons, came from Scotland to America about 1805 and soon married Margaret McSwain. They settled first in the Pearl River and Amite area of Mississippi, according to Mrs. G. A. Frierson and Mrs. W. E. Maxwell, who live south of Shreveport and who are descendants of Angus Nicholson, and from information given by the late L. S. Frierson.

PETER NICHOLSON was drowned in Pearl River and his widow, along with their children, moved on to Caddo Parish. These children included Angus, Peter (Jr.), Roderick, Roderick (2), Peter, Roland, Daniel, Malcolm, Sarah Elizabeth and Euphremia (Effie) Nicholson. Most of these settled in the southern section of Caddo Parish, each on his own place.

About the time Angus Nicholson built his home on the Meriwether Road, on the highest point in that area, a younger brother, Roderick, settled just south of him in an area east of the Mansfield Road.

Roderick Nicholson married in 1848 to Susan Ann Quarles (daughter of another pioneer, Daniel C. Quarles), reared his family and established his family cemetery what is now Toronto Lane.

A BROKEN stone in this graveyard is believed to be that of the eldest of the Nicholsons in Caddo Parish, the widowed mother, Margaret McSwain Nicholson, born July 1, 1789, died Oct. 25, 1861. Roderick, born in March, 1809, died in 1887 is buried here, but the dates are almost eroded from his marker, according to Mrs. Larry C. Oliver, 4423 Piney Dr., a great-granddaughter.

Others buried here include: Susan A. (Quarles), wife of Roderick Nicholson, died April 22, 1841, age 45; Roland Nicholson, June 5, 1862-1893 (part of stone broken), John H. Carleton (first husband of Mrs. Nicholson), Sept. 1, 1842-April 10, ...; Alex Nicholson, Sept. 18, 1851-July ...1930; Infant daughter of D. E. Nicholson, May 31, 1862-Sept. 11, 1889; Ross Nicholson, Dec. 4, 1876-Feb. 10, 1923, age 47; Daniel E. Nicholson (Jr.), Aug. 26, 1885-Nov. 5, 1918, age 33 years, 2 months; Alson Taylor (husband of Sarah Elizabeth Nicholson), April 17, 1807-Aug. 27, 1878; Tranquilla Hall (wife of John Hall), died Dec. 22, 1859, age 30 years; John E. Hall, 1835-July 17, 1877 (broken stone), and one small stone with the initials J. A. H. only.

PETER NICHOLSON, another of the brothers, was a physician and established his home on a hill east of what is now Street Acres and known some years ago as the old Herndon Place. He married Laura J. Willis and had three children, Margaret, Josephine and Robert P. Nicholson. Dr. Nicholson died before 1847 and his widow then married James B. Willis and moved to Desoto Parish. No marker has been found for him.

Roderick Nicholson, a brother to Roderick the one who married Susan Ann Quarles), Peter and the others, married Mary Ann McDaniel and they had four children: Peter, Elizabeth, ... and Catherine. He died about 18..., but his place of burial ... unknown. His widow, Mary Ann, married John D. ... and remained in Caddo Parish. She died in the late 1850's and her two sons moved about that time to California, while one of the daughters married a McCutcheon.

ANOTHER BROTHER, Camel Nicholson, married Candace Taylor. He died about 1841 or 1842 and she moved to Mississippi, although a Marshall family here descends from this line. Nothing is known of Roland Nicholson, another brother, and Malcolm, still another, reported died unmarried.

Sarah Elizabeth Nicholson, one of the two sisters, married Alson Taylor, believed to be a brother to Candace, and they had a daughter, Tranquilla Taylor who married John E. Hall. All of these are buried in the Roderick Nicholson cemetery off Toronto Lane.

The other sister, Euphremia (Effie) Nicholson, married Jesse V. Bradley in 1859.

A WANDERING TOMBSTONE — When Steve Love (left), 12, and Charles Foster (right), 11, found this 111-year-old tombstone recently in Bayou Pierre at 70th Street they lugged it to the nearby Love residence on East Ridge Drive and then realized they didn't know what to do with it. RICHMOND COUNTY IMMIGRANTS

Approximately one million persons have emigrated to North Carolina the past three hundred years, coming from many other states and many other countries. As late as 1850 there were nearly [illegible] persons living in North Carolina who were born elsewhere - out of a total population of approximately 869,000. Of the 24,000, there were 853 who were born in Germany, 394 born in England, 362 born in Ireland, and 1,412 born in Scotland. (For further details, see the [illegible], page one of this publication.)

Very few records have been preserved, especially for the 1600's and 1700's, showing the names of immigrants to North Carolina, or from whence they came. The following record lists [illegible] persons, mostly from Scotland, who were immigrants into Richmond County, North Carolina, [illegible] early 1800's.

The following list was [illegible] Archives, P. O. Box 1881, Raleigh, N. C. [illegible]:-

The above taken from N.C. Marriage and Death Notices, 1799 - 1825, Compiled by Carrie L. Broughton, Gen. Pub. Co., Inc., Baltimore, 1975.

Have found the following Nicholsons as being born in Scotland as shown On the 1850 Miss. Census:

Alexander Nicholson in Jasper Co.
Nicholas Nicholson in Jasper Co.
John Nicholson in Marshall Co.

Dr. Malcolm Nicholson married Mary Avirett of Havana, Florida. He was born in Cumberland Co., N.C. about 1790, migrating to Chesterfield Co., S.C.. He practiced medicine in Burke Co., Georgia. He is described as the Father of Medicine in Florida. His son Archibald married Martha Anne Adelia Wyatt, daughter of Harris T. Wyatt who went from Lunenburg Co., Va. to Gadsden Co., Florida.

Family records say Angus Nicholson, son of Donald Nicholson and Anne Martin Nicholson from Isle of Skye had sons and two daughters, born between 1785-1798.

The above two articles I received from Mrs. Nettie Gove Nicholson of Florida. I tried to get more information from her but was unable to do so. She published a book about Nicholsons from Skye to Prince Edwards Island and the U,S.A. I tried to buy a copy but she had sold out.

A Danish knight from Skye, Sir Andrew Nicholson, commanded one of Haco's ships at the battle of Largs in 1263. His family held the peninsular of Trotnerish and there is record of one hundred chiefs who held the office in succession.

Neil Nicholson was in the House of Commons 1828-1829 from Richmond Co., N.C.

In the Isle of Lewis in the Outer Hebrides even now the families bear mainly three names, Morison, Macleod and Nicholson. Page 63 In Search of Scotish Ancestry by Gerald Hamilton-Edwards, Gen. Pub. Co., Inc. Baltimore, 1972.

Jan. 1791 the Legislature elected Morgan Brown as one of the County Judges for Marlborough County.

At the same time Wm. Easterling was elected as one of the Justices of Quorum and the Peace for ,arlborough.

The book also mentions in various places things published in these early newspapers; Carolina Gazette, Charleston Courier, Raleigh Star and the S.C. Gazette. These would be good to look up for information.

Summer Trees history a story of families

BY Hubert H. McAlexander, Jr.

Of the old structures scattered over the hills of Marshall County, perhaps none has been more fortunate than the lovely plantation house known for the last forty years at least as Summer Trees. The mellow beauty of the old brick, the six graceful Ionic columns, and the elegant Greek Revival facade has stirred various people over the years to come forward whenever the place has been threatened by neglect or changing economic conditions. For this treasured landmark (located four miles northeast of Red Banks on Sections 31 and 32 T2, R3), however, we have had no reliable history, only legends--and those have become attached to it only after the Neely Grants saved and carefully restored it in the mid-1930s. These garbled tales have obscured the true story of both the house and the family that built it. The time has come to set the record straight, to give back to the old landmark its real history.

All treatment of the house has begun with the statement that it was built by Sanders Taylor either in 1812 or in 1829-25. Any student of the county's past knows, of course, that no building of any pretension was erected here until after the United States government sold the land to settlers in 1836; any student of architecture knows that the high Greek Revival mode of Summer Trees belongs to the 1850s. It is interesting from a search of the land records to find that the land on which the house stands did not even come into the Taylor family until 1851 and that the buyer was not Sanders Taylor at all. These errors in assigning date and builder to the place, however, have provided a false base on which a number of other legends have five lived to maturity. Two of the daughters, Ophelia A. Taylor (born 1829) and Mrs. Candace Taylor Nicholson (born 1809) appear to have left little mark in this county. The three other children, however, had long connections.

The oldest son, Greenfield F. Taylor (born 1813), came here with his father, settled a plantation north of Chulahoma, and reared four children. Greenfield's oldest son, James S. Taylor (born 1848), married Mattie Bowen of Chulahoma in 1869. At Mrs. Mattie Bowen Taylor's death in 1932, she left one son, Guy P. Taylor of Orion, who died a few years ago and was survived by his widow, who has recently moved to the home of relatives in Desoto County.

Sanders Taylor's oldest daughter was Tranquilla Taylor (1806-1879), who married Spencer Harvey in 1826. Harvey was murdered by a slave in 1829, either in Perry County or in Covington County, where his widow was living when the 1830 census was taken. This murder has often erroneously been placed at Summer Trees, rather than in south Mississippi. In 1832, the widow married her late husband's best friend Robert McRaven; and in 1837, the McRavens joined the Taylor party that came to Marshall County. They settled a plantation near the village of Tallaloosa, and, according to one of their descendants, they lived in a large log house on the plantation. Robert McRaven died in 1857 and is buried alongside his father-in-law Sanders Taylor at Red Banks. Tranquilla had two Harvey children and nine McRaven offspring. These married among the Armisteads, Richmonds, Brunsons, and Rossells--all families from the Tallaloosa-Red Banks-Victoria area. The [illegible] of her children in married into the Poston and Deadrick families. Summer Trees was the home not only of the young couple, but probably of Sanders Taylor before his death in 1857, and clearly of his widow, who is listed there in the 1860 census.

Summer Trees, however, housed the Taylors for only a few years for in 1861, Wash Taylor left Marshall County and settled on a plantation that he had purchased three miles from Memphis, where he entered the cotton commission business as senior member of the firm Taylor, Radford & Company. In 1878, he lost his wife and two eldest sons in the yellow fever epidemic. The year before, he had found it necessary to mortgage his Marshall County holdings. Two years after his death in 1884, this land was sold to settle debts of his estate.

Though the selling of the plantation ended the family's connection with the county, a number of Wash Taylor's descendants still live nearby. Of his ten children, two daughter remained in Memphis: Helen, who married a Mr. Kennedy, and Sallie, who married Andrew Jackson Donelson, member of another prominent Memphis connection. Two of Wash Taylor's sons were also long established there. Frank Washington Taylor (born 1859 at Summer Trees) married Florence Goyer and was the founder of both Herron, Taylor & Company, a wholesale grocery house, and F.W. Taylor & Company, a brokerage firm. Joseph Hamilton Taylor (born 1862 near Memphis) married Minnie Cole, whose father founded Cole Manufacturing Company, of which Mr. Taylor served as vice-president. Harry D. Taylor, a third son, was a planter in Panola County in 1923.

spot is for me. Instead, I shall present the story of the family and the house and in that way correct the many errors now in print.

Though he never owned Summer Trees, Sanders Taylor was an important early citizen of the county, as were his children, but as first we'll get their history straight before going to the house itself. Sanders Taylor was born in 1782 in Johnston County, North Carolina, the son of the Reverend William Taylor, Jr., and Sarah Sanders. He married Sarah Green in 1805 and they lived in Anson County before moving to Perry County in south Mississippi between 1815 and 1817. Sanders Taylor established himself there as a prosperous planter, but he was to migrate twice more before his death. When he first purchased land in Marshall County in 1837, the deed (Book B, 299) describes him as a resident of Holmes County, where he had evidently settled just a few years before.

Taylor's first purchase in our county was Section 31, T3 R2, located a mile north of the Courthouse square, the approximate center being the present Danger Curve on Highway 78. In these early years he also bought and sold a number of town lots in Holly Springs, where he lived and where he served as town selectman (aldermen) in the years 1841 and 1845. In 1841, he was also a member of the Holly Springs and State Line Railroad Company, which unsuccessfully sought to raise funds for a nineteen mile line to connect with the Memphis and LaGrange Railroad. By 1850, he had moved to a plantation northwest of the town. Soon afterward, he began deeding most of his property to his youngest son and favored child Washington Sanders Taylor. The father probably moved to the place north of Red Banks now known as the Summer Trees plantation after his youngest son purchased it in late 1851. Sanders Taylor died in 1857 at the age of seventy-three. His grave marked by the most impressive monument in the Red Banks Cemetery.

Of the ten children born to Sanders Taylor, evidently only John Sanders Thrasher was practiced medicine in Byhalia. To my knowledge, no descendant is left here today.

The youngest son of Sanders Taylor (according to the family Bible, Sanders had no middle name) was Washington Sanders Taylor (1824-1884), known locally as Wash Taylor. With this man we now come directly to Summer Trees and its history. Remarkably, Wash Taylor, the builder, has been ignored in nearly all previous treatment of the place. By 1851, when he was twenty-seven, Wash Taylor was referred to by John McCartney Anderson in his diary as one of the "creek farmers" of the county. Taylor was, of course, the primary heir of a wealthy man, but he had also done exceptionally well with what he had been given. On 18 September 1851, he purchased from John B. Clopton the plantation north of Red Banks on Sections 31 and 32, T2, R3- the land on which now stands the house known as Summer Trees. The place had previously been owned by two other prominent citizens of the county--John B. Rogers, a wealthy planter, and the aforementioned Clopton, who, in addition to planting, also owned a mill on Coldwater. When purchased by Wash Taylor, the place already contained a dwelling, a log cabin probably built by Rogers in the 1830s and still standing today east of the brick plantation house. It is particularly instructive to see in such close proximity the log cabin built in our county's earliest days of settlement and the Greek Revival plantation house that replaced it. The two structures give striking physical testimony to the flush times here in the short twenty-five years between the settlement and the Civil War. As far as I know, the survival of two such structures on the same property in our county is unique to Summer Trees.

Summer Trees itself was built by Wash Taylor to house his bride, Ann Elizabeth Park, the belle of Memphis, whom he married in the early 1850s. Miss Park's father was mayor of the city, and one source notes that Park Avenue there was named for the family. Other Parks story of Summer Trees is the story of other families. The Taylors owned the place for twenty-five years longer, but after the war they rented it. Their most notable tenants were the Kirkpatrick family who with their kin Oscar and Jackson Johnson later founded the International Shoe Company in St. Louis. The next owner after Wash Taylor was William Houston Cannon, who held the property for over thirty years. A number of our older residents know the property as the "Hous Cannon place." The Cannons sold it in 1919 to Cochran, Simpson, and Tucker. In 1935, the badly deteriorating house was purchased and lovingly restored by the Neely Grants of Memphis. Built for the belle of Memphis, Ann Elizabeth Park, the house owes its continued existence to Memphians. In the past forty years, it has changed hands a number of times, the owners nearly always being Memphis people: the William Walkers, the artist Charles Inzer, and, for the past decade, the Alfred Cowles family.

Summer Trees has a long history of gracious country living and even of pomp and pageantry. In 1859, the "Wash Taylor place" was the scene of one of the largest tournaments ever held in the county, attended by between seven and eight hundred people (See South Reporter, 28 Apr. 1932). The spectacular hall was made for dancing, and over the years grand entertainments have been given in the house. Miss Martha Moseley, who danced there in the 1910s to the music of W. C. Handy, remembers that her mother also attended her first ball there during the Rand occupancy in the 1870s.

We are fortunate that this landmark survives, treasured evidence of our county's past. Perhaps now, over forty years after the house was saved from destruction, we can begin to remove it from the realm of legend and place it against the proper backdrop of history.

NOTE: Tom C. Stewart, Norman Chronister of the Department of Archives and History; and W. P. Nicholson, Jr., a Taylor descendant, have all aided me in research for this essay.

NICHOLSON BEDS ARE OLD-STYLE
Bricks Of Wall Were Kilned By Slaves

Malcolm, a son of Mr. and Mrs. Angus Nicholson, emigrated to America from Scotland in 1775, settled in Florida about the time it was acquired from Spain, and built the house to oversee his 4,000-acre plantation stretching along the Little River. Slaves provided labor to produce thousands of bales of cotton and bushels of corn. Their craftsmanship was used in the construction of the house.

HANDHEWN BEAMS

The five-bedroom home was built from materials taken from the plantation. Pine trees provided wood including giant handhewn floor beams and supports. Walls were constructed from bricks kilned on the plantation. The bricks were joined by mortar made of mud and clay. Wooden pegs substituted for nails. A blacksmith forged the hinges which still hold the handworked doors.

Scattered through the house are old style rocking chairs, bureaus, tables, settees and other antiques.

In the living room with an unusual arched ceiling is a piano shipped to America from England just before the Civil War. Nicholson said he recently refused an offer of $2,000 for the heirloom.

In the middle of the kitchen, within easy access to the cupboard, is an old style wood-burning cook stove. Pushed into

The homestead now consists of the house, farm buildings and 160 acres carried in the name of J. R. Nicholson and heirs. Nicholson, over the years, has personally purchased a thousand acres of the original plantation land.

Will Your House Stand Up As This House Has?

By DON RICHARDS
Democrat Staff Writer

Will your modern ranch style house with the 30-year mortgage stand the test of time?

Hidden down a dirt lane a few hundred yards north of State Road 12 near Havana, stands a house which has sturdily endured the test of time and weather, housing four generations over the past 140 years.

The old weatherboard house, located four miles west of Havana on SR 12, just east of the fire tower, is the home of Mr. and Mrs. Archibald Nicholson, the fourth generation of Nicholsons living there.

STURDY TRIBUTE

A sturdy tribute to the craftsmanship of a century and a half ago, the house stands as constructed years ago by slave labor.

The Nicholsons are a friendly couple, proud of their old family homestead and family tree.

They are lovers of old things, maintaining the house as originally constructed by Malcolm Nicholson, the builder, with the exception of a corner is a modern electric stove standing in stark contrast to the old-timer.

OLD-TIME FLAVOR

Explaining the new and only slightly used appearance of the modern stove, Mrs. Nicholson said the wood-burner gives food that good old-fashioned flavor.

Nicholson said only a few minor alterations and repairs have been made on the house since it was constructed. A new roof, weatherboarding and paint was added in 1932. A bathroom was installed with some interior repairs and screening of the front porch. Electric lights were installed in 1923.

Nicholson said a few small sections of the brick walls fell a few years ago during a rainy season.

Water is brought to the house from a nearby spring which has always furnished a fresh and ever-flowing water supply.

Archibald gave the house to a son, Joseph Rice Nicholson, who continued the family tradition by raising a family of six children.

Archibald, the second named in the family, received ownership from his father, Joseph Rice

Nicholson Archibald was born in the house 68 years ago and has lived there all of his life, in the family tradition.

Nicholson said he didn't know what will happen to the house in future years, because they have no children. He said he hoped it would pass on to someone who likes old things, so the house will be cared for.

The Nicholsons, sitting in the shade on the new kitchen steps, wonder if the new and modern houses will be able to stand the test of time, weather and families as stoutly as their house has.

CAPTAIN MARSHALL MORTON NICHOLSON

Marshall Morton Nicholson's paternal grandfather, William Nicholson with one brother and three half brothers, came to America from Scotland and settled in Virginia and fought through the Revolutionary War.

William Nicholson married Martha Richardson whose son William Richardson Nicholson married Jane Adair and who were the parents of Marshall Morton Nicholson.

Jane Adair's grandfather was James Adair, born in County Antrim, Ireland and came to America in 1735.

John Adair was born in Ireland and married Jennie Kilgore and settled in Kentucky. Their daughter Jane Adair, born March 11, 1797, died September 23,1867 at the old home place at Nicholson's Gap, Alabama (near Collinsville). Jane Adair was the mother of Marshall Morton Nicholson.

William Richardson Nicholson and wife, Jane Adair, came to Alabama about 1833 in the time of the Indians. On Sunday mornings they would gather their children and the Indian children together for Sunday School, teaching them to read from a spelling book and the Bible. The first Methodist Church in this part of the country was organized in their home. Out of eleven of their own boys, five became Methodist preachers.

Marshall Morton Nicholson was reared on a farm, attended a local school and was attending college at Lebanon, Tennessee when the war began. He enlisted September 4, 1861 in Company B, 3rd Confederate Cavalry and was elected Lieutenant. The regiment was composed of companies from Tennessee, Georgia and Alabama under General Joseph Wheeler in the Western Army. For feats of gallantry Lt. Nicholson was called for as special officer to pick brave comrades to go into the enemy's lines to find out movements and report. He was always successful.

He was appointed Captain of Company B, Third Confederate Cavalry Regiment, the latter part of 1864 and remained with the command throughout the war. When General Sherman took his march through Georgia, General Wheeler and his men went into South Carolina and North Carolina. Captain Nicholson was liked by all his men, a brave and gallant officer, and was honorably discharged at Hilboro, North Carolina, April 28, 1865.

After the war Captain Nicholson returned to his home in Sand Valley, near Collinsville, Alabama, and married Miss Rebecca Angeline Bynum of Bynum, Calhoun County, Alabama December 17, 1866. To this union was born two sons and four daughters.

He married, for the second time, Miss Sarah Ann Newman near Collinsville, Ala. To this union was born two children, a son and daughter. The daughter is Mrs. Marcus Marshal Dunson (Miss Annie Martin Nicholson) who resides in Gadsden, Alabama and is a member of the Etowah Chapter No. 1620 of the United Daughters of the Confederacy and is also a member of the Real Daughters Club.

Marshall Morton Nicholson died March 28, 1914 and was buried in the family cemetery at Nicholson's Gap, Alabama.

Mrs. Patricia Edwards,
P. O. Box 940, South Station,
Hattiesburg, Mississippi.

Dear Mrs. Edwards:

Thank you so much for your letter of September 29, in response to my inquiry some time ago in the (Jackson) Daily News.

For your information I am enclosing an outline of my line back to Charles Nicholson, and, I'm sorry to find, from this and other records I have accumulated as time has passed, I do not see any connection between your line and mine. My grandfather, Thomas William Nicholson, as you will note, was born in Williamston, Martin County, North Carolina in 1828. But there is evidence that, with his parents, he was living in Paynesville, Alabama (There is no such town now.) in Sumter County, in 1840, and as late as 1848. He was married in 1850, and shortly thereafter came to Mississippi, moving first, probably, to Hillsboro, north of Forest, and later to the place where he lived until his death, about seven miles south of Forest, Mississippi. He was an only child, and there is very little information concerning his ancestry.

There seems to be several families of Nicholsons in the state, but I haven't been able to trace any of them back far enough to find any connection, although I feel like there must have been. Of course there was a great migration from the areas adjacent to the few seaports to the South, and on to Texas, and other states west. We have a very good genealogical library here, and in August of this year I went to the library at Delta State College, at Cleveland, and did some research in the film records of some of the early census records, but found very little that I didn't already have. However, should you have an opportunity to do some research at M.S.U., there is, of course, the possibility of finding something of interest. It could be an endless undertaking

Mrs. Norman W. Lovitt, 2409 Hardy Street, your city, is my first cousin, as is, also, Mrs. Davis, at 216 North 21st Avenue, but I do not think either of them have done anything in this connection, unless Mrs. Lovitt has taken it up in recent months.

I'm sorry I do not have anything to add to that which you have in connection with your line, but should anything develop I shall be glad to pass it on to you.

Yours very truly,

A. N. Williamson

Among those listed are Warwick Bristow, Thomas F. Lamar, Jesse Wellborn, Benjamin Peyton, Nathan Lamar, David Sibert, Samuel B. Watts, Thomas J. Rogers, Jacob Gillespie, William R. Nicholson, Jeremiah Cox, Israel Cox, Andrew Igou, W. H. Holloman, S. Chasteen, Sampson Clayton, Gilbert Simms, Hezekiah Austin, B. Wright, Joseph Davenport, Richard Roberts, Morris Castell, William Pankey, Samuel D. Warren, George W. Hayes, Jesse Samples, T. K. B. McSpadden and S. C. Smith.

West gives special recognition to Warwick Bristow, a local preacher who first settled at a place called Bristow's Cove, named for him. This was one of the places visited by Hearn in 1818, and is still on the map. In 1834 Bristow moved into what is now DeKalb County, where he lived twenty years. He preached all over that section. During the last week of his life he attended some special revival services, and at the last service, though very feeble, he gave a call for church membership, preceding the call with these words: "During my ministry of about sixty years I have received many into the Church. I have received the white man, the black man and the red man. I come once more, my last time before quitting the field, as a recruiting officer, to enlist soldiers under the banner of Him who has established His throne by His cross." More than a dozen united with the church. He then, standing before the congregation with trembling limbs and whitened locks, a patriarch on the verge of the grave, and on the verge of heaven, made his farewell talk, saying, "This is the last time I shall ever meet you at church. I have very few more days to live. My work is done; my sufferings are over. I shall go to my home and I shall die without a struggle." At the close of the talk, says West, nearly every person in the congregation advanced to the altar, shook his hand, and received his blessing. The scene was most affecting. That was on Tuesday. Wednesday he visited a house, talked and prayed with the inmates, some of whom were sick. Thursday he went home. Friday, "without a pain or a struggle," he died. J. C. Stewart preached his funeral sermon, using as a text, "Lord, now lettest thou thy servant depart in peace, according to thy word; for mine eyes have seen thy salvation." West says: "At the church, near his home where he held his membership, were his remains buried to await the day when Christ shall conduct the armies of the righteous to the land of glory."

William R. Nicholson moved to Wills Valley in 1834, living there until his death in 1869. He had fifteen children, all useful members of the Church. Five of his sons became preachers. A church was organized in the residence of Nicholson in 1834, by Edmund Pearson, Superintendent of the Cherokee Indian Mission, Tennessee Conference. This church marked the beginning of organized Methodist work among the white people in Wills Valley. Three or four years later a meeting house, called Bethel, was built. For many years it was a center of Methodist preaching. It is probable that no fewer t twenty Methodist preachers could call Bethel their church home, and th number would include Warren D., Charles D., Evan, Rufus, and Priestly H sons of Wm. R. Nicholson.

Among the preaching places established, some still functioning, were Bethel, Bristow's, near which Brother Bristow lived, Camden, about two miles west of Portersville, Sulphur Springs, "down the valley about six miles from Valley Head," Salem, Shiloh, Muddy Pond, near Brannon's Spring, Mount Zion, Union Meeting House, and Lebanon. These were the first churches for white people organized in that section of the state.

Dear Pat,

Thanks very much for your letter of 24 August and all the information it contained. I am very glad that you understand that I cannot answer every letter promptly!! Working about 50 hours a week and with a family, it is very difficult to conduct my research and promptly keep up with correspondence. So, if you do not hear from me promptly, please do not feel offended - just keep me posted of any new developments.

Please tell me more about the Stricklands you mentioned in your last letter. I want to know more about them before I contact them. Is there any charge? What exactly is the service they perform?

I also have some records of the Daniel Nicholson in Jasper County. Jean Nicholson Loflin is also trying to figure out who they are. I have corresponded with a Mr. William Nicholson in Texas and I believe me told me that this Daniel was his ancestor and that Daniel was the son of Peter, ancestor of all the Nicholsons who settled in Caddo Parrish, Louisiana. I can look further into this, if you want me to. I know that they are not descendants of Nicholas Nicholson and that is why I have not pursued it any further.

The notes you sent on Angus Nicholson, son of Donald Nicholson and Anne Martin: This Angus is the same one as the Angus McNicol on the ship's passenger list with our Donald McNicol in 1775. I thought they were brothers but apparently not. As you can see by the research of Mr. Butcher, he thinks Angus and Donald were first cousins but I have not completely ruled out the possibility that they were brothers. As you can see by the records in Mr. Butcher's report, the Scottish records are not complete.

Yes, it is obvious that both John Nicholson and Archibald Nicholson settled in Wayne County. I agree that it is very confusing!! It appears that John died or else moved elsewhere (the Nicholsons were notorious for picking up and roaming all over the country - Jean Loflin says they did this for the sole purpose of confusing us!!). Now, how do you figure out if you are actually a descendant of John or Archibald??? In general, I would say that some died and some moved elsewhere.

In the early years of Wayne County, it was comprised of what is now 7 or 8 counties. I know that they would be the present counties of Wayne, Clarke, Jones, Jasper but which others I do not know. Have you definitely pinpointed the area that John and Archibald first settled? I know there are Nicholsons today in western Wayne County; also many in Jones County. Which present day county did they first settle? I have a record somewhere of a Nicholson group from Jones or Jasper who settled near Homewood in the southern part of Scott County. Someone told me of a cemetery there about two miles east of Honewood where many Nicholsons are buried. This is approximately 8 - 10 miles south of Forest, MS.

Re the book - no need to rush!! I feel like a drowning man who has gone under for the second time. I feel sure that it will be at least a year before we can send it to the publishers. I will let you know in plenty of time to get all your material to me. I was in Pensacola this past week on business and while there, collected about 30 hand-written pages of various Nicholson descendants (des. of Nicholas).

Well, it is quite obvious that enclosed are photocopies of Mr. Butcher's report of N.C records and Scottish records. I am very pleased with the results. As you can see, Nicholas and Archibald's (and John's) parents were Donald McNicol and Katherine McArthur. It appears further that Donald's parents were John McNicol and Ann McNicol McNicol (I read this as she was a McNicol before her marriage to John). It appears that John was possibly a son of Finlay McNicol and Ann McVicar. I am not looking at the report as I type this so could have some of the names spelled wrong or even listed wrong. I am sure you can figure it out. I regret very much that Mr. Butcher did not find a record of the birth of Archibald or Mary. These two were definitely children of Donald, per the ship's passenger list. This shows that the records are simply not complete. I believe they were in Glenorchy when Archibald and Mary were born and the births were simply not recorded or possibly a portion of the records were later burned or lost. Anyway, I believe you will be quite pleased with the report!! (We were) I have authorized Mr. Butcher to continue his research in Cumberland County, N.C. After that, I do not know of any other avenues left for research in Scotland, N.C. or S.C. I contacted two professional researchers in S.C. and they found absolutely nothing, advising that all the Chesterfield records were burned during the Civil War (very, very unfortunate).

Well, I did not mean to get so wound up, so will close for now. Keep me posted of any new developments. Will send you copies of Mr. Butcher's further research when received.

Best Regards,

Frank

Dear Mrs. Edwards,

Thanks very much for your letter of March 4. Please pardon the delay in replying - I received quite a number of letters the week I received your letter. I work about 50 hours a week & have only had time to answer about one letter a day. I am also appreciative of the census records.

Jean Loflin & I are 3rd cousins. We have been working on the Nicholson line together & have corresponded for years.

I am writing Mr. W. P. Nicholson, Jr. of Graham, Texas to see if we can exchange information. Thanks for giving me his name. I believe I have some records on his ancestor, Peter Nicholson.

You stated that you are a descendent of Archibald Nicholson of Chesterfield Co., S. C. My records indicate that Angus Nicholson and Annie McCall Nicholson listed in 1800 & 1810 Chesterfield Co. Census (Angus died 25 Sept 1818) had a son named Archibald but these same records indicate that he never married. Also, I obtained old records from descendants of Nicholas Nicholson (records were memoirs of Nicholas' granddaughter who was born in the 1840's) that simply state:

" Nicholas Nicholson had the following two Bros and sisters:

1. John Nicholson
* 2. Archibald (archie) Nicholson
✓ 3. Duncan Nicholson
4. Mary Nicholson - married John Pitts
5. Margaret Nicholson - married Angus Morrison and had at least two children, Kate and Murdock Morrison "

These records do not state who Nicholas' parents were but I feel that ~~Nicholson~~ Nicholas was the son of Daniel Nicholson who was listed in 1800 Chesterfield. A widow, Margaret Nicholson, appeared in 1810 + it appears she was the widow of Daniel (no proof). It also appears that Daniel was a brother to Angus who died in 1818 (no proof).

I would also venture to guess that your ancestor, Archibald, was the same Archibald who was a brother to Nicholas. Can you advise me when Archibald was born? Nicholas was born 1770/1771 and I believe he was probably the oldest child or one of the older ones (assuming he was a son of Daniel). If Archibald was born 1773-1785, I would think that he was the same Archibald who was a brother to Nicholas.

A distant cousin put up money for research in S.C. We had local records researched & also records at the Dept. of archives & history. They both came up with pratically nothing! (I know I could find something if I had the opportunity to spend several days in S.C.!).

I have considerable records of the descendants of Angus Nicholson who married Annie Mc Call. These records indicate that Angus was born in INVERARY, Scotland, married 1775 in Scotland to Annie Mc Call & came to America in 1775. These records indicate that they lived in CUMBERLAND Co., N.C. for several years before migrating to Chesterfield Co. prior to 1800. Records of Nicholas Nicholson also indicate they lived in Cumberland Co, N.C. prior to migration to Chesterfield Co. So, I feel there is definitely a connection & I would think Daniel & Angus were brothers. Records of Angus' descendants indicate that Angus was the son of DONALD NICHOLSON and ANNE MARTIN.

I would like very much to hear from you with information or even theories on the relationship of these early Nicholsons. Please tell me more about your ancestor, Archibald. Do you know who his parents were? If not, is it possible that he was a son of Daniel Nicholson? Where did he go or did he even leave S.C.? I am very curious about him as I believe our families tie in. (4)

(I see in your letter that Archibald went to Wayne Co., Miss. 1810 - 1812). This FITS!

Surely hope you find something in Salt Lake City in May! Please let me know if you do. If you have a few extra minutes, would appreciate your seeing if there is anything on Catherine (Kate) Wilkinson (who married Nicholas Nicholson ca. 1800) or her father, Edward Wilkinson of probably Marlboro Co., S. C. (Cheraw Dist.)

I am looking forward to your chart appearing in the Miss. Gen. Magazine.

Regards,

James D. Cook

P.S. Jean Loflin + I are compiling a history of Nicholas' descendants. If you feel (after comparing records) that Nicholas + Archibald were brothers, we would like to have a few pages on Archibald's family to include in our book.

emoval were effected, and the Methodist Episcopal Church ook steps to preach to the new settlers in that region of Alaama at least a year before the Treaty ceding the country was nade.

The Alabama Conference at its session at Greenesborough, Alabama, December, 1834, put in its list of appointments Wills Creek Mission, and assigned to it, for 1835, the Rev. Jesse Ellis. At the close of that first year there were reported on the work one hundred and eighteen white and four colored members. For the next year the appointment was put down as Wills Valley Mission, and two preachers, the Rev. Zaccheus Dowling and the Rev. Edward Graves, were sent to it. At the end of that year there were, in connection with the Mission, four hundred and ten white, twenty-four colored, and one hundred and sixty Indian members. No doubt the Indian members were, some of them at least, those who had been brought into the Church during the Mission work, by the Tennessee Conference, among the Cherokee Indians. The Tennessee Conference had a Missionary to the Cherokees there up to that time. That appointment was continued as Wills Valley until the close of 1846, when it was changed to the name of Lebanon. The preachers on Wills Valley were: for 1837, the Rev. John Foust and the Rev. James W. Brown; for 1838, the Rev. John Foust; for 1839, the Rev. Jeremiah Williams, who was a twin brother of the Rev. Uriah Williams; for 1840, the Rev. H. Bailey; for 1841, the Rev. Thomas D. Barr; for 1842, the Rev. William Rhodes; for 1843, the Rev. William Rhodes; for 1844, the Rev. James P. McGehee; for 1845, the Rev. William Rhodes.

The leading men in the Wills Valley charge in the early years of its existence were: Warwick Bristow, Thomas F. Lamar, Jesse Wellborn, Benjamin Peyton, Nathan Lamar, David Sibert, Samuel B. cove which has since borne his name, Bristow's Cove. In 1833 he moved into the bounds of the Cherokee country, and settled in Wills Valley. There he retained his home till he died in 1854, giving twenty years of his useful life to that section. While he was more noted for his piety than his talents, he possessed great power as a preacher. He was a great revivalist, so-called, possessing great faith, and giving himself much to prayer. He ever maintained a Christian character. The last week of his earthly pilgrimage he attended a series of religious meetings at one of the Churches of the Circuit. At the last service of the meetings, "in age and feebleness extreme" though he was, he gave to persons present an opportunity to join the Church. He said: "During my ministry of about sixty years I have received many into the Church. I have received the white man, the red man, and the black man. I come once more, my last time before quitting the field, as a recruiting officer, to enlist soldiers under the banner of Him who has established his throne by his cross." I shall go to my home, and I shall die without a pain or a struggle." At the close of his talk nearly every person in the congregation advanced to the altar, shook his hand, and received his benediction. The scene was most affecting. That was on Tuesday. Wednesday he visited a house, talked and prayed with the inmates, some of whom were sick. Thursday he went home. Friday, "without a pain or a struggle," he died. On the occasion of his funeral a sermon was preached by Dr. J. C. Stewart, from the Text: "Lord, now lettest thou thy servant depart in peace, according to thy word: for mine eyes have seen thy salvation." At the Church near his home where he had held his membership, were his remains buried to await the day when Christ shall conduct the armies of the righteous to the land of glory.

William R. Nicholson, who was born in South Carolina, July 10, 1800, moved into the bounds of the Cherokee Nation and settled in Wills Valley, Alabama, as early as 1834, where he remained until his death, June 25, 1869. He was a worthy member of the Methodist Episcopal Church a decade and a half before he immigrated to Alabama, and he was in Wills Valley before the beginning of the organization of the Methodist Episcopal Church there among the white population. He had fifteen children born to him, all of whom lived to mature years, and made useful members of the Church and Methodists. Five of the sons entered the ministry, and made efficient preachers. Propagation and ecclesiastical aggressions for the growth of the Church are at agreement. Both conduce to the ends desired. Brother Nicholson was prudent in conversation, just in business transactions, liberal, as liberality was accounted in his section of the Church, in his contributions and public benefactions. He was beneficent to the extent of his ability. He lived a good life. The blessing of God was in his house. He died well. His memory is a benediction.

In 1834, the Rev. Edmund Pearson, then the Superintendent of the Cherokee Mission under the appointment of the Tennessee Conference, organized a Society in the house of William R. Nicholson, at the foot of Sand Mountain, in Wills Valley. The mention of this incident leads to the further remark that in the obituary of the Rev. Edmund Pearson published in the General Minutes, there are two or more statements which are incorrect, and which, by suppression, deny some important facts in his life. The statements here alluded to set out that Pearson was for a number of years a member of the Holston Conference, and for three years a presiding elder therein, and that he was for a time a local preacher in Talladega County, Alabama. Whereas, he was never a presiding elder in the Holston Conference, and he was never a local preacher in Talladega County. From the end of 1821 to the end of 1825 he was connected with the Mississippi Conference as a traveling preacher. He was for one year, the year 1829, a member of the Holston Conference. From the latter part of 1832 to the latter part of 1837 he was a member of the Tennessee Conference, and for the years 1833 and 1834 he was Superintendent of the Cherokee Mission, in the latter year of which he organized that Society in the house of Nicholson. For about four years, or from 1838 to the close of 1841, he was a local preacher in the Wills Valley Circuit, and did more to improve and elevate the style of work and the sentiment of the Church

Dear Mrs. Edwards,

Thank you for your interesting letter of February 23rd. My research has been "in limbo" for several years — since my first wife died, my eldest son lost his left arm, I remarried, moved into a new house and have a family of six grown sons. With only one son left at home, I am now ready to start up again. I attached is a copy of my Ancestor Chart on my father's line. The 1850 + 1860 Census state that my original Nicholson ancestor Duncan was born in Scotland (in 1777). I presume he came to North Carolina about 1802 as a single man with relatives. His first son was Daniel, born in N.C. in 1809, and he first appears in the 1810 Census of Moore Co. N.C. adjacent to a Daniel Nicholson over 45, a John Nicholson 26-45, and a second Daniel Nicholson 16-26. At that time Duncan was 26-45. He had an unidentified boy 16-26 listed in his family thought to be a relative. I feel then for that Duncan's father or uncle was Daniel Nicholson. My brother who has lived in Italy since 1947 + has searched Scottish records, feels that Duncan's parents may have been Archibald Nicholson and his wife Mary Fletcher, both of Glen Orchy, Argyllshire. Genealogists have told us that among the Scots, Daniel and Donald were often inter-changeable as names. Nicholsons in Scotland originated in Assynt in western Ross shire then on Isle of Skye in the Hebrides, then in Argyll shire and in Edinburgh (Fassvoode) and Shetland Islands. Many of the Argyllshire Nicholsons originally came from Skye where the name is primarily spelled Nicolson.

Also attached is a summary of Duncan Nicholson's family I prepared for publication in a "History of Webster Co. Ga." and a "History of Pike Co. Ga." I have no data on Duncan's ~~father~~ sons Daniel born N.C. in 1809 and John born in N.C. in 1815. As his son Archibald raised a family in Stewart Co. Ga. and died there, I have lots of data on him. I have the ship's roster of the "Jupiter" for 1774-1775 as edited by A.R. Newsome in 1934 and reprinted in 1966, and note that his lists also includes Angus Mc Nicol born 1745 and his wife Ann both also of "Glenurchy". Ann was Annie Mc Coll born 1755. ~~Also~~ I found many references to Angus in Cumberland N.C. before 1800 and feel he is an uncle of Duncan's. Angus reputedly was the son of Donald Nicholson & his wife Anne Martin and immigrated to Marlboro Co. S.C. in 1775. ~~who~~ He's line is supposed to have originated in Inveraray in Argyll shire or in Inverness in the North. Angus died Sept 25, 1818 in Cheraw, S.C. His children were John, Donald, Sarah, Duncan, Peter, Malcolm, Archibald, Catherine, Hugh & James of whom I have records from a family bible from a Florida descendant. The Duncan Nicholson in the 1820 census of Chesterfield Co S.C. is Angus's son and is not my Duncan who was in the 1820 census of Moore Co. NC & who married Margaret Mc Intyre who married Mary Blackmon. I find references in N.C. land grants to Donald, Archibald and Angus Nicholson, but these are not yours, but Angus's. In the 1800 census of Chesterfield Co. S.C. appear Angus over 45, John 26-45, Daniel over 45 and Nicholas Nicholson 26-45. I assume that you identify this Daniel over 45 as your Donald? Your letter mentioned you had found a Daniel Nicholson in the 1810 census of Chesterfield Co. I have checked this census twice in the past and found no Nicholsons. The census did appear in complete, however. Do you have a page or house hold number I can verify?

I do find an Archibald Nicholson in 1800 census of Orange Co N.C. and an A. Nicholson in the 1810 census of Orange Co. While I also find an Archibald Nicholson in the 1801 and 1810 censuses of Cumberland Co N.C., this one probably belongs to Angus's line. I was pleased to hear Jim Cook is planning a book. I will write to him in Hattiesburg. I have found a Nicholas Nicholson in Cumberland Co N.C. - 1750 - 1800 period - and wonder what he knows about this one. Jim provided a lot of data on his line as did Jean Loflin and I followed this up with other data found in Florida - Quincy, Tallahassee and Jacksonville. There are also at least three Peter Nicholsons in Cumberland Co N.C. - one a son of Nicholson of Richmond Co N.C. I will Roderick Nicholson of Richmond Co N.C. I will write Mrs Walter Nicholson of Graham, Texas in due course. I believe, as you seem to, that all these families are clearly related. Ten years ago Jim Cook's data showed Daniel and Margaret Nicholson as the probable parents of Nicholas, and his wife as Katherine Waters born 1785 in Chesterfield Co S.C., who departed for Escambia Co. Fla. about 1826. with other some of the family later moving to Alabama and to ~~Miss~~ Neshoba Co. Miss in 1838. I take it that you and Jim now feel that Nicholas is the son of your Donald? The ship's register is clear enough. Nicholas had a son Daniel born 1805 in Chesterfield Co. who, after moving to Miss. moved to Texas. I wonder if the Daniel you mention in your letter is not the same one? I was impressed that you had data on your Donald McNeal's parents & grandparents in Glen Orchy. May I ask your source of these clues? I have today ordered a book called British Aliens in U.S. during War of 1812 since many Scots arriving after the Revolution were seldom formally naturalized. Jales have lists of N.C. soldiers in War of 1812.

I have checked my S.C. records of four different Nicholson groups one of them English, and find no Nicholson girl who married a Jones. I will, however, keep this in mind though it would be helpful to have an approximate date. If you run across any Blacksmans from N.C. S.C. Ga. or Ala. in your Nicholson research please let me know.

All these years I've collected so much data on Nicholson and my allied lines, but have never found a clue to Duncan's origin in Scotland! It's time I went to the Archives here and see what new books have been published the last year or two - sooner or later computerization of data will locate needed data. I noted your letter looked like it came from a home computer. Wish I had one.

I'll look forward to hearing from you again

Sincerely, John Nicholson

P.S. I've also enclosed an article on clan MacNeil which should be of interest.

Mr. W. P. Nicholson, Jr.
Bunger Rt.
Graham, Texas 76046

Dear Mr. Nicholson:

This is in regard to your letter of inquiry concerning information about the Rev. William R. Nicholson.

I have checked the cross reference index to our catalog and was unable to find any information on a Rev. William R. Nicholson.

We have four items written by a William Nicholson during 1861. He was a member of the Texas Rangers in the Civil War and the letters are written to his sister, Mary Ann Nicholson of Bastrop, Texas. The letters are written from New Iberia and New Orleans, Louisiana, Nashville, Tennessee and Bowling Green, Kentucky. There is no mention of his wife, if he had one at the time, and nothing about the Episcopal Church.

I also located in another department of the Library a dissertation entitled, "The Episcopal Church in Louisiana, 1805-1861". I hurriedly glanced through the dissertation, but saw no mention of a Rev. Willian R. Nicholson.

Yours truly,

Merna Whitley

One of the most interesting features of this case occurred when "Archeologist David Hazzard recently accompanied a University of Virginia engineer to the cemetery and stood by as the man, blindfolded, paced across the periwinkle covered site with a divining rod. Everywhere the V-shaped divining rod dipped, Hazzard said, they found a grave.
In all the dowser located some 300 graves, of which seven have now been partially excavated. Inside were found remains of coffins, bones, shoe leather, buttons and nails, but the latter dated from about 1815."
The Society has suggested that these later graves may have been located on the perimeter of the earlier cemetery. Although a hearing in the court in October failed to produce any claimants for the bodies no one was surprised. These were prisoners of war who had no families here, and descendants may live in Germany or England, not knowing the whereabouts of their ancestor's body.
Landowners in the vicinity say they heard the cemetery identified by GARLAND GARTH who built a house in 1818 near the site of the Hessian prison barracks. Because records of this period were burned, evidence is scanty. But local historians are busy trying to document the cemetery and prevent its desecration.

LAUDERDALE COUNTY RECORDS CATALOGED

It was heartening to read the news story contributed by a reader, of the cataloging of 150 years of county records in Lauderdale County, AL. Ms. DEBORAH HAY, of the Alabama Court Management system, discovered records in a storeroom of the court house which date back to 1825, near the creation of that state. These were "the oldest record we have found concerning the court system," said the archivist. It was a minute book; the case papers pertaining to this period have not yet been located.
"The Court System is seeking to arrange or catalogue the various records it inherited when the state took over the 67 county court systems early last year, to determine which should be transferred to the archives, which should be microfilmed and retained, and which are no longer needed."
Comment was made in the article that about 1/3 of the court houses in Alabama have suffered record losses through fires.
Her next assignment was working in records of Washington Co., AL, she disclosed.

NEWSPAPER AD BROUGHT RESULTS

The late Leon Hollingsworth, prominent Georgia genealogist, shared with me the results of a search of a client Mr. C.B.Harman Nicholson who sought information on his ancestor who emigrated from Isle of Skye, Scotland. Mr. Nicholson placed an ad in a Skye newspaper asking for information on his Nicholsons who were known to have migrated from Scotland to the Cape Fear region of North Carolina at some time about the Revolution. He received a letter from Mr. Malcolm Nicholson, of Angus, Scotland, aged 92!
Writing from Craigellashire? Edzell, Brechin, he disclosed that "Your Father [ancestor] was from Scorrsbrea Skye. He went to N. Carolin[illegible] before 1820 when the Estate was sold. He was a cousin of my granfather Malcolm Nicholson. My brother Duncan was called after him. My Brother died in South Africa in 1918. He has a son an Engineer there now.

The other Nicholson family that went away with him was Archie Nicholson and John Nicholson. John was single and came back after 2 years there. John brought back a bad report on the way they were treated in Carolina. In the year 1904 I met WILFRED [WILBUR?] WRIGHT in New Orlens. They were the first to get a Airplain to rase of[f] the Ground on the Race Coarse there. He knew the Nicholsons in N.Carolina and offered to take me there to see them. It was not posible for me to go at that time.
The Chief of the Nicholson Clan lives in Tasmania, Australia. I am 92 years old, and still very active man. I am hoping that this letter will reach you and I will be glad to hear from you.
Malcolm Nicholson, late of Skye"

In a later letter Malcolm Nicholson disclosed "The ship that took away the Skye Emigrants was the ship MIDLOTHIAN under Captain Stewart--a stormy voyage some di[e]d on the ship and were buried at sea. John Nicholson was the only one to return to Skye, who gave a bad report. His son Donald died in Glasgow he was manager of the Burns shippen line and a Dear friend of mine.
I am the only man who knows the Skye Nicholsons from A to Z. There is two Nicolsons in Skye. The Scorralnel? and the Sutherland ones. One with H and one without the H.
Duncan Nicholson had no H in his name when he lef[t] Skye, neith[e]r had my Granfather nor my father. The H has been added on after the Skye Eviction and when they emigrated to foreign lands. There is also the Fife Nicholsons.
It is a great pity that I did not hear from you sooner as I have now given away all the old records of the Skye Nicholsons to people that was not entitle to them also old pictures, etc."

The MIDLOTHIAN may well have been a ship put into service long after the Revolution, for it is not mentioned in the detailed ship register published in ULSTER EMIGRATION TO COLONIAL AMERICA.

* DUNCAN NICHOLSON was born in Scotland, presumably Skye 1776-8, and came to North Carolina sometime before 1809, possibly with parents. DANIEL or ARCHIBALD (Archie?) NICHOLSON, b. before 1755 may be the parent, and probably accompanied Duncan to North Carolina.
One could read the Customs House Records published in the newspapers, or the surviving customs records to determine when the Midlothian came to North Carolina, but it is probably likely that the ship made more than one journey and determining which one will be more difficult.
One would wonder at the result should church records in Skye be examined to see if the congregation gave a "letter of dismission" to Nicholsons prior to their move to America. This would date the departure more nearly, and narrow the search in shipping records as well as tax lists in the new country.

THE DUNCAN NICHOLSON LINE

Duncan Nicholson was born in Scotland about 1777, and died in Pike County, Alabama, on December 19, 1861. He is listed in the Census of Moore County, North Carolina for 1820 + 1810; Randolph County, Georgia, in 1830; Stewart County, Georgia in 1840 and 1850; and Pike County, Alabama in 1860.

He came to America and married prior to 1809 in North Carolina, Mary Blackman, born January 23, 1790 in North Carolina. She died June 26, 1864, in Pike County, Alabama. Both are buried in the Carter-Dixon Cemetery near Richland, Georgia in unmarked graves, close to the tombstones of their son Archibald and his wife and daughter.

While living in North Carolina, Duncan and Mary Nicholson had seven of their twelve children; namely:

1) Daniel, born October 3, 1809.
2) Elizabeth (1811-1856) married, 1834, Isaac Jackson.
3) Archibald (1813-1864) married, 1841, Mary Elizabeth Hall (1820-1867).
4) John, born August 11, 1815.
5) Duncan Lafayette (1817-1860) married about 1849, Marie Antoinette Nelms (1833-1918).
6) William, born July 1, 1819.
7) Nancy (1821-1887) married, 1845, Jesse Howell (1819-1891).

Duncan Lafayette Nicholson and his bride Marie left Stewart County, Georgia,* in the early 1850's together with his parents and brothers, Thomas and Pleasant. Duncan (Jr.) served as a Representative from Pike County to the Alabama Legislature in 1855, but died at an early age on July 10, 1860. He and his wife and some family are buried in the Brundige City Cemetery, Alabama.

Upon leaving North Carolina, Duncan Nicholson and his family settled for a few years in Houston County, Georgia where their eighth child James was born on February 23, 1824. and their ninth child, Arthur B. was born December 7, 1826.

James Nicholson married, 1850, Celia Ann Lucetta Perryman Harrell, born 1836 in North Carolina. Before James died on September 25, 1864, they had eight children including Daniel Webster Nicholson (1856-1917), who married, 1878, Nancy Caroline Brown (1857-1910). Daniel W. and Nancy C. Nicholson had ten children including Hammond Burke Nicholson (1895-1961) who married, 1916, Lucia Meetze Harman (1894-1965). Burke and Lucia Nicholson were the parents of John Hurt Nicholson of Dunwoody, Georgia, the contributor of this sketch. During His career with The Coca-Cola Company, H. B. Nicholson advanced to the position of President and then Chairman of the Board of Directors.

* to go to Pike County, Ala.

The last three children of Duncan (1777-1861) and Mary Nicholson (1790-1864) were born in Stewart County, Georgia:

10) Mary Ann, born March 22, 1830, married 1852, Josiah M. Carter.
11) Thomas Jefferson (1833-1906) married, 1866, Mary Olivia Barnes (1846-1890). In 1892 he married 2nd Cal H. Jackson, born 1844 in South Carolina.
12) Pleasant W. was born April 15, 1836, and lived in Bullock County, Alabama for some years. He never married. He served as 2nd Lt. Co. F. 15th Alabama Infantry Regiment, and was wounded at Battle of Manassas, Virginia in 1862.

Thomas Jefferson Nicholson (1833-1906) was a Lt. in Co. H. 40th Alabama Infantry Regiment, and all his children were born in Alabama. Many of his descendents live today in Pike County. He and his wife, as well as Thomas J. Nicholson, Jr. (1876-1941), their son, and his wife Mary Emma Barefoot (1878-1947), together with other descendants, are buried in the Springfield Baptist Church Cemetery near Brundidge, Alabama.

A number of the Nicholson Clan from Scotland emigrated to America before, during and after the Revolution and settled either in Virginia or North Carolina. Some lived successively in South Carolina, Georgia, Florida or Alabama. The writer will be happy to exchange information about the Nicholson and allied families with those interested.

Cumberland Co. Court of Pleas and Quarter Sessions Minutes have been abstracted through January Term, 1791. I have now read through these through July of 1800, by which time the Nicholsons were in South Carolina. The following references were found (see notes at end): (stack file #CR 029.301.6; no pagination)

Apr. 1800: Deed Angus Nicholson to Donald Munn proved by R. Dudley (note 7).

Notes:

1) Another connection of Angus with the McColls. Some notes on this family will be found below.

2) The identity of these two, with their familiar names, is somewhat of a puzzle. Neil (born 1781) and John (born 1786) were likely brothers as they were bound out at the same time. The original bonds, which might state parentage, do not survive. Note that the term "orphan" was used to indicate that the child's father was deceased, whether the mother was living or not, and indeed orphans were often bound to their mother's second husband. This pair do not seem to fit into the immediate family of the Nicholsons we have studied, but quite possibly they were the sons of (widow?) Christian McNicoll, listed in Cumberland Co. on the 1790 Census with 3 white males under 16. (Please correct the error on p.2, line 31 of my last report: the Census does show that the males in Christian's household were under 16, implying that this group probably did not include any of Donald McNicol's children.) Christian appears as a Nicholson, rather than a McNicol in 1796 entries below.

3: This case was apparently linked to the next case mentioned in the Minutes: The State vs. Flora McFail, in which the defendant was found not guilty. Few loose Court papers survive from this period to tell us more about the case. We do however find an entry in the State Trial and Reference Docket (CR 029.309.1) for July 1796 that shows that Christian Nicholson was indicted for assault and battery and pleaded "not guilty." The assault was perhaps the reciprocal side of Flora McFail's indictment for petty larcenty, which is why Christian appealed the latter's acquittal. I do not however find any evidence that this appeal was actually purused in the State Trial Docket for Fayetteville District Superior Court for Oct. 1796-Oct. 1798 (DSCR 4.007). Loose records of this court are also poorly preserved, which is unfortunate as we would like to see whom Christian gave for security on her appeal bond, and also learn the names of any witnesses who testified.

4: This is the last reference to Donald McNicol's estate and resulted in the filing of a long account of Urquhart's handling of McNicol's business (largely sales of various items a small time merchant would possess), which provides no family information. I do not find any probate record for Henry Urquhart in Cumberland Co.

5: Likely the son of Neil Nicholson.

6: In this deed, dated 9 Sep. 1795 (Deed Bk. 16:300) James McNickel sold to Philemon Hodges for 200 pds. all right to the grist mill which he had bought of Mr. Duffie (I do not find this purchase recorded). The witnesses were Fanny Bohannon and William Hodges.

7: This is the deed, dated 16 Jan. 1799, by which Angus sold all his Cumberland Co. property (18:28), mentioned in my first report.

As you can see, no references were found here to Nicholas Nicholson, who seems to have stayed out of trouble. Thus the only records we have to place him in Cumberland Co. are the land grants of 1792-1800.

A few miscellaneous items of research occurred to me: We have learned that Nicholas Nicholson/McNicol's mother was a McArthur, and although none of this surname were passengers on the "Jupiter" the name is found in Cumberland Co. I therefore took a look at their probate records for any clues of a McNicol connection, but did not find such. The estate of Archibald McArthur was administered in Cumberland Co. in 1778 by John Slingsby, with Peter Mallett and Archibald McLaine as securities. There was also a Neil McArthur, a Tory, whose estate was confiscated in 1782, according to a petition in the estates made by John Walsh. By the 1790 Census we find Peter McArthur (1 white male over 16, 1 under 16, 2 females) and Daniel McArthur (4 white males over 16, 5 females) in Cumberland Co. Daniel was perhaps the father of Dugald McArthur, to whose estate he became administrator on 14 Oct. 1799, with Neill Buie as security. Administration on the estate of Daniel McArthur was granted to Neill McArthur on 7 Sep. 1819, with Neill McNeill and Archd. McNeill securities. Daniel left a widow Mary. His children are not identified in the estates papers, except for mention of a deceased daughter who had married John Black and left three children. Purchasers at the sale of Daniel's estate included Mary, Margaret and Neill McArthur. The earliest McArthur will in Cumberland Co. is that of Peter McArthur Jr., dated 20 July 1827 and proven in 1829. This names as heirs his wife Sally, sisters Mary McDonald, Margaret McArthur and Nancy McArthur, and his sister's daughter Catherine McArthur. The witnesses were Danl. Baker Senr. and Alexr. McArthur.

Among those aboard the "Jupiter" in 1775 were Dugal McCole, 38, of Glenorchy, whom I suspect to have been Angus Nicholson's brother-in-law, as well as several McColes from Alpine. Dugald McColl made his will in Cumberland Co. 19 Apr. 1802 and in this mentioned his wife Nancy (synonymous with Ann), sons John and Dugald, daughers Cathrine, Margret, Mary and Marion, and brother Hugh McColl. Witnesses were Duncan McIntyre, Hugh mcColl and Donald MPherson. Hugh McColl made his will 22 Oct. 1822, proven Dec. 1822, leaving bequests to his wife Mary, "only son" John McColl, and "Nancy and Catherine Ray daughters of Angus Ray who live with me." Angus Ray was executor; witnesses were M. M. Coleman and Angus Finleson. If Dugald and Hugh have followed conservative Scottish naming patterns in their families we might guess that their father was named John.

It would certainly be a big help if we could find Presbyterian church records of the family in Cumberland Co. However the only such records from Cumberland before 1800 available at the Archives are from the Bluff Presbyterian Church, Wade, N.C. The Register, starting in 1784, mentions no McNicols/Nicholsons before 1800. One marriage of possible interest between families associated with the McNicols is however indicated: Charles McIntyre and wife Nancy McColl had a son Duncan baptized on 11 Nov. 1794.

McNicol - Nicholson Family Research

Jonathan B. Butcher, 8/1981

I. North Carolina

Continued research in North Carolina records has turned up some interesting material, but some confusion remains. It does not however appear that there should be any doubt that the names McNicol and Nicholson are in fact the same, particularly as the form "Nicholson" does not seem to occur at all in the early records of Argyll, Scotland (see below). Graphic evidence for this was mentioned in my last report (p.4), in which we saw that the will of Duncan McIntyre of Cumberland Co. (1794) appointed Angus McNicoll as an executor, but a deed made by McIntyre's executors in 1796 was signed by Anguish Nicholson. Further, I think it is clear from the traditional information you have on the arrival of Angus and Annie (McCall) Nicholson that these must be the same as the Angus and Ann McNicol aboard the ship "Jupiter" in 1775. Note that the Dugal McCole listed next to Angus on the passenger list would seem to be the same Dougald McCall next to Angus Nicholson on the 1787 tax of Cumberland Co. and also a witness to the will of Duncan McIntyre. The big question for us is: was the 4 year old Nicol McNicol listed with his parents aboard the "Jupiter" the same as our Nicholas Nicholson? I think that the evidence is very strongly in favor of this, given the known association with Angus. Further, as we will see below, there are some good indications that Nicholas appears as Nicholas McNicol, an intermediate form of the name, in certain Cumberland Co. records of the 1790's. Finally, I have not been able to find any other Nicol McNicol in any North Carolina records searched. Further confirmation of this identification could perhaps be gained by research to determine as closely as possible the birth dates of Nicholas' siblings, which I trust will match those given on the passenger list. What remains unresolved is the fate of the father, Donald McNicol. There was, as we will see below, a Donald McNicol who died in Fayetteville in 1789/90, but iv is by no means clear that he should be identified with Nicholas' father. A second question concerns the identity of Daniel Nicholson. I still feel that there is a possibility that this man is the same as Donald, although remarried to a younger second wife, and that the Census taker has recorded the name incorrectly. However, I have been able to find a few separate records of a person of this name in North Carolina, so perhaps he was a different person after all.

I began the present research in North Carolina with a reconsideration of previously searched records in light of the 1775 passenger list you found, looking particularly for a Donald McNicol. I first reexamined the available Cumberland Co. tax lists, which commence with 1777. In this year we find in Capt. Campbell's District Angus Nicholson, property valued at 100 pds. Angus does not appear in the lists of 1778, but there is not a return for Campbell's District. Then in 1779 we find in this district "Annish Nicols", who I think is probably Angus. As reported previously, the 1780 tax has only "Neill Nickelson", in Capt. McCraney's Dist. (not given in), but Angus was perhaps then in Richmond Co. Note that in Cumberland Co. we find a deed of 1 Jan. 1780 in which Angus McNicol sold for 40 pds. to Samuel Bucker land on the head of Cedar Creek (7:30, witnessed by John Ouright, John Anderson). I did not find the origin of this tract, nor can I find his purchase of the land in Richmond Co. On the 1783 tax of Cumberland both Angus Nicholson and Neill Nicholson appear in McCraney's District. The next tax available is that of 1787, which lists Duncan McNicoll on the list of Alexr. Avera (with a slave and a carriage), and Neil and Angus Nicholson in McCraney's District. No further tax lists are extant through 1824.

Notably lacking from the surviving Cumberland tax lists is any mention of either Donald or Daniel McNicol or Nicholson. One possibility is that Donald may have settled first in Bladen Co., where a Daniel McNicol had earlier settled (see below), but where almost all the early records are lost, although he does not appear on a tax of 1784. I would however suggest that Donald, unless he is to be identified with Daniel Nicholson of South Carolina, may have died soon after arriving in America, and likely without owning land. His sons would then not be of age to show up on the Cumberland taxes. The 1790 Census does include in Cumberland Co. (p.97) the households of Christian McNicoll (3 white males over 16, 2 white females) and James McNicoll (1 white male over 16, 2 slaves), neither of whom appears in any other records of the county that I have seen. Christian McNicoll may be of interest, for as we will see from the Scottish records Donald McNicol had a sister of this name, and also gave this name to his eldest daughter (born 1763), although the latter apparently did not accompany him to America. It is conceivable that one of these two later came to America and in 1790 was heading a household which contained Donald's younger orphans. However, we would expect all but the youngest of Donald's sons to have reached age 16 by 1790, so this record does not seem to match very well.

I did reexamine the abstracts of the Cumberland Co. Court of Pleas and Quarter Sessions for 1755-1791 (abstracts of Wm. C. Fields). Therein we find, in volume II, references to the names of both Daniel and Donald McNicol, as follows: (pages refer to Fields' edition)

28 Oct. 1786 (II:146): ...Donald McNicoll...appointed patrollers for the ensuing year.

26 Oct. 1787 (II:186): Bill of sale: Wm. England to Danl. McNicoll ackd.

27 Oct. 1787 (II:188): John Eccles and Andw. Broadfoot appointed Inspectors of flaxseed...entering into bond with Donald McNicoll and John Ingram.

29 Apr. 1788 (II:204): Deed...Mark Russell to Dolphin Davis, Nathn. and Elisha Stedman, proved by Danl. McNicoll.

31 Jan. 1789 (II:234): Deeds proved...Donald McNicoll to Maurice Carmichael proved by Adw. Clerk...Maurice Carmichael to Donald McNicoll proved by Adw. Clerk.

31 Jan. 1789 (II:235): Mary Dye and Donald McNicoll granted administration on the estate of Wm. Dye...security: Jas. Dick.

28 Apr. 1789 (II:240): Deed: Wm. B. Grove for A. Maclaine to Danl. McNicoll...Donald McNicoll to Chs. McIntire ackd...

May 1, 1789 (II:245): Deed: Mark Russell to Donald McNicoll ackd.

Aug. 1, 1789 (II:262): Jurors to October Court...Donald McNicoll...

29 Jan. 1790 (II:275): Nimrod Dye, an orphan of Wm. Dye, now 12 years old, bound to Isaac Burkloe until of age. Security: Danl. McNicoll.

30 Jan. 1790 (II:278): Jurors to next term...Donald McNicoll...

27 Apr. 1790 (II:280): Administration granted to Henry Urquhart on the estate of Donald McNicoll. Bond £800; securities: Robt. Adam and Andw. Clark.

29 Oct. 1790 (II:308): Jas. Jackson & Jas. Moore, Esqrs., appointed to audit the accounts of Donald McNickle, former administrator of Wm. Dye, now in the hands of Henry Urquhart.

It is not clear if the name "Danl." given in several entries here represents a misreading or variant form of "Donl.", or if this is a separate person closely associated with Donald McNicol. In the case of the deed proven 28 Apr. 1789 the deed books show us that the grantee was actually Donald. Note that the full form "Daniel" never appears, only "Danl." "Danl." witnessed a deed of Henry Urquhart, but this man was later administrator of Donald McNicol. Further, "Danl." McNicoll is given as a security to the guardian bond for Nimrod Dye, whereas Donald McNicoll was administrator of the orphan's father, William Dye. Neither Daniel or Donald appear on the tax of 1787 or earlier taxes or the 1790 Census, and only Donald appears in the deeds.

This Donald McNicol was a merchant in Fayetteville and first appears in the deeds in 1787:

(8:188): State of North Carolina; Articles of agreement made... between Mark Russell of the County of Cumberland...and Donald McNicoll and Dolphin Davis of the Town of Fayetteville... The said Mark Russell doth by these presents...Lease unto the said Donald McNicoll & Dolphin Davis the whole of the Lands the property of the said Mark Russell lying on the North side of the Main Street leading to Lower Fayetteville Beginning on Cross Street Joining the Lands of Maurice Carmichael...during...the...term of Seven years...for the sum of twenty Shillings...the 14th day of April 1787.
Witness: Jesse Potts, Jas. Grant.

On 4 June 1788 he purchased from Mark Russell for 150 pds. a 2 acre lot in Fayetteville on the East side of Main Street and Fifty Foot Street (9:264, witnessed by Elisha Barksdale). Then on 28 Jan. 1789 "Donald Macnicoll Merchant of Fayetteville" purchased from William Barry Grove of Cumberland Co., as Attorney for Archibald MacClain of Wilmington, 640 acres on the branches of lower Locks Creek and 400 acres on Sandy Creek, both formerly patents to Richard Lyon (9:263, witnessed by Robert Macfarlang, Elisha Barksdale). He sold the 400 acre tract to Charles McIntire on 24 Apr. 1789 (9:272, witnessed by Elisha Barksdale), but I do not find a deed of sale for the other tract. Finally, on 30 January 1789 Maurice Carmichael, as surviving partner of Carmichael & Boyle, sold to "Donald McNicoll... Merchant" three land entries on the east side of the Mississippi River and 3 lots in Fayetteville (9:128, witnessed by Andrew Clark, Duncan McLaren). On the same date Donald sold these tracts back to Maurice Carmichael in his own right (9:130).

This Donald McNicol died in early 1790. On 7 April 1790 Susie McNicoll, "being about to leave the State of North Carolina", released her right of administration on "the estate of my late Husband Donald McNicoll" to Mr. Henry Urquhart (see photostat; witnessed by Robert Mac Farlane). Administration was granted to Urquhart on 27 Apr. 1790, with Robt. Adam and Andrew Clark as securities (see photostat; in my last report I see that I inadvertently dropped a line and implied that it was Duncan McNicol whose estate was administered in 1790, which is incorrect). The only other document in the estates papers file is a long account of "D. Macnicoll & Co." for Jan. 1786 to Aug. 1796, which includes payment for "taxes on the Land" for '91 and '92. Apparently no disposition was ever made of Donald's lot on Fifty Foot Street, for on 5 Apr. 1812 the Sheriff of Cumberland Co. sold this lot for taxes due for the year of 1809, "as the property of the heirs of Donald McNicol", who are not named (27:69). It would perhaps be of interest to check the Court Minutes for an order of slae, but it is probably unlikely that this names the heirs.

We now come to the question: Was this Donald McNicol, merchant, the same Donald McNicol who arrived in 1775? I am not really able to answer this with certainty, for Susie may have been Donald's second wife, although I did not find a marriage bond. At the present I would tend to suspect that this Donald was a different man, perhaps a relative, and a later arrival. The fact that there is not any mention of our Donald's sons in the estates papers is perhaps explainable by the fact that they were still under age in 1789. It is however rather surpring that Donald's sons, if this Donald did leave any in the area, would allow the lot in Fayetteville, which had been purchased for 150 pds., to be sold for taxes. However the possibility cannot be dismissed that this Donald was the father. Perhaps the best way open to further study of this problem would be to continue reading the Cumberland Co. Court Minutes, which may contain some clue.

Whether or not the above Donald was our Donald McNicol it now does appear that Nicholas was in Cumberland Co. in the 1790's, in accordance with family tradition. The evidence comes from the Cumberland Co. land grants. First we find that on 6 Feb. 1792 (which would be just after he turned 21) "Nicholas McNichols" entered a claim to 50 acres in the second fork of Mockerson, on S.W. Cape Fear River. This was surveyed 15 June 1794, the chain bearers being Edward Robinson and D. P. R. Cox, and issued 13 Dec. 1798 (Cumberland Co. #3376, see photostats). Also on 6 Feb. 1792 Nicholas made another entry for 50 acres in the second fork of Mockerson, which was surveyed 27 May 1794 and issued 14 May 1800 (Cumberland Co. #3839, see photostats). Chain carriers for this survey were Jessy Norinton and Wm. Norinton. We do not find any deeds of sale recorded for these tracts, most unfortunately. However no Nicholas McNicol appears on the 1800 Census of Cumberland Co., or in the estates, so we may assume that Nicholas sold these via an unrecorded deed, in time to appear in Chesterfield Dist., S.C. Lacking tax records we can hope to learn more about Nichola in Cumberland Co. only by reading the Court Minutes, which is a rather tedious process.

Daniel Nicholson of Chesterfield Dist., S.C. in 1800 is rather a mystery, and, as we will see below, the Scottish records do little to clarify this matter. The composition of his household in 1800 does suggest that Nicholas Nicholsons younger siblings might have been living with him at this time; however I have been able to find no record of Daniel in the 1790's. As suggested above, one interpretation might be that he was actually Donald, remarried to a younger wife. Another possibility is that he was a relative who arrived in America either earlier or later. In Bladen Co., N.C. we find that on 26 Apr. 1768 one Daniel McNicholl entered a claim to 150 acres on Crones Creek, "including his Improvemt.", which was issued 16 Dec. 1769. Chain bearers for the survey were John Ridgill and William Robeson (Bladen Co. #1919). Then on 14 Nov. 1771 Daniel McNicholl received a grant of 250 acres on the west side of Great White Marsh, "Including an improvement he bought of Richd. Ridgel." Chain carriers for this survey were Nathan Jones and Thomas Robenson (Bladen Co. #2029). Possibly this was the same Daniel Nicholson found in South Carolina, although there is a long gap between 1771 and 1800. Unfortunately the Bladen Co. Courthouse has burned several times, destroying much of the records, including most all deeds before 1786. No Daniel is listed on the Bladen tax of 1784, but a Sarah McNichols does appear with 250 acres, 0 polls, who might be his widow (a Susanna Nicholson is also listed with 100 acres, 1 white poll). The 1788 tax lists none of either surname. It would be desirable to undertake some further investigation of South Carolina records to learn more about this Daniel.

II. Scotland

Research in Scottish records has been most successful. That is, I have apparently succeeded in finding, in Inveraray, the baptismal record of our Nicol McNicol. Interestingly the baptism of Angus McNicol does not appear there, and it now seems likely that he was not Donald's brother, but possibly a cousin.

I obtained microfilms of the parish registers for both Inveraray-Glenorchy (commences 1653, with gaps) and Glenorchy-Inishail (commences 1753). The location of these two rather extended parishes is shown on the enclosed map (I see that I must correct my statement of 25 July: Glenorchy is northeast of Inveraray). Note that Glenaray, which formed a subsidiary parish of Inveraray, constitutes the pass between Inishail and Inveraray, and there was certainly close communication between the two locations. The McNicols were among the most numerous of families in both these locations, but the "Nicholson" form of the name does not occur at all in the early records examined. I also did not note the surname Wilkinson in these parishes.

I will now come directly to the point of most interest: Although the passenger list states that Donald and Katherine McNicol came from "Glenurchy", the births of the elder two of the sons they brought to America with them are recorded at Inveraray. Daniel may thus have come to Glenorchy only a year or so before leaving for America - or he may have been misleadingly grouped with a larger party form nearby Glenorchy. Apparently Donald also had two elder daughters, who either died or remained in Scotland (no burial registers are available). His wife was Katherine MacArthur, although none of her relatives are found on the "Jupiter". We first find record of their marriage in Inveraray:

5 June 1762: Donald McNicol Taylor in this Town and Katherine MacArthur Both in this paris Gave up their names for proclamation...

This is a reference to the posting of banns for the intended marriage; the date of the actual ceremony is not indicated. We find then the births of four children, the ages of the two sons matching those given on the passenger list:

1763, 12 Aug. Christian daughter Lawfull to Donald McNicoll Taylor in Inveraray & Katherine McArthur his Spouse Baptized.

Born 14th Janr. 1767 Jannet MacNicoll lawful Daughter to Donald MacNicoll Taylor & Katharine MacArthur his Spouse.

30th March 1768. John MacNicoll lawful son to Donald MacNicoll Taylor in Invry. & Katherine MacArthur his spouse & Baptized 30th Ditto.

Born 20th Octr. 1770 Nicoll MacNicoll lawful son to Donald MacNicoll in Glenshiray & Katharine MacNicoll his spouse & baptized 21th Ditto. *

Note that the record of Nicol's birth shows that his father had moved north from Inveraray proper into Glenshiray. He probably moved again soon thereafter, for the birth of the next son, Archibald, is not recorded in Inveraray or Glenorchy. I note that C. B. Harman Nicholson, in the article you sent from the Scottish Gen. Mag. (v.21) also has not found this Archibald's birth in his survey of parish records. There also was an Archibald MacNicoll, son of Nicoll MacNicoll in Elrigbeg in Glenshiray, born 24 and baptized 26 July 1773, but this child's parents were a different couple, posting banns for their marriage on 18 Jan. 1766. I also did not find the birth of Mary McNicoll, ca. 1775.

* Note that wife's maiden name is given in a large percentage of, but not all baptisms, and this appears to be the same couple as in the earlier three.

Now among the Highland Scots strict naming patterns tended to be used, and we commonly find that the eldest son was named for his paternal grandfather. We also know from the passenger lists that Donald McNicol was born about 1735. The Glenaray register was kept separately until 1745, and therein we find the following baptism, which I think must refer to our Donald McNicol:

7 Oct. 1734. Donald Son to John mcNiccoll in Inveraray and Ann mcNiccoll his Spouse was bapd.

The marriage of John and Ann is not recorded in Inveraray or Glenarary, but we find the births of three other children in the Glenaray register:

20 Apr. 1737. John Son to John mcNiccoll in Inveraray and Ann mcNiccoll was baptized and was born _____(illegible).

29 Aug. 1742. Christian Daug. to John don mcNiccoll and McNickoll (sic) in Inveraray was Baptized.

__ Jan. 1745. Anna, Daur. to John McNickell and Anna McNickell in _____

No later births are recorded in the Inveraray register after the merger with Glenaray, but as we do not have any record of burials we do not know whether John died or moved elsewhere. Two other John McNicols were baptized in 1737, so it is rather difficult to identify this John's son John in the later records. The daughter Anna is perhaps the one of that name who married Donald McArthur on 24 Nov. 1769.

I do not find the baptism of a Katherine McArthur of the correct age to be Donald's wife.

We do not have a clear indication of John McNicol's father's name from the naming pattern of his children because, lacking a marriage record, we do not know if Donald was his eldest son. It does not however appear that John's baptism is recorded in Inveraray or Glenaray, unless he was the son of Finlay McNicol and Ann McViccar baptized in Inveraray 27 Feb. 1709 or the son of Alexander McNicol and Mary McNokaird of Elrickmore baptized in Glenaray 28 July 1706 (but neither the name Finlay or Alexander appears among this John's direct descendants). It should however be noted that the Glenaray register is lacking for Aug. 1714-Dec. 1719, 1710-Oct. 1711 and prior to 1702. It is also quite possible that John moved to Glenaray from a nearby parish, such as Glenorchy.

Although it was the tradition of Angus McNicol/Nicholson's birthplace that led us to examine the Inveraray register his baptism is not recorded in Inveraray or Glenaray, nor was any record at all found of his supposed parents, Donald Nicholson (McNicol) and wife Ann Martin.

The early Glenorchy baptisms however do not list wife's name, so we cannot tell if any of the baptisms there represent later children of this couple. Note that if this tradition is correct Angus would not have been Donald's brother, although we would suspect some close relationship. Indeed the name Angus is not found at all in the Inverary McNicol baptisms through 1775. —but see Glenaray, The name however was common among the Glenorchy McNicols, but the baptisms there do not begin until 1753, too late to include Angus. My suspicion is that Angus was our Donald's first cousin, and that the latter's father, John, likely came to Inveraray from Glenorchy. The records examined also do not account for Daniel or Neil McNicol of Cumberland Co. No Daniel McNicols at all are found in Inveraray, but we do find in Glenorchy that on 4 Nov. 1761 "Daniel son to Don. & Christian McNicols in Barran" was baptised. The surveys in C. B. Harman Nicholson's article show that the name Daniel McNicol must have been rather rare in Argyll.

Besides McNicol, the names McIntyre and Campbell were among the most common surnames in both Inveraray and Glenorchy.

I now will provide a listing of the McNicol records abstracted from the parish registers.

11) Inishail Register. A separate register exists for Inishail from 1765, but this appears to be rather incomplete. The following appear before 1775:

1767, Feb. 17. Lillias to Alexr McNicol in Cladich.
1769, Aug. 17. Duncan to Alexr McNicol & Isobel Campbell Cladich.

Further progress on the McNicol lineage in Scotland might be made by examining the registers of nearby parishes, such as Kilmichel, Glasrie, Kilchrenan, and Clachandyzart - but if these records survive they are not available to me on film. I did investigate the availability of probate records, which I hoped might help us. Wills for this part of Argyll were recorded in the Commissariot of Argyll, and survive for 1674-95 and 1702 onward. However an index to these through 1800 lists no McNicols between 1695 and 1792:

M'Nicoll, Charles, drover in Strathadally, 22 Nov. 1796.
N'Keich, Christian, spouse to Hew M'Nicoll, in Auchazerran, par. of Kilmichell in Glasrie, 4 May 1687.
N'Callum, Katherine, spouse to Duncan M'Nicoll in Auchelen, par. of Inishail, 7 Feb. 1677.
M'Nicoll, John, officer of excise residing at Lemnamuck, 23 Aug. 1800.
Campbell, Mary, spouse to John M'Nicoll in Tgadich, par. of Innerchellen, 31 July 1677.
Jameson, Katherine, spouse to John M'Nicoll in Feorlin, par. of Kilmodan, 29 Apr. 1695.
N'Dougall, Mary, spouse to John M'Nicoll in Dairgbrugh, par. of Kilfinan, 17 May 1675.
N'Therras, Effrick, spouse to John M'Nicoll in Strondavan, par. of Kilmodan, 4 July 1676.
N'Ochenland, Mary, spouse to Kennedy M'Nicoll in Auchazerran, par. of Glasrie, 3 Aug. 1686.
M'Nicoll, Nicoll, in Auchigzeran, par. of Kilmichel Glasrie, 9 Oct. 1684.
M'Nicoll, Nicoll, late of Elrigmore, 31 May 1792.
N'Kellar, Mary, spouse to Nicoll M'Nicoll in Letternamult, par. of Kilmichell in Glasrie, 15 Dec. 1674.

Lacking wills a great help would be intestate records, but these are available on microfilm only for 1693-1702, the period in which the wills are lost. These records, which generally name heirs, are probably extant for the whole 18th century, but have not been microfilmed. Land records (called sasines) could be recorded in either the General (national) Register or the Argyll Particular Register. An index to the latter is available to me for 1617-1780, but I suspect that the McNicols we are tracing were landless tenants and tradesmen, so these may be of little use. In sum, further progress on this lineage may be possible, but will apparently require a researcher on location in Scotland.

Nicholson Family in North Carolina

Jonathan B. Butcher, 6/1981

The Cape Fear River valley of North Carolina, including Cumberland County, was one of the major centers of Highland Scots settlement in the new world. This migration was at its peak in the period prior to the Revolution, but contiuned well into the early 19th century. The pattern of settlement, and the fact that the Scots were usually very conservative in their choice of given names, creates a number of genealogical problems. That is, we commonly find a settler arriving, to be followed a decade or two later by an identically named cousin, in turn followed by other relatives, all giving similar names to their children. The Scots were among the very few groups of North Carolina settlers to commonly arrive directly via the port of Wilmington, and this adds a bit to our confusion, as basically no passenger lists are preserved for this port. Records do exist for persons emigrating from Scotland in 1773-76, but these records, which have been published, include no Nicholsons.

I searched records of most of the area in which the Scots settled for record of Nicholsons. The county records searched can be summarized as follows:

Cumberland Co.: Deeds, wills, estates, Court of Pleas and Quarter Sessions Minutes (abstracted) 1755-Jan. 1791, tax lists of 1780, 1783, 1787 and miscellaneous records.

Robeson Co.: Deeds, wills.

Richmond Co.: Deeds, wills, estates, taxes of 1790, 1793, 1795, 1796, 1806 and 1812.

Bladen Co.: Wills, Deeds (most deeds before 1784 are lost, as are the estates records), taxes of 1784 and 1788.

New Hanover Co.: Court Minutes (abstracted) 1738-1800.

In addition I also consulted state-wide indices to marriage bonds (poorly preserved for many of these counties), land grants, and various other sources that will be noted below.

In the course of this research I was able to find record of Angus Nicholson in Cumberland Co. (and also Richmond Co.) in the period expected, and also record of several other, perhaps related Nicholsons. I was not however able to find any definite record of your Daniel (although record of a (probably) different Daniel in RichmondCo. will be noted below), or of Nicholas Nicholson, and it seems clear that these two were not in the Cumberland Co. area by 1787. Note however that no Cumberland Co. tax records are preserved for 1788-1824. It is thus entirely possible that these two were briefly resident in Cumberland Co. in the 1790's, although not owning land. We possibly could study this propblem by reading the Court Minutes of this decade, but this is a time consuming procedure, and one that I have thought best not to commence at this time. My feeling is that Daniel Nicholson did not come to America at the same time as Angus, but likely joined his relative in the late 1790's, the two then moving on to South Carolina. This would imply that if proof does exist in the American records for the connection between Daniel and Nicholas Nicholson this proof would have to come from South Carolina records, most likely. Note further that if Daniel Nicholson was a naturalized citizen this procedure would likely have taken place in South Carolina (Angus, as we will see in the next paragraphs, apparently arrived in America before the Revolution, and thus would not have required naturalization).

Angus Nicholason, according to family tradition, married in Scotland in 1775 and came to America in the same year, settling for a time in Cumberland Co., N.C. The traditional date given for his arrival probably cannot be expected to be more than approximate. The Cumberland Co. records suggest that he arrived a little before 1772. We first find the following record in the Pleas and Quarter Sessions Minutes (as abstracted by William C. Fields):

> 2 May, 1772 (Fields I:200): On a complaint of Alexander McDonald that Angust Nicholason his indentured servant disobeyed his lawful commands, proved by John Millar, said Angus Nicholson to receive seven lashes on his bare back with a hickory switch.

It was common practice in this period for a poor man to pay for his passage to America by selling his services as an indentured servant for a number of years (the purchaser of the indenture usually being a planter already settled here). That Angus' master was a McDonald is of interest in connection with your notes on this family, but I will point out that McDonald was among the most common surnames in Cumberland Co. and it is thus dangerous to make any conclusions from this fact.

Angus does not appear on the Cumberland Co. tax of 1780, perhaps because he was still an indentured servant at this time, or perhaps because he had moved a few miles southwest into Richmond Co. Angus purchased two tracts there (deeds of purchase not yet located), which,

with wife Annie, he sold in 1784:

(B:47): This Indenture made this Eighth day of Agust...1784 Between Angus Nicolson of Richmond County & State of N. Carolina... Wheel Wright and Daniel Martin of the said County...Planter, Witnesseth that for...Forty Pounds Curt Money...the said Angus Nicolson Hath Granted...unto the said Daniel Martion...two certain Tracts or parcels of Land, the first of which Tracts is one Hundred acres of Land, which was Granted to George Collens Senr. by...Letter Patent bearing date 28th Septbr AD 1774 lying...in the said County & Joining John Crawfords north line... The second tract or parcel of Land was conveyed from George Collins Senr. to the said Angus Nicolson..being fifty acres of land...the whole containing one hundred & fifty acres ...on Ben Maners Prong of the Rocky Fork of Hedgekock Creek...

(signed) ANGUS NICOLSON
ANNIE + NICOLSON, her mark

Witness: Donald Curry, Roger Kenzie.

This tract was not far from land owned by Roderick Nicolson, who will be mentioned below. The sale was probably occasion by Angus' move back to Cumberland Co. He is, I would assume, the same Angus Nicholason taxed in Cumberland Co. in 1783 in Capt. Neill McCraney's District, with 100 pds. value of property. Neill Nicholson, to be mentioned below, also lived in this district, as did several McCaskills (McKeskill) and Dugald (but not Charles) McFarland.

On 12 Nov. 1784 Angus made an entry for a grant of 50 acres in Cumberland Co., near Hugh Black's old plantation, which was issued 27 Nov. 1789 (Anson #2212). Chain carriers for the survey were Dan. Morison and Archd. Morison (the chain carriers were often relatives and/or neighbors). Also in 1784 (day not given) Angus made an entry for another 50 acres, between Hugh Black's and the old pond, issued in 1789 (#2088, chain carriers: Archd. Morison, John Morison). Angus then purchased the adjoining 49¼ acres, "on the waters of Little Rockfish", from Hugh Black for 60 pds. on 2 Apr. 1785 (7:509, witnessed by Farquard Beaton, Archd. ✗ Black). These three tracts together constituted the 150 acres upon which, with 1 white poll, Angus Nicholson was taxed in Neil McCraney's District in 1787. He completed his landholdings via another grant of 60 acres, on the south side of Little Rockfish, which was entered in 1790 and 1791 and issued 1 Dec. 1797 (#3037; chain carriers: Keneth Morison, Donald Morison).

Angus Nicholson appears to have served in the Militia during the Revolution, as the Revolutionary Army Accounts (V:25:2) show that he was issued a voucher for 30 pds. in Wilmington District between Mar. 1784 and Apr. 1785. The original of this voucher does not survive, but most of the vouchers listed in this particular account book were for militia pay in Wilmington District, which included Cumberland Co. at this time.

The Cumberland Co. Court Minutes (Fields II:276) show that on 29 Jan. 1790 Angush Nicolson was granted administration on the estate of Keneth Beathan, with Alexr. McLeod as security. I do not however find any loose papers regarding this estate surviving. I also found that the will of Duncan McIntyre of Cumberland Co., dated 9 Sep. 1794, names Donald McIntyre, Duncan McIntyre and Angus McNicoll as exexutors. The heirs named in the will were Duncan's wife, his grandson Peter McIntyre, and his daughter Isabella. Witnesses were John McIntyre and Dugald McColl. Anguish Nicholson and Duncan McIntyre, executors of Duncan McIntyre, sold land on Stewart's Creek to Alexr. McIntyre on 15 Feb. 1796 (16:92, witnessed by Duncan Blue, Malcom McPherson, Duncan McIntyre). These records are of interest in showing the potential interchangeability of the names Nicholson and McNicoll, a point which will be again mentioned below. The presence of Dugald McColl as a witness to the will is also of interest as Angus' wife is said to have been a McCall. Further, Dugald McCall is listed next to Angus on the 1787 tax.

As you note, Angus was apparently missed by the Census taker in 1790. He sold all his lands in Cumberland Co., consisting of 200 acres in four tracts on Little Rockfish Creek, to Donald Munn for 200 pds. specie on 16 Jan. 1799, still calling himself of Cumberland Co. in the deed (18:28, witnessed by Donald Nicolson, Angus Munn). This date is of course quite consistent with Angus being in South Carolina in 1800, and no Angus Nicholson is listed in North Carolina on the 1800 Census. The first witness to the deed was apparently Angus' son.

Besides Angus there were several other Nicholsons early in Cumberland Co. The first of these was John Nicholson, who had land on Rockfish Creek, adjoining a survey to Joseph Trow(ler?) on 11 Sep. 1753, while the area was still part of Bladen Co. (see N.C. Gen. Soc. Journal, VI(1980):167; I have not determined the origin of this tract). The Cumberland Co. Court of Pleas & Quarter Sessions Minutes show that on 23 Aug. 1764 John Nicholson was added as a hand to work on the road whereof Andrew Shepherd was overseer (Fields I:159) and he served on juries of 22 May and 21 Aug. 1765 (Ibid, I:176, 182). After this he disappears from the records.

Neill Nicholson may have come to Cumberland Co. about the same time as Angus. I first find record of him there in 1775 when his name appears on a tax return of those "Know to have removed or not known to live in the County" (Cumberland Co. Miscellaneous Records, CR 029.928.14). After a few years he returned, and is listed on the tax of 1780 as failing to give in his account of his taxable property. The tax of 1783 lists him in the same district with 20 pds. worth of property. On 22 Feb. 1785 Neill purchased for 30 pds. from Niell McCranie 100 acres on Little Beaver Creek of Great Rockfish Creek (7:430, witnessed by Malcom McDuffie, Daniel ⅄ Morison). Note that the second witness had the same name as one of the chain carriers for a survey to Angus Nicholson. Neill also obtained two land grants in Cumberland Co.:

#3469: entered 13 July 1791, and issued 7 June 1799, for 50 acres.
Chain carriers: Alexr. Nicleson, John Nicleson.

#3082: entered 13 July 1794, and issued 28 Feb. 1798, for 25 acres.
Chain carriers: not given.

Neil Nicholson is listed on the tax of 1787 in Capt. McCraney's District with 150 acres land, 1 white poll. The 1790 Census shows him (Niel Nicolson) in Cumberland Co. with ahousehold consisting of 2 white males over 16, 1 under 16 and 5 white females. He apparently died before 1800, and on 20 Dec. 1801 Alexander, Jannet and Nancy Nicholson of Richmond Co. sold to Hugh Morison of Cumberland Co. for $260 five tracts of land, including the three obtained by Neill mentioned above (22:143, witnessed by Alexr. McRae, Donald McRae). As daughters did not share with sons in the inheritance of an intestate's land in this period the persons making this deed were likely Neil's son, his widow, and perhaps the widow or daughter of a deceased son. James Atkins was appointed to administer the estate of one Nancy Nicholson in Cumberland Co. 14 Oct. 1805, but the inventory and list of sales of this estate mention no other Nicholsons. Alexander Nicholson was in Richmond Co. by the tax of 1793 and made his will there in 1836.

Cumberland Co. records also include the estate of one Archibald Nicholson, a merchant and probably a recent arrival, to whom John McMillan was appointed administrator on 8 Sep. 1813. John and Lauchlin Nicholson (sons or brothers) relinquished their rights to the administration. The surname McNicoll also occurs in Cumberland Co.

and should be considered, as Nicholson is merely an anglicized form of McNicoll. Duncan McNicoll, a Cumberland Co. merchant, was a Tory leader during the Revolution, but apparently remained in Cumberland Co. He was taxed in Alexr. Avera's district in 1787 with 3 white polls, 1 black poll, 1 carriage and no land. Henry Urquhart was appointed to administer his estate on 27 Apr. 1790, after the widow, Susie, relinquished her right, stating she was about to leave the state.

Some other Nicholsons are found in the records of nearby counties. Of most interest is Roderick Nicholson, of Richmond Co. Roderick, whose name is also given as Rory or Roger, settled early in this area, while it was still a part of Anson Co., and received a grant on Falling Creek, a branch of Hitchcock Creek on the east side of Pee Dee River on 6 Aug. 1767 (not examined). The 1790 tax of Richmond Co. (LP 101.1) lists Rory Nicholson: 100 acres; and Peter Nicholson: 50 acres, 1 white poll. The latter was Roderick's elder son, and his 50 acres had been obtained via a deed from Roderick and wife Katherine, dated 17 July 1789 (B:303, witnessed by John McInnes, Norman McLeod). Roderick Nicholson made his will in Richmond Co. 31 July 1798, proven in Oct. 1798, naming wife Catteran; sons Peter, Daniel and Roderick Jr.; and daughter Floree McQueeg. However Roderick's son Daniel cannot be your Daniel Nicholson Sr. as he was too young, and remained in Richmond Co. He is not listed on the Richmond taxes of 1790 and 1793, but does appear on taxes of 1796, 1806 and 1812, and is listed there on the 1800 Census (see copy), aged 26-45, along with his brother Peter. Both are again listed in 1810. The combined testimony of these Censuses indicate that Peter Nicholson was born before 1755, while Daniel was born 1765/74. The exact date of his birth is of some interest as it turns out: Among the North Carolina Revolutionary Army Vouchers is a single voucher to a Danl. Nicholson, much damaged, for 6s., dated Salisbury District ____ 2nd, 1783 (see photostat). Now Richmond Co. was within Salisbury District (until 1787), so it seems likely that this certificate would refer to Daniel, son of Roderick, if he was old enough to see militia service by 1783, i.e. was born by 1767. A case against this could however be made on the basis that Daniel was not taxed in Richmond in 1790 or 1793 (and thus not yet aged 21?) - in which case we could possibly interpret that this voucher should refer to your Daniel Nicholson Sr. However we find that a marriage bond was issued in Richmond Co. to Daniel Nicholson on 16 July, 1790, with Neill McLeod as bondsman (the bride's name is not given), suggesting that Roderick's son was indeed old enough to have received the voucher. Note on the reverse of the voucher that it was apparently signed over to one Danold McCaskill. (The "rejected" note means that the Federal commissioners refused to reimburse the State for the claim, not that the claim was invalid). I do not find record of the original issuance of this certificate in the Revolutionary Army Accounts. However it was included in a group of 5 original certificates that were revalued and reissued to one Godfrey Fowler (IX:21:3).

One other Nicholson family, arriving in this country later, is also worth noting. This is the family of Duncan Nicholson, born in Scotland about 1777, who came to Moore Co., N.C. by 1808 and died in Pike Co., Ala. 19 Dec. 1861. An account of this family, complete with picture, is found in S. R. Dixon, History of Stewart County, Georgia, vol. II, pp. 978-982 (photostats enclosed). Note that this Duncan's sons bore many of the same names as were used in your Nicholson family.

I hoped that some other clues might be provided by the names of Nicholas Nicholsons known siblings and by the families supposed to have emigrated with the Nicholsons. I will first note that no record of the marriages of any of Nicholas' siblings was found in North Carolina, and indeed all of Daniel's presumed younger sons (John, Archibald and Duncan) would appear to have been still in their father's household at the time of the 1800 Census. I attempted, but was not able to locate any others of these living at the time of the 1850 Census to determine their ages and birthplaces. I do note that there was an Archibald Nicholson in Wayne Co., Miss. in 1820 (over age 45) and 1830, but he was not there in 1850. Most of Daniel's daughters were also apparently unmarried in 1800. Angus Morrison, who married Margaret Nicholson, first appears in Chesterfield District on the Census of 1810, and was listed there in 1820, at which time his wife was aged 26-45. Mary Nicholson and John Pitts would appear to have married before 1800 as a John Pitts is listed in Chesterfield District on the 1800 Census on the same page as Daniel Nicholson (105) with a household consisting of 1 white male under 10, 1 aged 26-45, 2 white females under 10 and 1 aged 26-45. He may have been married as early as 1790, as a man of thatname was then listed in Cheraw District (1 white male over 16, 1 white female), but the surname was fairly common.

Nicholas Nicholson is said to have married Katharine Wilkinson, born in South Carolina ca. 1784/5 according to the 1850 Census. She is further said to have been the youngest child of Edward Wilkinson, and this family is thought to have emigrated with the Nicholsons. There were Wilkinsons in the same areas where the Nicholsons lived in North Carolina, but I have not been able to identify an Edward who could be Katharine's father. The family is first found in Robeson Co., where the 1790 Census lists (white males over 16-same under 16-white females-free blacks-slaves):

Wilkerson,	Edward	1-0-1-0-0
	Edward	1-0-1-0-0
	Daniel	1-0-0-0-0
	Niel	1-2-4-0-0

The two Edwards could be one man mistakenly listed twice. Note that neither of these Edwards appears to have had a daughter at home in 1790.

Edward Wilkinson sold land in Robeson Co. to John McPhatter in 1803 (M:359) and John McGirt in 1813 (Q:291) but is not listed there on the 1800 Census. Instead he would appear to be the man of that name taxed on 350 acres in Robeson Co. by 1795 and listed there in the 1800 Census (see copy). Edward Wilkison made his will in Richmond Co. 19 Dec. 1838, proven Oct. 1843. This names his wife, Margaret; unmarried daughters Christian, Mary, Catharine and Jane; married daughters Margaret Campbell, Elizabeth McMillan and Nancy Smith; ans son John E. Wilkison. Executors were John Fairly and John R. McIntosh; the witnesses were George McIntosh, John R. McIntosh, John Fairly and D. McLaurin. Catharine and the other unmarried daughters were still living in Richmond Co. in 1850 (see Census copy), so this Edward cannot have been the father of Katherine (Wilkinson) Nicholson, although he might conceivably have been a brother.

Several Wilkinsons also appear in Cumberland Co. records. These include Neill Wilkinson, administration on whose estate was granted to his son, Neele Wilkinson Jr. on 6 June 1820, the widow, Margaret, relinquishing. There was also an Archibald Wilkinson whose estate was administered 9 Oct. 1804 by Nancy Wilkinson, Angus Wilkinson and Dugald McMillan

All of the families mentioned as having emigrated with the Nicholsons are found in the records of Cumberland Co., and most have been mentioned in connection with the Nicholsons and/or Wilkinsons above. Unfortunately I have not located published genealogies for any of these families in the Cumberland area. Neither have I been able to identify Rev. Charles McFarland, although I do note that one Charles McFerlin was living in Abbeville Dist., S.C. in 1790 and 1800.

Angus Nicholson is said to have been born in Inverary, Argyllshire, Scotland, which area was a source of many of the Scottish settlers in North Carolina. If Angus was indeed Nicholas Nicholson's uncle, and if I am correct in my supposition thatDaniel Nicholson did not reach America until the late 1790's it may well be that the best means of identifying the latter's children would be exploration of Scottish baptismal records, which begin for most parishes around 1699-1700.

The Nicolsons of the west county of Scotland are said to be a branch of the Clan Mac Nicol (see photostat enclosed from G. F. Black, The Surnames of Scotland...), and it is that latter form of the name most commonly found in Argyllshire. It would not be surprising if the change of name, simply one of translation, was made when the family moved from Gaelic speaking Argyll to English speaking America.

I consulted the CRI microfiche files of the L.D.S. Genealogical Society, which contain abstracts of baptismal records from many Scottish parishes, as well as records submitted by members. Unfortunately the early parish registers of Inverary and Glenaray (one parish) and surrounding parishes have not been abstracted. The CFI records mention no Argyllshire Nicholsons, but many McNicols are included, some from Inveraray, such as the baptism of Donald, son of Finlay McNicol and Ann McViccar, 16 Apr. 1704 (patron submitted record).

I was able to determine that the registers of Inveraray and Glenaray commence in 1651, with some gaps at the end of the 17th century. These records may well be worth consulting, assuming the tradition of Angus Nicholson's birthplace is correct, and with luck might show the baptisms of Daniel Nicholson's children. I can obtain these records via interlibrary loan, and would be glad to do so, although I will warn you that there is a loan cost of $2.40 per reel and a 4-6 week delay involved. Other Scottish records are also available to me and may likewise be worth consulting. If you wish me to proceed with this investigation the same terms as previously will be quite satisfactory.

Dear Mr. Cook,

Attached are the results of my continued research in North Carolina records, as well as material from the Scottish parish registers. The latter provided the most exciting results, as I believe I have found the baptismal record of your Nicol McNicol. Some interesting material was also found in North Carolina, but several points of confusion remain unresolved in my mind here.

After surveying the catalogue of Scottish records available to me on microfilm I regrettably must conclude that further progress in tracing the McNicol lineage in Scotland will probably require a researcher on location. There is however some additional work that might be done in North Carolina records, and, if you are willing, I would suggest that reading the Cumberland Co. Court Minutes of 1791-1800 might resolve some of our questions. I will however warn that these are extensive, recording all county business, and completely unindexed - so that it will take time to examine them (probably around 8 hours), with no guarantee of finding what we are looking for.

Reading the Scottish parish registers took rather longer than I had expected, because of the very many McNicols found there. I felt that I had better abstract all this material while it was available, and trust this will be acceptable. The account for this report is as follows:

16 hours research	104.00
Microfilm loan fees	7.20
Photostats	1.30
	$112.50
Less payment received	- 35.00
Balance Due	$77.50

Yours sincerely,

Jonathan B. Butcher

Harry Wright Newman, page 1.) William Nicholson had at least one child, Beale Nicholson. Side Lights on Maryland History, Vol. II by Hester Dorsey Richardson, pages 187 to 190: "Nicholson. Of the distinguished families of charming old Kent County, none have made a more lasting impression upon the annals of the State in legislative halls, or on the battlefield than the descendants of William Nicholson, Lord of Nicholson's Manor, a tract of over four thousand acres in Baltimore County. Of these was Colonel Joseph Nicholson, High Sheriff of Kent, and for many years Deputy Commissary and Colonel of the Militia of Kent County, Maryland. Joseph Nicholson Jr., Justice of Kent, married Elizabeth Hopper of Queen Anne's County, thus uniting two families of more than passing interest. Joseph Nicholson Jr. was member of the notable convention of 1775, was a member of the Council of Safety which included Charles Carroll, Barrister. Hon. George Plater, Daniel of St. Thomas Jenifer and others whose names stand out in bold relief against the pages of Maryland history. In the days when social lines were drawn so rigidly that no one need ever consult a Blue Book to learn who was who, young Joseph Hopper Nicholson of Kent County, rode gaily to Wye House and won the heart and hand of the winsome Rebecca Lloyd, 2nd daughter of the Hon. Col. Edward Lloyd, 4th. of Wye. This was in the days when that charming old mansion was presided over by Madam Elizabeth Tayloe Lloyd, daughter of Honorable John Tayloe 2nd. of Mount Airey, Va. . . . Judge Joseph Hopper Nicholson, Chief Justice of the Sixth Judicial District, and Judge of the Court of Appeals for Maryland, was also a distinguished member of Congress. Maryand Militia in expedition against Canada in 1746 included Joshua Nicholson (See page 268, Side Lights on Maryland History Vol. I by Hester Dorsey Richardson) The Hall of Records at Annapolis, Maryland, has copies of all the early, as well as many of the later records, from all of the counties in the state of Maryland, excepting those where court-houses have been burned. There are, no doubt, many Nicholson records there.

The original Coat of Arms of the family which we give (Plate XVII) has been preserved and used in this century by the descendants of his nephew John Nicholson whose two sons James and Samuel both took service in the Revolutionary Navy. Samuel Nicholson died a senior officer in 1813. He had married a niece of Sir John Temple. His brother James resigned after the war and settled in New York. He married a daughter of Albert Gallatin. See page 99, by Dalcho. The Nicholsons of Virginia were descended from Robert Nicholson who had a land grant in Charles City County, Va. in 1655. The author is inclined to believe that Robert may have been the "Robartt" in following records: Mrs. Watson Winslow in her "History of Perquimans County," (N. C.) page 394 quoted from the Original Lists . . . Persons of Quality by Hotten: "William Nicholson, weaver, of Nor'wich, Norfolk Co. England, embarked for Bosten Apr. 8, 1637; with wife Anne, age 28, and children, Nicho, Robartt, Elizabeth and Anne".

Since Charles City County Virginia is on the James River, and since Currituck County, N. C. adjoins Virginia and lies on the Currituck Sound, it would not have been surprising if the Currituck branch of Nicholsons did not come there from Charles City County. See following records: William Nicholson was a witness to to will of Joseph Matthew Commander, April 23, 1698, the county not given. See page 79, of N. C. Wills by Grimes. NICHOLSON FAMILY OF HALIFAX AND BEAUFORT COUNTIES N. C.

The following generalogy was compiled by the author from records furnished in January 1952 by Mrs. Elizabeth (Nicholson) Clark of Littleton, N. C., and by Mrs. Elizabeth S. (Nicholson) Mann of Washington, N. C. (Mrs. Clark has since passed away. She was sister to Mrs. Mann's father.) Both Mrs. Clark and Mrs. Mann stated that Lemuel Nicholson was son of Thomas, who was son of Christopher; but they furnished no proofs of this. This Christopher and his descendants are given in "Nicholson Family of New England and Perquimans County, N. C." Those descendants do not include a Lemuel Nicholson. Lemuel was son of William Nicholson whose will was proven May 17, 1728 in Norfolk Co. Va., and his wife Alice, whose will was proven in Norfolk Co., Va., March 16, 1748. For wills see "Nicholson Family of Md., Va., N. C., S. C., and Ga.", in this book. Records furnished by Mesdames Clark and Mann differ in some instances as to dates of birth etcetera. When differences occur, both versions will be given. Records from Mrs. Clark are: Christopher Nicholson died in 1731. He was the father of Thomas Nicholson I, Thomas Nicholson was father of Lemuel Nicholson. Lemuel Nicholson was the father of Joseph Wright Nicholson. Joseph Wright Nicholson was the father of Col. (Mrs. Clark copied these dates of birth from an old Nicholson Bible, which she owned.) Mrs. Elizabeth N. Mann's records state that Lemuel Nicholson's wife was daughter of Joseph Wright and wifeRebecca Holmes. Mrs. Mann's records state that Elizabeth Mann (wife of Joseph Wright Nicholson) was daughter of Thomas Mann who died in Nash Co. N. C. in 1792, will dated June 6, probated Nov. Thomas Nicholson, 5th child of Joseph Wright and Elizabeth Mann Nicholson, was born 1784, married Winnifred Wiggins, (daughter of Major Thomas Wiggins and Salie Lee of Virginia, a relative of Robert E. Lee.) Col. Thomas Nicholson died at his home Bracebridge Hall, near Ringwood, Halifax Co. N. C., on Nov. 2, 1830. He served in the War of 1812 as a Colonel. O'BRIEN (O'BRYAN) FAMILY

"Dictionary of Family Names of the United Kingdom", by Mark Anthony Lower. Page 242: "O'Brien—The O'Briens of Thomond took their name from the monarch Brian Boru, who was slain at the battle of Clontarf in 1014." A Genealogical History of Irish Families by John Rooney, (Pub. 1895). Pages 64 to 73: "The O'Brien family is descended from Milesius, King of Spain, through the line of Heber, third son of the monarch. The founders of the family were Brian Boroimhe, or Boru, King of Ireland, A. D. 1102-1014 and Moriertach O'Brien, last King of Ireland of the race of Brian Boru, A. D. 1089. Through their descent from Comac Cas, son of Olliul Ollum, King of Munster, A. D. 177, and his consort Sabia, daughter of Con Kead Caha, or Con of the 'Hundred Battles, King of Ireland, A. D. 148, the blood of both Heber and Heremon is united in this family. The ancient name was Brian and signifies 'The Author'. The titles of the chiefs of the Sept were Prince of Thomand, and King of Cashel and Munster, and their possessions were located in the present counties of Cork, Limerick, and Clare, then known as O'Brien's Country. This territory had been in possession of the O'Brien Sept from the time of Heber, and most of the Kings of Munster were of the O'Brien branch. From this stem sprung all the nobility and gentry of Munster. . . . King Brian Boru was the first to decree that the Irish should assume surnames, in order the better to preserve the genealogies of all the families of pure Milesian descent. The O'Brien family has always filled a large space in the history of Ireland. They steadfastly resisted the English invaders, and Edward the First granted their territory to Thomas de Clare, son of the Earl of Gloucester. In the contest that ensued the chief of the O'Biens was slain, but his sons continued the war, and finally expelled the invaders. A few settlements of foreigners were allowed to remain, but only on condition of adopting the language and manners of the country. In 1565 Sir Henry Sidney, the Lord Deputy, changed the name of O'Brien's Country, to that of Clare, after its Anglo-Norman grantee" . . . (O'Brien Crest I Plate I in colors.) Irish Genealogies by John O'Hart page 164 gives the genealogy of O'Brien (No. 2) Marquises of Thomond . . . King of Thomond. (This pedigree begins about the year 1500.)

"Notable Southern Families" by Zella Armstrong, Vol. 2, pages 33-34: "It has been said that the family tree of the O'Brien's bends beneath the weight of its royal ancestry. 'On every branch hangs a monarch' was almost too true at one time. Kings of Thomond, of Munster and Limerick, Earls of Ichquin,

Foreword

In the summer of 1800, sporadic Presbyterian services began being held in the community three miles west of the present day town of Ellerbe, Mineral Springs Township, Richmond County, North Carolina. The homes of Daniel Gillis, John McLean and Duncan Rankin are mentioned as having been the locale of these services. In the fall of 1804, a comfortable log house was built by the congregation and it was then organized as Harmony Church. The original Elders were Duncan McColl, Duncan Rankin, Daniel Henderson, John McFarland, Senr., and John Billingsly.

The following vital statistics of the congregation are taken from a "Chronicle" done by Alexander McDonald (1776-1861) in the years 1832-1838. He was ordained an Elder in 1808. (McDonald was a great-great-grandfather of the compiler and contributor of this material.)

Persons interested in seeing the original records may go to Ellerbe, N. C., and contact Dr. W. L. Howell or his daughter, Miss Rebecca Howell. The latter has done an excellent certified transcription of the early church records which contains some sixty-five typed pages.

The original compiler of the foregoing record, Alexander McDonald, 1776-1861, Elder of Harmony Presbyterian Church for almost fifty years, ends his "Chronicle" as follows: "The foregoing chronicles contain several names that are not now under the eye of the Session. Many are removed by emigration and by death and some have joined themselves to other denominations. And some that were born & bap. before organizing and died before or soon after or joined others would not have had their names inserted at all on a regular Record if said had been kept. The reason of their insertion here is to keep the families unbroken as far as convenient. On the contrary many persons' names are omitted that have been members at & since the organizing but have been removed by death or emigration."

FAMILY BIBLE (Currie)

The following Bible record was copied about five years ago by Mr. Bickham Christian, 644 Herndon Avenue, Shreveport 39, Louisiana. Mr. Christian says that he failed to make note of the present-day owner of the Bible in Richmond Co., N. C., but that Dr. W. L. Howell of Ellerbe, N. C., would know. These Curries were members of Harmony Presbyterian Church (see above), but three of the Currie children were not listed (namely James, Neil and Mary), two of them probably having died in infancy and the third (b. 1832) probably not born at the time of the compilation of the Church Records. Currie (not Curry) is the correct spelling of the name.

Duncan Currie, Jr., died 4 June 1868 in his 78th year; Cynthia Chance Currie died 6 Sept. 1868 in her 77th year; Duncan Currie, Jr., and Cynthia Chance were married 26 Feb. 1808 broad, Judge Nicholson also found time and opportunity to give effective cooperation in movements for the civic and social betterment of the section, and there were few movements of vital importance to the city of Wichita Falls with which he was not concerned. He was a member of the Knights of Pythias, the I. O. O. F., and of the First Presbyterian Church.

He was married in Gainesville, Texas, on December 13, 1881, to Miss Annie E. Aynes, the daughter of D. S. Aynes, a well known merchant of Gainesville. Judge and Mrs. Nicholson became the parents of two children: E. H. and Frank Nicholson.

The death of Judge Nicholson on June 3, 1934, after a serious illness of several weeks duration, cast a shadow of sorrow over Wichita County and particularly over the legal circles of that section.

JUDGE EMMETT W. NICHOLSON

JUDGE EMMETT W. NICHOLSON was born in Dallas, Texas, on August 24, 1858, the son of Colonel Edmund P. and Elizabeth (Griffin) Nicholson. His father, who was born in Jackson, Mississippi, came to Dallas in the early '50's. After serving as an officer in General Gano's Regiment in the Confederate States Army during the Civil War, Colonel Nicholson began active practice of law and during the years became one of the best known attorneys in Central Texas.

As a result of his early environment and his admiration for his father's profession, Judge Nicholson decided to develop his career along similar lines. Accordingly, after completing his early education in Kansas City, he began the study of law in his father's office. Some years later he was admitted to the Bar in Weatherford and further broadened his legal training by attendance at the St. Louis Law School, from which institution he received his degree. Selecting Jack County, Texas, as a suitable field of activity, Judge Nicholson opened offices in Jacksboro shortly after his graduation and began the private practice of his profession. His natural aptitude and qualifications in this field soon brought public recognition and he was called upon to offer himself as a candidate for County Attorney. He was successful in the elections of 1886 and capably filled the office of County Attorney for six years and then advanced to a higher honor as a result of his being elected County Judge of Jack County in the elections of 1892. His sound and conservative decisions, combined with his impartial dealing with the litigants before the court, gained the respect and admiration of his professional associates as well as the people under his jurisdiction and he was reelected for a second term.

With a long and honorable record of service to his credit, Judge Nicholson severed his professional interests in Jack County and enlarged his practice by establishing his home and offices in Wichita Falls in 1911. During the earlier part of his residence in that city he was associated as a partner with W. E. Fitzgerald, but this successful partnership was suspended upon Judge Nicholson's appointment as the first judge of the newly created 78th District Court. At the end of his term as judge, he again devoted his attention to caring for the interests of his large clientele and was thus engaged over a period of years until about 1926, when he once more filled the office of County Judge. Upon his retirement from the bench, his time was largely occupied by his private practice and his investments until his death.

Although the scope of his work had always been

The Clan MacNicol
(Nicholson/Nicolson)

Tradition, reinforced by the Gaelic genealogy of 1450, gives one branch of the Nicolsons or MacNicols and extremely ancient origin in the lands between Assynt and Durness on the north coast of Scotland. In the old Statistical Account, the Rev. William MacKenzie, in his description of the parish of Assynt, writes: "Tradition and even documents declare that it was a forest of the ancient Thanes of Sutherland. One of these Prince Thanes gave in vassalage to one Makrycul, who in ancient times held the coast of Coygach, that part of it at the place presently called "Ullapool". Mackrycul has been identified as the Gregall mentioned in the genealogy of the MacNicols in the MS of 1450.

Their ownership, however, passed to the MacLeods of Lewis with a MacNicol heiress. Another tradition gives a different branch as equally ancient past in the Hebrides, where Macnicol of Portree was said to have been one of the sixteen members of the Council of the Lordship of the Isles before it was abolished in 1493. Here the earliest historical references to the name begin in Skye in 1507, and the Nicolsons of Scorrybeck become established from that time as a line of chiefs.

One of the most notable of these was Donald of Scorrybreck, who became Episcopalian parson of Kilmuir after the Restoration of 1660 and continued in his office until well after the Revolution of 1688. It was not until 1696, in fact, that he retired rather than conform to the new Calvinist order. His career was paralleled by that of Thomas Nicolson, who was converted to the Catholic Church in 1682 and was already working in the Scottish mission in 1688. He was imprisioned, but then allowed to leave the country. In 1695, he was appointed Scotland's first Vical Apostolic, and although he was arrested on landing in the country, he was again released. So he was able to make the tour of 1700 which inabled him to write such a valuable account of life in the Hebrides at that time.

It was the turn of a Presbyterian when Donald MacNicol from Argyll made his precious collection of Ossianic ballads, before his appointment in 1766 as Minister of Lismore. A few years later Samuel Johnson made his Hebridian tour, and although he was correct in his judgement of MacPherson's bogus Ossian, he also made approbrious comments on Gaelic literature which incensed MacNicol. The result was his Remarks on Dr. Samuel Johnson's Journey to the Hebrides. This tradition has been kept alive since by Alexander Nicolson, who was born in Skye in 1827 and compiled a collection of Gaelic proverbs which is a treasury of ancient wisdom and manners. A hundred years later another Alexander Nicolson published a History of Skye which integrates the traditional poetry of the Island with exceptional skill.

There was a strong branch of the MacNicols in Argyllshire and the last chief of Scorrybreck emigrated to Australia, where the genuine line continues, although a bogus line from the Lowlands has since been established.

The Chief of the Nicholson Clan now lives in Tasmania, Australia. In 1979 he was 92 years old and still a very active man. His name is Malcolm Nicholson, late of Skye.

The First of Our Line 2/

The first Nicholson's of our family to land in America were members of the Clan McNichol from Glenorchy, Argyllshire, Scotland. They were forced out of Scotland by high rents and a poor food supply. Donald McNicol, the immigrant, was the son of Donald, Sr. & Ann McNicol; he is thought to be the grandson of Finlay McNichol & Anne McViccar of Argyll. His wife was named Katherine McArthur.

Donald McNicol, Jr., with his family, sailed on the ship "Jupiter" out of Glenurchy bound for the port of Wilmington, NC. They first touched American soil in the fall of 1775. The ship immigration list states: Donald MacNicol, age 40, labourer; Katherine, his wife, age 33; John, their son, age 6½; Nichol, their son, age 4; Archibald, their son, age 2; & Mary, their daughter, an infant.

This family lived in the Cumberland area of NC until about 1799. They had two other children born in the US.:Margaret and Duncan. Known marriages are: Nicholas to Catherine "Kate" Wilkinson-this family lived in SC, Fla, Ala.; before settleing in Jasper Co., MS.; Mary to John Pitts; Margaret to Angus Morrison. John & Archibald migrated to Wayne Co., MS. Their wives are unknown at this time.

In 1800, members of this family appear in Chesterfield Co., SC. Archibald is not listed although he is married by this time with one son. He and John are probably living with a relative.

Archibald appears in the 1810 census of Chesterfield Co. as follows: Archibald Nicholson-2 sons under 10; 1 son 10/16; 1 man 26/45; 1 girl under 10; & 1 woman 16/26. John is not listed. Indication are that he married late, and it is possible that he is living with a relative.

Archibald and John first appear in Wayne Co. on an 1812 tax list. Chesterfield and Wayne Cos. have both lost their records due to Court House fires, As a result, I do not have any records except for tax and census rolls. I can only hope that some relative finds an old Bible, papers, or remembers something that will provide more information.

From studying early census and tax rolls; it appears that most of the children of John and Archibald moved out of MS. I do not know where; although they might have gone to Ala. During the year 1820, there was an epidemic of some kind, and of the eleven Nicholson's in Wayne Co., five died. Children changed homes, and descent is impossible to figure out. I do not know if our Elijah was the grandson of John or of Archibald. John died in 1820 and Archibald died in the 1840's. Both are buried somewhere in Wayne Co. They had lived in the Buckatunna area of Wayne Co.

The first proof of our ancestry appears on the 1850 census. There is a Daniel b.c1805 SC and our Elijah b.c1828 MS. Elijah named his first son Daniel, but I do not think that this Daniel was his father. I do think that this Daniel raised him.

Benjamin Elijah, our ancestor, stated that he was born in MS c1828. In about 1848, in Wayne Co., probably in Waynesboro, he married "Tildy" Holly. When the War Between the States began, he enlisted and attained the rank of Captain. He served with Co. A 46 MS Inf. C.S.A. He died toward the end of the war in Wayne Co. and is buried in the Hollis Creek Cemetary. His time of death indicates that he came home either wounded or ill. There is a tombstone in the Hollis Creek Cemetary erected in is memory, but no dates are inscribed on it.

Benjamin Elijah Nicholson and Mary Matilda Holley had five children-all born in the Rawles Springs area of Wayne Co.

1. Daniel was born on Feb. 26, 1850 and married Jane Hutto. He died on Sept. 2, 1925.

2. James was born c1853 and married on Sept. 20, 1879, Elizabeth Douglass. He died on Nov. 5, 1945.

3. Martha was born on June 16, 1855 and married Blakley Shoemaker. She died on Jan. 21, 1923.

4. Godfrey Lee, our ancestor.

5. Columbus was born c1862 and married Ann Yates. He died on May 6, 1924/25.

After Elijah's death, Tildy married James Miller. I only know of two more children: Mary born c1868 in Wayne Co., & Nancy A. born c1870 in Wayne Co. Shortly after 1870, the family moved to Jones Co. Tildy died on Feb. 24, 1895 and is buried in the McDonald Cemetary near Collins, MS.

The parents of Mary Matilda "Tildy" Holley were James, born c1797 Ga. & Nancy, born c1802 Ga. There is a marriage record in Wilcox, Ala. which states that James Holley and Nancy Manning were married June 28, 1825. I do not know the names of their older children, but the younger ones were: Mary Matilda born c1831; Columbus born c1832 Ala.; Godfrey born c1834 Ala.; James born c1837 Ala.; & Rebecca born c1840 Ala. I am excepting the fact that Tildy was their daughter because: in 1860, after Nancy died, James was living next to Tildy; in 1870 he was living with her; & records left by a family member state that fact.

Benjamin Elijah

Towner Boutwell married in about 1857 to Margaret, born c1842. (parents unknown) They had 13 children who lived: Daniel J. born July 24, 1858 & died Oct. 8, 1909, and is buried in the Antioch Cemetary in Jones Co.; Nancy Sara born c1861: Margaret Ellen: Amanda born c1864; Christina L. born c1866; Mary E. born c1867; ? born c1869; H.M. born c1871; E.A. born c1873; Louise born c1874; Tome born ?;S.C.; & Jany born c1879. The second half of the children I got off the 1880 census which was badly written and very hard to read.

I wish to know the maiden names of Berton's wife, Nancy; and of Towner's wife, Margaret. Unless some family member knows, the only way I can find out is by ordering the death certificates of some of their children who died after 1912. Margaret Ellen's did not say. If anyone can send me where and when any of these children died, I would appreciate it.

Pat

Godfrey Lee Nicholson
A Biography

Papa Lee was born on November 2, 1860 in the Rawls Springs area of Wayne Co., MS. His father, Elijah, died toward the end of the Civil War, and a few years later his mother, Tildy, married again. His step-father, James Miller, moved his family to Jones Co. shortly after 1870. Godfrey stayed only a few years, and then returned to Wayne Co.

On March 25, 1880, he married Margaret Ellen Boutwell. During the following twenty-two years, he and Margaret had fourteen children. Margaret died on March 2, 1922 and is buried in the Hollis Creek Cemetary.

Godfrey Lee was a tall healthy man with a strong determination to please and take care of his family. He and his family lived in a four room log house that he had built near Hollis Creek Church and Hollis Creek. This double-pen log house was "L" shaped with a kitchen. It had three fireplaces made of clay, as they did in those days. This is where he raised his family.

Papa Lee and his family attended Hollis Creek Missionary Baptist Church. They only had church once a month. The preacher would come on Saturday and spend the night with Lee and Margaret. They always enjoyed Margaret's cooking.

Godfrey Lee was a farmer and a very hard working man. He plowed his fields and garden with a horse and raised livestock and poultry. (cows, hogs, horses, turkeys, chickens, geese & guineas.) Margaret would weave and spin, making mittens and socks for the children to wear out of the wool Papa Lee provided. She would also take cotton, batt it out with batts, and make thread on her spinning wheel. Papa Lee was too proud to let his children wear patched clothing.

He split rails from oak trees on his land to make fences for his farm. He made and sold crossties which were used to build railroad tracks throughout the country. He would take the crossties to a buyer in Waynesboro in a horse drawn wagon.

In the winter months, Godfrey Lee trapped Opossum, Otter, Raccoon, and Bobcats. The animals were plentiful and their fur brought in good money.

The only time he was ever away from home were the times he traveled by horse drawn wagon to Mobile, Alabama to sell some of his turkeys. He carried food, drink, clothing and first aid supplies. (epson salts, liniment, turpentine & bandages) The turkeys were driven much like cattle drive, and at night, the turkeys would fly up into the trees to roost. Godfrey Lee's sons, William, Towner, John and Tom helped on the long drive. At night, when they camped, a big fire was built for cooking and sitting around and the telling of yarns. Chewing tobacco was passed around (Papa Lee did love his chewin' terbaccy) and the night creatures made their music. After laughing and talking for awhile, quilts were spread on the ground and everyone went to sleep. Although they slept, it was a light sleep and with one hand on their double barrelled shotguns as there were many wild animals that could attack the turkeys as they roosted. The shotguns were also used to suppliment the food supply.

After each meal on the drive, the pans were cleaned with sand in a nearby stream, then stored until the next meal. The trip to Mobile took a week or longer as it was 108 miles from Hollis Creek Road. Since the trip was

The Boutwell Family

The earliest known Boutwell in the US was James, an 1628 immigrant from England to Mass. His family settled in New England and is well documented.

In or before the year 1700, a Samuel Boutwell migrated to Beaufort Co.,NC and lived there the rest of his life. I am presuming that Samuel was a descendant of James. Also, in Beaufort Co., lived a Burkenhead family. It was the custom during this time to name one of the sons the maiden name of the mother.

During the early 1700's a Burtonhead Boutwell migrated to Prince Fredrick Parish in the old Gorgetown District of S.C. Burtonhead received a land grant in 1756 and died Feb. 26, 1761. According to his will, he had four children: Samuel, Joanna, Anne, and Joseph. The 1779 Beaufort Co., NC will of a Samuel Boutwell lists no male heirs. Burtonhead had been married twice. First to Elizabeth Commander, the daughter of Samuel and Elizabeth Commander, who bore his first child, Samuel; and second to Patience ? who was the mother of the other three. Patience later married Michel Lamy. Joseph married Elizabeth Micheau in Prince Fredrick Parish on June 22, 1785. A Burtonhead Boutwell of SC filed three Rev. War Claims. I cannot make any claim as to which Boutwell was our ancestor.

By 1790, there were three Boutwell families in the South. One in Va., one in NC, and ours, in Barnwell Co., SC. The 1790 census lists three Boutwells in Barnwell: Burton, John, Joseph. All three had sons our Berton's age. In 1790, a B. Boutwell was a messenger from the Great Salkehatchie (Baptist) Church of Barnwell Co., SC.

In 1800 Barnwell Co., there were four Boutwell's: Barnwell, Burton, John, & William. Only Barnwell had a son our Berton's age.

In 1820, there was a Burton, Sarah, & William. Only William had family members that could include our Berton. A Thomas Boutwell had migrated to Pike Co., MS by 1820, and other Boutwells had migrated to other Southern States. Thomas was probably an Uncle of Berton's.

I first saw our Berton in an 1831 tax list of Pike Co., MS. The 1830 census of Pike Co. has been lost, so I do not know if he was married.

By 1840, Berton had migrated to Wayne Co., MS. The census lists him as follows: 2 sons under 5; 2 sons 5/10; man 40/50; woman 30/40. This indicates that Berton married in 1830 or shortly after.

The 1850 census of Wayne Co. states: Berton Boutwell born c1785 SC; Nancy born c1810 Ga.; George B. born c1833 SC; Seaford born c1836 MS; Towner born c1838 MS; Samanda born c1840 MS; Daniel B. born c1842 MS.(died in Wayne Co. in 1922); Nancy born c1844 MS; & Lucenda born c1848 MS. Because of the age difference between Berton & Nancy, it is possible that Berton was married twice and raised two families. I cannot explain George B. being born in SC, unless he was a son who joined his father after Berton's second marriage, or he was a nephew. I only know that Berton and Nancy were the parents of our ancestor Towner.

(c before a date means that the birth year is taken from census information, and is not exact.)

so long, food for the horses and turkeys was carried along. Of course there was plenty of water from nearby creeks, streams and rivers for drinking and bathing.

The geese and guineas were plucked once a year and their feathers were used for beds and pillows. Margaret used bolts of cloth brought from Mobile to make the ticking and clothing for the family.

Godfrey Lee loved his grandchildren and spent many hours playing with them. He told them stories and taught them about the woods and its creatures. Two of his grandchildren, Towner's daughters Margania and Roberta, lived about half a mile away. Papa Lee would play the fiddle for his grandaughters and whistle while they sang and danced.

He had a favorite horse, Dandy. Dandy was a big white horse that was used to pull the family's black buggy with red wooden wheels. Godfrey Lee used a home made cow-hide whip to encourage Dandy to trot a little faster.

On Sunday evenings, Godfrey Lee took Margania and Roberta for a buggy ride down a long shady lane that was lined with sunflowers, pecan trees, pine trees and many wild flowers.

Papa Lee was a beloved man and lived many years. He had blue eyes, grey hair, an olive complexion and a big handle bar moustache. He also wore wire rimmed glasses. He suffered with asthma and during his last years, was confined to the house much of the time suffering from these attacks. He was stricken with a sudden heart attack on June 4, 1937 and passed away. At the time of his death, he was living in his log cabin, which he had built, with two of his daughters, Lydia and Fannie. These daughters had moved in after the death of their mother. They looked after Godfrey Lee until his passing.

Papa Lee is buried in the Hollis Creek Cemetary next to his wife and near his father and some of his children. It is possible that his grandfather and great-grandfather are also there, lieing in unmarked graves.

THE REV. J. J. NICHOLSON.

We were no less grieved than surprised, yesterday, to hear of the death of the Rev'd J. J. Nicholson, late of Mobile, which occurred at San Antonio, Texas, on the 11th of April. Mr. Nicholson's position in this community and the associations which he had formed here were such as to call for something more than a mere incidental mention of his decease.

Joseph John Nicholson was born in Maryland in January, 1819, and was, therefore, only forty-seven years of age at the time of his death. He was educated for mercantile life, and at an early age was one of the partners in a dry-goods house in Annapolis. He soon abandoned this pursuit, however, to devote himself to the ministry of the Protestant Episcopal Church, in which he continued to officiate to the end of his life.

Mr. Nicholson had charge of various parishes, which we are unable to specify by name—first in his native State and then in the Diocese of New York. From New York he removed to Houston, Texas, where he officiated until, on account of failing health, he came to Alabama in the year 1855 and opened a school at Camden, Wilcox county. A year or two afterwards he settled at Spring Hill, near this city, and established a school, which acquired a high reputation and was very successful in every respect, until it was closed, in the year 1862, on account of the war. Besides conducting his school, while at Spring Hill, he officiated regularly as a clergyman, and it was under his auspices that St. Paul's Church at that place was built, and a parish organized.

Towards the close of the same year he was appointed chaplain in the Confederate Army and assigned to duty at the post of Talladega, where he officiated until the end of the war.

In addition to his labors as a clergyman, and as an instructor of youth, Mr. Nicholson had devoted much time and attention to literature.—Some eight or ten years ago he published a religious novel, "The Blemmertons," which was favorably received by many critics. It is a work that evinces much knowledge of human nature, no little descriptive power, and some admirable touches of humor and satire. Its lack of constructive power, however, and the diffuseness and tendency to discursiveness, which were the principal faults of the author's style, both as a writer and a speaker, have hindered it from ever acquiring general popularity.

Besides this work, he was a frequent contributor to the "Knickerbocker" and other periodicals, and in the latter years of his life his pen was often employed in contributions to the Mobile press.

Mr. Nicholson was an ardent patriot, and few men sacrificed more freely for the Confederate cause. The vicissitudes of the war caused the loss of his business, of his patrimony, and of the fruits of his own industry. His two grown sons were freely given up to the service of their country. One of them has survived all the perils and hardships of four years' continuous service in the field and in a Northern prison. The eldest, who went out as lieutenant in a Mobile company, afterwards became Captain of it, passed through the hardest-fought battles of the Army of Virginia, was twice wounded—the last time (at the battle of the Wilderness) so severely as to compel his retirement—and finally died of a sad accident, resulting from his wounds, within a few weeks after the close of the war. Two other children died of disease during the same period.

Soon after the final capitulation, Mr. Nicholson removed, with his family, to Texas, took charge of a parish at San Antonio, and spent his last remaining means in building up an institution of learning at that place, the fruits of which, in consequence of his untimely death, will be reaped by others.

He was twice married—the first time at a very early age,—and leaves a large family, among strangers, and in straitened and dependent circumstances.

He had some faults, but they were the faults of a generous and noble nature. He was a man of positive character. There was nothing negative or neutral about him. He was by nature impulsive, combative and sensitive; liable sometimes to misunderstand others, but ever prompt and ready to forgive or to make amends. He was utterly devoid of ill-will to any human being, although prone to do injustice to himself by talking in a strain that might leave a different impression upon his hearers. He was the truest and most sympathizing of friends. His performance was always far in advance of his professions. He was the very incarnation of truth and honor. His word could be trusted, and more than trusted, to the uttermost. There was not a particle of sham in his character. Those who knew him best loved and valued him most. His faith and piety were unostentatious, but deep and sincere. In his family—but we pause and refrain from the attempt to portray him in those holy domestic relations, in which his nature shone with the purest lustre.

We write with a deep sense of incompetency to express what is due to the rare character of a true and genuine friend—one who was more a friend in adversity than in prosperity. He is gone, but not to be forgotten. To him, more fitly than in almost any other case, can we apply the passionate lament of the old minstrel:

"O Douglas, Douglas—tender and true!"

A Story Related by Hurthia

Aunt Fannie West was the clown of them all. When Virgil, Lois, and I were growing up, while we were living at Grandpa Lee's after my Dad died, she would dress up in old clothes, sometimes men's and sometimes Women's, and go around scareing us. If we were outside playing, she would come up out of the woods and scare us. We were up in a peach tree one time when she scared us and we fell out on the pickett fence. If she ever laughed, we would know who it was because she had a gold front tooth and it would show. She was all the time pulling some kind of prank, not only on us, but on all the children around or that would visit.

Mr. W. P. Nicholson, Jr.
Bunger Rt.
Graham, Texas 76046

Dear Mr. Nicholson:

I was most happly to hear from someone doing research on the Nicholson line. I had wondered (from the same source) if perhaps there might be some connection, and just kept putting off writing. As yet, there doesn't seem to be any, however, who knows.

My line, as far as I've been able to determine, was "NICHOLAS NICHOLSON", on the 1800 Chesterfield County, South Carolina census. He was listed as 1 male 26-45, 1 female 16-26, no children. I could not find him in 1810, 1820 he was still in Chesterfield Co., S.C. as over 45 , 1 male 18-26, 1 male 16-18, 1 male 10-16, 4 males under 10. 1 Female 26-45, 2 under 10. Meaning he had seven sons and two daughters. In 1830 they had moved to Escambia County, Florida. In 1840 they were in Conecuh County, Alabama, however, I'm not sure that they had moved but maybe the Florida State line had moved further south. By 1850 they were in Jasper County, Mississippi, he an old man, living with or very near a daughter, Margaret Waters. I do not believe he lived long after that census was taken. A son, John (who is my great-great grandfather) had already gone to Neshoba county, Miss. by 1840. On his tomb is "Secred to the Memory of Rev. JOHN NICHOLSON, C.P. Died Nov. 7, 1856, Aged 49 Years, Native of Chesterfield District, S.C."

In Neshoba County, Miss., July 1856 Term of Court, A listing of the children were named, but Nicholas as not listed. It seems Neil Nicholson had received a Military Bounty Land Warrant (for what Military service, I have no idea) and he had died, leaving no family of his own (7-20-1852), and left the following persons"as his heirs at law and as his only heirs at law viz: JOHN, DANIEL,ANGUS,PETER, ARCHIBALD, ALEXANDER AND JAMES NICHOLSON, all over 21 years of age, and MARY NEALY, formerly Mary Nicholson, CATHARINE McMILLAN, formerly Catharine Nicholson and MARGARET WATTERS, formerly Margaret Nicholson. That said heirs were all the brothers and sisters of said NEIL NICHOLSON, who left no other heirs."

In searching the courthouse records (all that remain) of Jasper County, Miss., I found that there was a "DANIEL NICHOLSON and his wife CANDICE" grantor of property in Section 24, Township 2, Range 11 Sept. 16, 1837. In the same township and range, section 27 Elisha Waters and his wife Margaret (Nicholson) were both grantor and grantee in Aug. 1856. This "DANIEL" must have had some connection to the family, by their moving in the same area, and son "DANIEL" was still in Conecuh Co., ALA. in 1840.

There is a place in Hancock County, Miss. named "NICHOLSON, Miss." It is in the Miss. Test Facility for NASA now. or on its border.

The "Isaac and Theophilus"Nicholson in Kemper Co., Miss. in 1840 are the same as the ones in Copiah county in 1830. Theophilus was born in 1800, in N.C., died in 1844. It seems that Isaac was an attorney, judge or something, I can't find my notes at the moment.

These were my great grandparents.

I know nothing of the "Nicholson's" in southern Miss., Perry, Wayne or Hancock counties. I have never done any research there as I knew mine were still not in the state at the time these came into southern Miss. It is entirely possible that because of the names, there may have been some connection, I just don't know.

How did you find that your great great great grandfather "Peter Nicholson" came to America in 1805? I would love to be able to find out just when mine entered the U.S. and just who "Nicholas Nicholson's" father was, DANIEL or ANGUS Nicholson who appeared on 1800 Chesterfield Co., S.C. census, the only two old enough to have been his father.

My Daniel Nicholson, (son of Nicholas, bro. of my John) moved to Texas after 1850 census. I do not know which county. Some of John's children also moved to Texas later on. Never did know where. The oldest child, Angus, was my great grandfather. He and his father both were Presbyterian ministers.

I don't know that I've been of any help to you other than to clarify who some of the names are. There are others that I do not know about. A Mr. Leon Hollingsworth was commissioned to gather information and write a book on "Duncan Nicholson" and his decendants. He may have contacted you also. I believe he has died, do not know if he ever finished his work or not. I had hoped to get a copy of the finished product, whether it was my particular line or not, as I know he had done quite a bit on all Nicholson's of both North and South Carolina, Georgia, Alabama, and Mississippi.

I never got information on Nicholas's sons: ANGUS, PETER, ARCHIBALD, ALEXANDER or JAMES. It is possible that some stayed in Alabama. I believe James may have stayed in South Carolina.

Dear Mr. Nicholson,

I am always glad to hear from a member of this large Nicholson family. I am sorry that it has taken me such a long time to decide how best to send you the information you need. I hope to get all of it on its way to you this coming week.

My husband and his oldest sister and myself worked out a "Family Tree" many years ago. I am sure it will give you some information. I will be able to get a copy made for you next week -- finding how to do this has taken time.

This branch of the family originally came from Skye. The information from which our tree started says:

"Angus Nicholson and Annie McCall were born in Inverarary, Scotland. They were married there in 1775 and came to America that year, stopping near Fayetteville, N. Carolina. From there they settled in Chesterfield District, South Carolina." Angus, Donald, Malcolm, Archibald and John are family names that go back to the beginning of the Clan.

This is in Argyll Co.

I am enclosing a clipping I found recently, which you may find interesting. This house was sold. I think that some younger members of the family are now trying to get it back into the family and have it declared a Historic sight. In July 1977 there was a Reunion of this branch of the family. It was held in Gadsden County Florida near this house. There were about 300 present.

I visited Scotland in 1976 and had a kilt made in the beautiful Nicholson plaid. Both the dress plaid and the hunting plaid are beautiful. If you want the address of the company that handles the material, I will be glad to send it to you.

Everything I try to do these days is harder for me to accomplish, that's what getting old does for us! Please let me know if any of what I will send is helpful.

Sincerely,
Virginia M. Nicholson

(Mr. Nicholson was never able to contact her again. He presumed she died.)

Dear Mrs. Edwards:

I received the large package of records you sent me and want to thank you very much for sending them to me. I have not been able to make any connection so far but if we both keep gathering information I am sure a lot of it will eventually make connections.

Did you receive the last materials I sent you about receiving information on Peter Nicholson and about Malcolm McSwain and Margaret Nicholson being Administrator and Administratrix of his estate also about William R. Nicholson of Alabama? I received this from Mrs. Danley of the McSween - McSwain organization you sent me and from Mrs. Angus McSwain, Jr. of Waco, Texas. She has more information on Peter Nicholson she says she will send me but she is so busy this summer that it will be fall before she will have any time. In some of her records she has that Malcolm McSwain was in Wayne Co., Miss. at one time.

I am sending you some things I have received from a number of sources. I am trying to get a copy of the book you mentioned, don't know if I will have any luck or not. I wrote to Marlboro Co., S.C. for a copy of a deed of land Peter Nicholson bought in 1803 but have not heard from them, don't expect to now. I also wrote the Georgia State Archives and they said they had no Peter Nicholson in their name file. I also wrote the John Nicholson of Ga. and like you, I did not receive an answer.

The film I bought did not help me any. Did you ever get to see the film on the Nicholson Place in Richmond Co., N.C.?

We have not been to Fort Worth yet as my wife has had to have some dental work done. I hope we can go within the next month. I have a number of things I want to check at the library there. Hope I can find some information that will be of help to both of us.

I am sure you have this census information but will send what I have found. In the 1850 Wayne Co. census I found this in my notes.

Elija Nicholson	22 M	Ala.?
Mary "	20 F	?
Daniel "	1 M	?

In the 1860 Wayne Co. census I found this:

	Josephine "	17	F	"
	Infant 3/12		F	"

	Elizabeth "	47	F	Miss.
	" "	2	F	"
	Aleso "	3	M	"
	Roan Sumral	9	F	"
	James "	7	M	"
Page 39 - 326	Elijah Nicholson			Miss.
	Matilda "	29	F	"
	Daniel "	11	M	"
	James "	5	M	"

In your last letter you mentioned the names Odom, Newell and Brown along with others. Were any of the above in Perry Co. at any time? I have a book of cemetery records of Perry Co. which shows a number of people buried in Perry Co. by those names. If you do not have this book, I will be glad to copy the information on then and sent it to you.

You said you had the Wills of a number of Nicholsons of Alabama. I would appreciate receiving a copy of the one on William R, Nicholson, April 21, 1869. If you will notice this is the same person in some of the papers I am sending you. I do not know if this is the same William R. Nicholson involved in the settlement of Peter Nicholson's Estate or not. I sent you those papers in my last letter.

Do you have a copy of the book History of the Old Cheraws by the Right Rev. Alexander Gregg? The book mentions the Marshall, Frierson, Witherspoon families. People of these same names were early settlers in Caddo and DeSoto Parishes La. along with my folks. One of my cousins married into the Marshall family and another one into the Frierson family. I do not know if these families are the same as those mentioned in the book but it seems likely a large number of friends and relatives of S.C. moved to Miss. and La. about the same time.

Do you have any relatives living in or near New Augusta in Perry Co., Miss.? That is where the courthouse is located is it not? If you do I wonder if you could get them to find out at the courthouse the name and address of the person owning the 320 acres in the SE and NE 1/4 of Section 21 of Township 4 of Range 10, West of the basis Meridian. It is so hard to get anything from any of the County Clerks. I would like to write the person and see if he knows anything of an old Nicholson homeplace.

Will close for now and hope I will be able to have some new information by the next time I write you.

Sincerely,

A. P. Nicholson Jr.

Dear Mrs. Edwards:

I was glad to receive your letter and chart and to learn you are a Nicholson by birth. It is always interesting to learn of other Nicholsons. Please excuse my delay in answering your letter but I have been very busy and we have been gone part of the time. I also wanted to check my materials to see if I could help you in any way.

In Wayne Co. Cemetery Records I found the following: Hollis Creek Cemetery, location Section 31, Township 7, Range 8.
Elizah Nicholson, Co A 46th Miss. Inf. (no dates) C.S.A.
Geala L., son of G.L. and M.E. Nicholson. Nov. 8, 1882 - Sept. 16, 1883.
Daniel Nicholson, died Dec. 19, 1875, age 67 yrs.
Elizabeth Nicholson, wife of Daniel Nicholson, (no dates).
Martha E., daughter of S. Daniel Nicholson and June Nicholson. Feb. 23, 1880 - Feb. 26, 1891.

You may have the above information but if not and the Elizah Nicholson shown above is your Nicholson, I think you may be able to find out more about him by securing his military records from Jackson, Miss. or Washington.

I found a John Hartsfield and a Isaac Carter on the 1811 Tax list for Wayne Co..

In the 1833 Perry Co. Tax Roll a Henry and a William Easterling was shown. In the 1839and 1840 Perry Co. Tax Rolls there was a Bennett, a John, a Henry and a James Easterling.

I found a Federal land grant was given to Elias Brown in Jones Co. in 1854, No.11410 also a grant to Bennett Easterling in 1854, No. 10310.

In Perry Co. Cemetery Records I found a Mary Catherin Easterling 1-29-1856 - 2-24-1929, buried in the Edwards Cemetery.

The above information is all that I have been able to find in the records I have. I do not know if this will help you any or not.

I will now try to tell you something about my family and any information you might be able to give me certainly will be appreciated.

According to family information Peter Nicholson, my great great grandfather, was a widower with two small boys when he came to America about 1805. He was Highlander from Scotland. On the ship to America he met Margaret McSwain, about 16 years of age, also from the Highlands of Scotland and soon after they arrived in America they were married, when and where, I have not found out yet.

In the later Caddo Parish, La. Census lists it shows that at least three of Peter and Margaret's children were born in South Carolina. I have not been able to find out where. The family was also supposed to have been in Georgia at one time and then in Mississippi.

I have Federal military records for a Peter Nicholson in the War of 1812 from Washington Co., Miss. Territory but these give me no information as to whether he is the one who was my great great grand father.

The next place I find the family is Margaret and several of the boys in Perry Co., Miss. on the early 1820s and 1830s tax list. Peter Nicholson is said to have drowned while crossing the Pearl River in a canoe. I do not know when.

In the early Perry Co. tax list there wasa Alexander Nicholson and a Daniel Nicholson, they both were later given land grants in Jasper Co. I believe Alexander was one of Peter Nicholson's sons by his first marriage. The Daniel Nicholson was one of my great grandfathers and he and his wife Candace Taylor Nicholson, sold their land in Jasper Co. in 1837 and I guess moved to Caddo Parish, La. soon thereafter as he was on the 1840 census there and died there in 1842. Candace Taylor was the daughter of Sanders Taylor,he was appointed Justice of Peace in Perry Co. in 1820 when it was made a county. He and his family later moved to Marshall Co., Miss. where he is buried.

Margaret Nicholson and most of the children moved to Caddo Parish, La. around 1840 and was one of the pioneer families of Caddo Parish. I was born in Caddo Parish in Shreveport, La.

You mentioned you thought you were related to the Nicholsons of Jasper Co., Miss.. Below I am quoting part of a letter a Mrs. Jean Loflin, 9637 West Tams Drive, Baton Rouge, La. 70815 wrote me in 1978.

"My line, as far as I've been able to determine, was "NICHOLAS NICHOLSON", on the 1800 Chesterfield Co., South Carolina census. He was listed as 1 male 26-45, 1 female 16-26, no children. I could not find him in 1810, 1820 he was still in Chesterfield Co., S.C. as over 45, 1 male 18-26, 1male 16-18, 1 male 10-16, 4 males under 10, 1 female 26-45, 2 under 10. meaning he had seven sons and two daughters. In 1830 they had moved to Escambia Co., Florida. In 1840 they were in Conecuh Co., Alabama, however, I'm not sure that they had moved but the Florida State line had moved further south. By 1850 they were in Jasper Co., Miss., he an old man, living with or near a daughter, Margaret Waters. I do not believe he lived long after that census was taken. A son, John (who is my great-great grandfather) had already gone to Neshoba Co., Miss. by 1840. On his tomb is "Sacred to the Memory of Rev. John Nicholson, C.P. Died Nov. 7, 1856, Aged 49 Years, Native of Chesterfield District, S.C.

In Neshoba Co., Miss. July 1856 Term of Court, a listing of the children were named, but Nicholas was not listed. It seems Neil Nicholson had received a Military Bounty Land Warrant (for what military service, I have no idea) and he had died, leaving no family of his own (7-20-1852), and left the following persons as his heirs at law and as his only heirs at law viz: John, Daniel, Angus, Peter, Archibald, Alexander and James Nicholson, all over 21 years of age, and Mary Nealy, formerly Mary Nicholson, Catherine McMillan, formerly Carherine Nicholson and Margaret Watters, formerly Margaret Nicholson. That said heirs were all the brothers ans sisters of said Neil Nicholson, who left no other heirs.

In searching the courthouse records (all that remain) of Jasper Co., Miss., I found that there was a "Daniel Nicholson and his wife Candice" grantoe of property in Section 24, Township 2, Range 11, Sept 16, 1837. In the same township and range, section 27 Elisha Waters and his wife Margaret (Nicholson) were both grantor and grantee in Aug. 1856. This "Daniel" must have had some connection to the family by their moving in the same area, and son "Daniel" was still in Conecuh Co., Ala. in 1840." The end of the letter ~~quation~~. quotation.

Do you have any information on when your early ancestors came to America and where they were from? I am trying to trace Peter Nicholson back to Scotland and learn something about the family there, not having much luck so far.

By the way, there were a number of the Caddo Parish Nicholsons who moved to California. I have a third cousin who I correspond with. She lives in Alameda, Cal.. She was born a Nicholson in Shreveport, La. I have a son and his wife and young son living in Salinas, Cal., he was born in Fort Worth, Texas. His name is Walter P. Nicholson III.

Again I enjoyed receiving your letter and will appreciate any information you can give me, maybe in our research we can both help each other. Looking forward to hearing from you, I remain.

Sincerely,
W. P. Nicholson, Jr.

Dear Mrs. Edwards:

I received your nice letter and all the information you sent me and want to thank you very much. Please excuse my delay in writing but we have had a lot of company and I have not been able to get much done and also I wanted to search through everything I had to see if I could make a connection.

With the census, court and family records I have that I know are correct and those I have I am not too sure about plus what you sent me, I can not find a connection with your family and mine but I am sure there is one, they were all in the same area about the same time. I hope we can find the connection and that we can help each other in gathering more information on our families.

I have delayed some in writing also as I was hoping to receive a roll of microfilm I am buying from Georgia in which I hope to find a lot of research information on Nicholsons', that one of Georgia's leading genealogist has done but have been notified that due to techinal problems the film will not be available until sometime perhaps in January. You may be aware of his work, his name was Hollingdworth. He is now dead.

You mentioned you thought perhaps the Margaret Nicholson in Perry Co. was the widow of one of the other Nicholson's. Margaret Nicholson was Peter Nicholson's wife and my great great grandmother. The Roderick, Angus and Daniel Nicholson men were her sons and I believe the Alexander Nicholson was Peter'Nicholson's son by his first marriage. Alexander and Daniel both secured land grants in Jasper Co. in 1835 and 1836. Daniel married Candace Taylor, a daughter of Sanders Taylor of Perry Co. and died in 1842 in Caddo Parish, La. I have a copy of his estate papers from the Caddo Parish Courthouse.

I wish the Nicholson families had not given so many of their children the same names. I know there was a Daniel Nicholson in both Wayne and Jasper counties long after my great grandfather Daniel Nicholson had died in Caddo Parish, La.

Since I received your first letter I have had two letters from a lady in Biloxi, Miss. who is a descendant of a sister of Mary Ann McDonald Nicholson and she sent me a copy of Mary Ann's father's will. Her father was Hugh McDonald and he died in 1850 in Noxubee Co., Miss. He was also born in Scotland and was an early settler in Perry Co.

I have noticed that the Easterling families, the Nicholsons, the Taylor and the McDonalds all had land on the Leaf River in Perry Co. Did you know there is a Nicholson Creek on the Perry Co. map and also there are a number of Nicholson families listed now in the Richton telephone directory. Have you ever seen the book, Richton ... Remembered and Retold, by Josie Smallen Wilson? I sure wish I could read the book, have never seen a copy.

You probably have the following information but will send it in the event you do not. This is what I have found:
Lee Nicholson married Margaret Boutwell 3-25-1880 Wayne Co., Book 1, page 100.
James D. Nicholson married Elizabeth Douglas 9-20-1879 Wayne Co. Book 1, page 234.
Miss. Marriage W.P.A. Soundex.
Mathew Carter on the 1819 Greene Co., Miss. Tax Roll.
Mathew Carter on the 1820, 21, 22, 23, 25, 27, 28 and 1829 Perry Co. Miss. Tax Rolls, not on any later than 1829.
John and Archibald Nicholson on the Wayne Co., Miss. 1816 census list.
John Hartsfield on the Greene Co., Miss. 1816 census.
Henry Easterling and Bennett Easterling both on the 1839 and 1840 Perry Co., Miss. Tax Rolls. Henry Easterling first appeared on the Perry Co., Tax Roll in 1825. A William Easterling on the 1820 Perry Co. Tax Roll. Henry Easterling was a Justice of Peace in Perry Co.

I noticed on your chart you sent me that Henry Easterling was born in Anson Co., N.C.. My great great grandfather Sanders Taylor was born in Johnson Co., N.C. and lived in Anson Co., N.C. before coming to Perry Co., Miss.

I hope you will be able to secure a copy of the Harmony Presbyterian Church records from the N.C. State Archives, I am sure that would be very interesting.

Do you have a branch library of the Genealogical Society of Utah near you? During the summer my son and his wife and small boy visited us and on the way down here they stopped for a short while in Salt Lake City and he spent a little time in the library there. He said they had a film No. 539, Old Nicholson Place, Richmond Co., N.C. It might have a lot of information, he did not have time to look at the film. I hope some time to order it at the branch library in Fort Worth.

I have a second cousin who is working in Scotland for awhile and he is interested in the family and I have sent him all I had as he had nothing. I am hoping he can find something for us.

I am sending you copies of a few things you might find interesting reading. I will keep looking and will send you anything I find that might be of help to you and hope you will do the same, maybe between us we can find our families back to Scotland and learn something about them over there. I would sure like to be able to do that for my son and daughter and my grandchildren.

Hoping you and yours enjoy a very happy Xmas season and looking forward to hearing from you.

Sincerely,

P.S. Is the Lola Hargrove Nicholson of 4402 Glingmn Dr. Phone 868-9909 the widow of your uncle Paul you mentioned about in Shreveport, La.?

Dear Mrs. Edwards:

I received your last letter and records for which I thank you. I do not know of any connection as of now but if we gather enough material some of it might fall into place.one of these days.

You certainly did me a big favor when you sent me the information about the McSween - McSwain organization with Mrs Marye McSwain Danley's address in Center, Texas. I had never heard of the organization. I wrote her and received some real information about my Peter Nicholson I have been trying to find and found out they were in Malboro Co., S.C. at one time, this gives me my S.C. location. She sent my letter to a Mrs. A.S. McSwain, Jr. in Waco, Texas whose husband is a descendant of Malcolm McSwain who was in Perry Co., Miss. and also in Marlboro Co., S.C. We feel sure he is a brother to Margaret McSwain Nicholson. She called me from Waco as soon as she got the letter and she is the one who gave the information to Mrs. Danley. I am sending you copies of what she sent me together with some other things I have found and a few suggestions, for what they might be worth, when you go to Salt Lake City. And it is something for both of us to try and find if at all possible.

I feel I have made a great step foreward with the information I received from Mrs. Danley and Mrs. McSwain and I have hopes of receiving more information from Mrs. McSwain. Would you believe the original documents I am sending you copies of were found in the attic in an old trunk of Malcolm McSwain in his old home place by a relative. You know the Perry Co. Records were destroyed when the courthouse burned, that is why it is so hard to do any research in Perry Co.

Mrs. Danley said she had corresponded with a Mr. John H. Nicholson, 1015 Ridge Tarn, Dunwoody, Ga. 30338, who has a great deal of information about Nicholsons. She says he could not connect the ones in MarlboroCo., S.C. and the ones in Richmond Co., N.C. with his line. His ancestors came over on the same ship as Mrs. Danley's ancestors, The Duke of Kent in 1802. You remember the ship Midlothian in the article I sent you about Nicholson in Skye coming to America. If you can find a record of these ships and their passengers while in Salt Lake City, you might find some valuable information.

Mrs. McSwain said they had a letter from a man in Skye, I have written asking her to send me a copy of the latter and his address if she has it. I would like to write him and find the names and addresses of some of the newspapers over there. I would like to place an ad, I might just find out something.

I think I will write Mr. John Nicholson in Ga. and see what information he might be able to give me.

Dear Mrs. Edwards: 2-19-81

Please excuse my delay in answering your last letter but I have had the flu but am about over it now.

I received your letter and the church records about a week or more after you called me on the phone. I sure appreciate your sending me a copy, if you would let me know the cost of copying it, I will be glad to pay you, I know this work can run into money in a hurry.

I am sending you a number of things I have collected don't know if they will be of any help. You asked about churches, the only thing I know about is the book Survey of American Church Records, 4th Ed. by E. Kay Kirkham, The Everton Pub., Inc., Logan, Utah.

I am going to write the person here in Texas about the McSween-McSwean-McSwain Family Assoc. you sent me. I did not know about this, perhaps I might receive some information on the McSwain family, thanks for sending it to me.

You mentioned Cape Fear, N.C.. The only thing I can find on the N.C. map is the Cape Fear River which runs into Wilmington, N.C. an on into the Coast. The town of Wilmington might be a place to look for naturalization papers. If we could find any naturalization papers on any of our families that would give us a place to start in Scotland for information over there. I have been trying to find the following books but have had no luck so far, maybe you can have better luck.
Federal Naturalization Oaths, Charleston, S.C., 1790-1860 by Marion R. Hemperly. --- Naturalization Oaths of Allegiance Granted in Superior Court, Savanna, Ga., 1790-1879 by Mrs. Olaf Otto. --- Scots and Scots Descendants in America, by Donald MacDougall, N.Y., 1917. --- "The Scottish Highlanders Going to Carolina." Celtic Magazine, I, (1875-76), pp. 142-147, John Darroch. --- " Highlanders from Skye in N.C. and Nova Scotia, 1771-1818." Scot. Gen. Magazine, XII, pp. 92-108, R.A. Logan.

Do you know anything about a book in the Library of Congreee entitled Nicholson and Allied Families, privately printed by Leora E. (N) Teetor. The American Historical Co., Inc., 1943, 263 pages. It says it contains biographical notes, genealogical tables, colored coat of arms and etc. I have not been able to locate the book. There is also a book I am trying to find, A History of Mississippi by Robert Lowry and Wm, H. McCardle, Jackson, Miss, R.H. Henry Co., 1891. I have been told it is a very good book and lists early settlers. It lists one of my great great grandfathers, Sanders Taylor, when he first appeared in Perry Co., Miss.

I should be getting a copy of the micro film from Ga. any day now. I feel like it will be of help to us, will ley you know if I find anything after looking at the film.

Will close for Sincerely this time. Best regards,

You mentioned going home. Do you folks still live in Miss?

Dear Mrs. Edwards:

I received your last letter and records for which I thank you. I do not know of any connection as of now but if we gather enough material some of it might fall into place.one of these days.

You certainly did me a big favor when you sent me the information about the McSween - McSwain organization with Mrs Marye McSwain Danley's address in Center, Texas. I had never heard of the organization. I wrote her and received some real information about my Peter Nicholson I have been trying to find and found out they were in Malboro Co., S.C. at one time, this gives me my S.C. location. She sent my letter to a Mrs. A.S. McSwain, Jr. in Waco, Texas whose husband is a descendant of Malcolm McSwain who was in Perry Co., Miss. and also in Marlboro Co., S.C. We feel sure he is a brother to Margaret McSwain Nicholson. She called me from Waco as soon as she got the letter and she is the one who gave the information to Mrs. Danley. I am sending you copies of what she sent me together with some other things I have found and a few suggestions, for what they might be worth, when you go to Salt Lake City. And it is something for both of us to try and find if at all possible.

I feel I have made a great step foreward with the information I received from Mrs. Danley and Mrs. McSwain and I have hopes of receiving more information from Mrs. McSwain. I think I will write Mr. John Nicholson in Ga. and see what information he might be able to give me.

I have a map of Perry Co. and from the deed you will find enclosed where Margaret Nicholson bought land from Matthew Grantham, Sr. of Greene Co., Ala. I was able to locate this land and it was also on Nicholson Creek and I believe not too far from the Carter Cemetery is located where Malcolm McSwain is buried, the one from Scotland.

Have you ever received the film you ordered? Did it give you any information? I received the film I mentioned I bought but haven't had an opportunity to look at it much, it takes so much time, will let you know if I find anything.

After reading about William R. Nicholson in Marengo Co., Ala. I looked at the only book on Ala. in the Graham Library, Early Settlers in Ala. and I found a Rev William R. Nicholson graduated from the La Grange College, no longer in existance, a Methodist College and that Rev. William R. Nicholson later became a Bishop in the Reformed Epis. Church. This makes me wonder if there might be some records in the Ala. counties bordering Miss.. I am going to look in the Fort Worth Library if I ever get down there again.

Looking forward to hearing from you soon. I believe together we just might find a lot of information about our families. With best regards, I remain.

H. P. Nicholson, Jr.

Sincerely,

Dear Mrs. Edwards:

I received your letters with all the materials you sent me and want to thank you for sending the information. Please excuse my delay in writing but have been rather busy and also hoping I might receive some new information to send you.

I have not been to Fort Worth yet and it will have to be when we have some cooler weather, I hope in September. My wife had open heart surgery in Dec. 1977 and has never completely recovered and she can not stand but very little hot weather. We thought we would go the first week in July but our daughter and her family took off for a two weeks vacation trip to Montana and it has been too hot since.

I am returning your booklet and thanks for sending it but I was not able to make any connection. Don't spend any time looking for McDonalds any more. I received a letter from a lady in Miss. who is a descendant of Hugh McDonald who was the first treasurer of Perry Co. after it became a Co. in 1820. He was the father of Mary Ann McDonald who married Roderick Nicholson. The lady also sent me a copy of Hugh McDonald's will, he died in Neshoba Co., Miss. His father was Angus McDonald and they were both from Scotland.

My main interest now is trying to find out more about Peter Nicholson and his wife Margaret McSwain, also Malcolm McSwain.

I recently looked at the Marion and Marlboro Co., S.C. 1850 census and found a Dr. James E. Easterling, age 24, in Georgetown and a W.R. Easterling, age 24 in Marlboro Co.. He was a medical student. There were other Easterlings in Marlboro Co. but I did not copy them. Do you know if your Easterlings came from Marlboro Co., S.C. or not?

I wrote Mr. Cook in Hattiesburg and received a letter from him and have written him again.

It would appear you have found your immigrant ancestor. I hope you have. I looked in my Gazetteer of Scotland but could not find Glenurchy but did find Glenorchy and I feel sure that is the place. It is in the county of Argyll.

I will close for now and hope I might have some new information the next time I write. Thanks again for all the materials you have sent me.

Sincerely,

W.P. Nicholson, Jr.

There is a lady who lives about four miles from us. She was a Nicholson, loved my Dawn. Her ancestors were from Scotland.

Dear Mrs. Edwards:

It was so nice to talk to you on the phone the other night. I have enjoyed very much your book you sent me and will return it soon. You have it so well organized. I have my information all through my filing cabinet.

You said you were receiving books on the counties of N.C. If you can find anything about Sanders Taylor, born in Johnston Co., N.C. also his father Rev. William Taylor and William Taylor, Rev. William Taylor's father. Also the names McSwain, Nicholson, Brown and Willis.

I noticed there were doctors and teachers in your family and that you taught school yourself. I taught school also but most of my 34 years in the school business was as aprincipal and superintendent. I planned to be a doctor and majored in science but was caught in the depression so started teaching and liked it so well I made it my career.

My son bought a Toyota dealership in Idaho several months ago and when we talked to them a short time ago he said one of his employee's came up to him and asked him if he had any information on the Nicholson family. My son told him that I was working on our family and asked him why the question. The person said either his mother or grandmother was a Nicholson and had done some work on the family. My son is going to try and get a copy of what she has done. I hope it will be of some help if I do receive the information.

I received a letter recently from the Stricklands and they are working on the tombstone inscriptions of Greene Co., Miss. They hope to have the book out sometime in March. We correspond some and they have helped me a number of times.

I certainly would like to find the connection with Peter Nicholson and Joseph R. Brown and William R, Nicholson of Marengo Co., Ala, who gave power of attorney to Morgan G. Brown to receive their part of Peter Nicholson's Estate. I also have information that at the same time that John and James Nicholson of Marlboro Co., S.C. appointed Giles Newton of Marlboro Co. with power of attorney to secure their part of the Estate of Peter Nicholson of Perry Co., Miss.

I recently sent Mr. Cook some information I had on the McLeans. He wrote me that some of the information helped him. I was glad to be able to help him. I am sending you some information on my family, Taylors and Nicholsons. I will try to get some more to you later. The information I sent you about the Estate of Peter Nicholson in 1819 and 1820 is as far back as I have been able to go with him.

Have you ever looked at the 1900 census of Perry Co.,Miss.? I have and was not able to find any Nicholsons. It seems they all left Perry Co. and then some returned. There are a number of Nicholsons living there now.

If you ever run accross any information about Washington S. Nicholson and his sister Sarah Ann Nicholson, please send me the information. The last I have on them is the 1850 census of Marshall Co., Miss. At some later date

Candace and her two oldest sons, James S. and Peter Nicholson returned to Caddo and DeSoto Parish, La. but I have been unable to find anything on Washington S. and Sarah Ann.

Will close for this time and thanks again for sending your book for me to read. With best regards.

H. C. Nicholson Jr.

P.S. Please excuse the delay in sending this to you. I thought sure I would send it last week but we have had some real bad weather and we live about 23 miles from the post office in Graham. When the weather gets real bad I do not try to get out.

By the way in your book I saw where the name "Nick" was used. I have been called Nick all my adult life.

Send me your telephone number, I might find some information I want to call you about. Call me collect if you want to discuse something with me.
